INSANITY CLAIM SEEN IF MASSIE ADMITS KILLING

Darrow Indicates Officer May Enter Plea When He Takes Stand.

WOMEN SHED TEARS AS HE BARES ATTACK

Mrs. Fortescue Shakes Hand of Lieutenant as Latter Closes Testimony.

Honolulu, April 14 (A.P.).—Indicating Lieut. Thomas H. Massie would admit killing Joseph Kahahawai to avenge a criminal attack on his wife and would plead insanity, Clarence Darrow, defense leader, put the accused Navy officer on the stand today as his first move to clear four persons of a second degree murder charge.

Massie told of the assault on his wife, apparently laying the background for the story of the lynching. He came to the stand after the prosecution had closed its case with the testimony of Mrs. Esther Anito, mother of the slain athlete.

Pale and with downcast eyes, Massie told his story while his mother-in-law and codefendant, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, sobbed.

After Massie had answered questions about his birth in Winchester, Ky., his marriage to Mrs. Fortescue's daughter and his remembrance of the night of last September 12, when his wife was seized and assaulted, allegedly by Kahahawai and four other men, Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley interrupted him.

Insanity Plea Indicated.

Kelley demanded to know whether the defense was going to bring the Massie attack into the lynching case, and if so, whether it would plead insanity in behalf of the defendants.

Darrow answered affirmatively and Massie's story went on.

Darrow had Massie repeatedly refer to his state of mind after the attack. The young lieutenant's face often was distorted as if in pain as he talked. As he stepped from the witness chair at the end of the session Mrs. Fortescue went forward quickly and grasped his hand. He smiled weakly.

Massie testified he was 27 years old and that he was married when 22 and his wife 16. Then he plunged into the story which the defense has steadfastly withheld since Massie, Mrs. Fortescue, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones were arrested on the day of the killing, January 8.

The lieutenant said there was a crowd at the inn where Mrs. Massie and he had gone with friends to a dance the night of the attack.

"Was there any drinking?" Darrow asked.

"Yes, sir."

Massie Tells of Assault.

Leaving the inn, Massie said, he went to the Rigby home but his wife was not there. "I did not know what to think," he said, "so I called my own home."

"Mrs. Massie," he continued, "answered the phone, and recognizing my voice, said 'Come home at once; something horrible has happened.'

"I jumped in a car and rushed

Australia's Labor Rule Is Upset by Coalition

Melbourne, Australia, April 14 (A.P.).—Defeat on a vote of confidence in the State Legislature led the Labor government today to request dissolution. General elections will be held next month.

The government was overthrown by a coalition after the opposition expressed dissatisfaction with the reply of Thomas Tunnicliffe, acting premier, when he was asked if the government was fully ready to support the economy plan drawn up last year in the national conference of premiers. Premier E. J. Logan is leader of the Labor government, which went into power June, 1930.

Col. Sillman, Manila Capture Hero, Is Dead

San Francisco, April 14 (A.P.).—Col. Robert H. Sillman, hero of the capture of Manila and commander of the Twenty-seventh Infantry in Siberia during the World War, died today at the Letterman General Hospital, on the San Francisco Presidio.

Col. Sillman retired last June. He entered the Army during the Spanish-American War with the Astor Battery of New York. During the attack on Manila there was a call for volunteers to storm a Spanish blockhouse and he was the first to respond. He was seriously wounded. His valor won him the Distinguished Service Cross. His widow, Mrs. Virginia Sillman, survives.

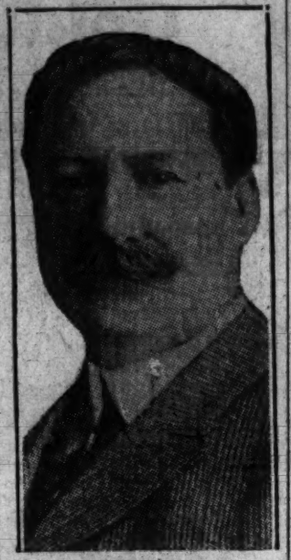
DETECTIVE DIES



WILLIAM J. BURNS.

WILLIAM J. BURNS, DETECTIVE, IS DEAD

Baltimore Native Was World Figure; Served Under H. M. Daugherty.

Sarasota, Fla., April 14 (A.P.).—William J. Burns, world-famed detective, died at his home here tonight.

Mr. Burns, who was probably the most famous individual in the detective business during his active years, died suddenly. He was 70 years old, a native of Baltimore, and spent much of his early life in Ohio.

He founded the detective agency bearing his name and was director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice from 1921 to 1924.

(Associated Press.)

As chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice during the Harding and part of the Coolidge administrations, William J. Burns, who died last night in Sarasota, Fla., figured prominently in the Teapot Dome oil scandals.

He was appointed to the post in 1921 by Attorney General Daugherty after making a national reputation as head of the private detective agency which bears his name. In 1911 he had figured in the sensational dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times Building.

Soon after entering the department he was bitterly attacked for general raids upon "reds" and radicals. In

Town in California In Epidemic's Grip

600 in Santa Paula Have Mysterious Malady; Water Tests Made.

Santa Paula, Calif., April 14 (A.P.). An estimate that 600 residents of Santa Paula are suffering from a mysterious malady was made today by county officials attempting to solve the cause of the disease.

Officials said that 223 school children are ill and although an exact count of adults is not possible, they estimated nearly 400 are receiving treatment.

The illness, an infection of the digestive system, at first was believed caused by poisonous sprays used on vegetables to kill insects. Officials said they had abandoned this theory and were working on the belief that water from the Santa Paula creek had caused spread of the malady. Water tests are under way, but officials do not expect to have a definite report until tomorrow.

BUDGET SLICED, BILLS BY MAPES SEEN UNNEEDED

Voting $39,913,810, or Cut of $4,173,109, Is Approved.

HOUSE UNIT REJECTS HOOVER'S AID PLAN

Commission's Meter Order Would Be Voided Under Accepted Proposal.

A District bill so closely clipped as to obviate all need for the $4,000,000 Mapes taxation program was submitted to Congress yesterday by the House District appropriations subcommittee. Based on a $6,500,000 Federal contribution, the measure appropriates only $39,913,810 after a $4,173,109 pruning.

But the House economists apparently were taking no chances on the drastic Mapes program getting held up in the Senate. They so trimmed estimates that even with the $3,000,000 cut in Federal funds, which the Mapes tax bills were designed to make up, there will be a balanced budget.

"With this decrease in appropriations there will be sufficient income to meet the estimated expenditures for 1933 and provide a small surplus," was the way the committee put it.

The slash in the Federal contribution "would have the effect of requiring the raising of additional revenue from District sources were it not for the fact that the committee in the preparation of this bill has reduced the budget estimates of appropriations chargeable against the general revenues of the District by $3,800,000," Chairman Clarence Cannon explained. If the Mapes bills pass, the District will have $4,000,000 more, and nowhere to spend it.

Attack on Patrick.

House consideration of the bill opened yesterday with a turbulent attack on Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, and his order requiring all District taxicabs to equip themselves with meters.

It ended with the House unanimously adopting a resolution prohibiting use of any portion of Public Utilities Commission appropriations "for the preparation, publication or issuance of any order or regulation requiring installation of meters on taxicabs."

If the provision is approved when the bill goes to the Senate the effect

Irish to Present Bill Shortly to Drop Oath

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 14 (A.P.).—A bill to remove the oath of allegiance to the British king from the constitution of the Irish Free State will be introduced in the Dail Eireann next Wednesday, the government announced today.

Its passage seems virtually assured. Doubt that President Eamon de Valera's government would be able to muster sufficient votes to carry the proposed measure through the Dail appeared dispelled by a speech of Patrick Hogan, deputy speaker of the chamber, who indicated that the Labor party would support it.

'Lame Duck' Resolution Favored in Rhode Island

Providence, R. I., April 14 (A.P.).—The House of Representatives today passed in concurrence the resolution ratifying the "lame duck" amendment to the Federal constitution.

Friendly Receivership of Insull Firm Asked

Subsidiaries Are Not Affected by Action on Middle West.

Chicago, April 14 (A.P.).—Action looking toward friendly receivership for the Middle West Utilities Co., $3,000,000,000 Insull holding concern, was begun in Federal court today.

The Lincoln Printing Co., of Chicago, with concurrence of Samuel Insull and officials of Middle West, was the petitioner on an $8,000 creditor's claim.

Samuel Insull, in a statement issued in connection with the filing, emphasized that the utility operating companies, which are subsidiaries of Middle West, are in no way affected by the receivership and will operate independently, financing themselves as heretofore.

Judge James H. Wilkerson will hear the motion tomorrow.

The receivership, Mr. Insull said in his statement, will protect both the

NEWS ON BABY HUNT WITHHELD BY POLICE

Significance Is Attached to Announcement; 'Jafsie' Off on Secret Trip.

Norfolk, Va. (Friday), April 15 (A.P.)—John Hughes Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, two of the Norfolk intermediaries seeking the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, returned to Norfolk early today and gave out the following statement:

"We are continuing to work on the case. During our absence from Norfolk we have conferred four times with Col. Lindbergh at Hopewell. Regret we can not give any further information at this time."

Hopewell, N. J., April 14 (A.P.).—The necessity of silence and secrecy for a successful conclusion of efforts to regain their kidnaped son was reemphasized tonight in a personal statement from Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

"Mrs. Lindbergh and I," said the statement, "want to express our great appreciation to those members of the press who in many instances have given us their cooperation, often to their own disadvantage.

"It is still of utmost importance for us and our representatives to move about without being questioned or followed and we are again requesting the complete cooperation of all members of the press to this end.

"CHARLES A. LINDBERGH."

The statement was issued through police.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State police superintendent, said he had been requested not to answer questions about "contacts established or reestablished," with the kidnapers because publication of such facts "would probably interfere with negotiations."

Significance was attached to the statement because police several days

New Zealand Idle Riot; 123 Injured

Store Windows Smashed; Damage Is $500,000; Reserves Called.

Auckland, New Zealand (Friday), April 15 (A.P.).—Royal Naval Reserves were called out today and two squadrons of mounted volunteers were brought into Auckland as a precautionary measure after fierce rioting by the unemployed last night.

Riot and bloodshed spread terror when hundreds of jobless men and women clashed with the police and turned a peaceful parade against civil service pay cuts into a vicious battle.

Queen street, main business thoroughfare, became a stretch of smashed and looted shops. It looked as if it had undergone shellfire.

One hundred civilians and 23 police were injured before the combined efforts of Marines from H. M. S. Philomel, police, the fire department and private citizens succeeded in quelling the riots and restoring order.

It was estimated that $85,000 worth of plate glass windows were shattered, while the total damage to property was placed at $500,000.

Harris Is Improving After Turn for Worse

(Associated Press.)

Senator Harris, of Georgia, dangerously ill with an intestinal ailment, was described at his home late yesterday afternoon as having improved slightly in the last few hours.

His respiration and pulse at shortly before 5 p. m. were reported better than they were earlier in the day when physicians expressed concern at a sudden turn for the worse.

SENATE UNIT VOTES TO PUSH BEAR QUIZ

Demand to Broaden Inquiry to Include Whole Mart Is Withdrawn.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Yielding to an insistent Nation-wide demand for a thoroughgoing investigation of alleged bear raiding on the New York Stock Exchange, the Senate banking and currency committee decided yesterday to continue with the investigation next week along the lines set out last Monday and Tuesday, when the entire influence of the committee was centered upon the single question of abnormal and unwholesome bear operations.

The decision signalizes the withdrawal by some committee members of their demand that the inquiry be broadened to general inquisition on the stock exchange. It means also that Samuel Untermeyer, celebrated big-stick prosecutor for the Pujo committee and histrionic nemesis of the "money trust," will not be called to Washington to dramatize the short-selling investigation into congressional sideshow.

After examining the preliminary material submitted early this week by Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, and while awaiting additional statistics on April short selling, the committee voted yesterday to allow the sponsors of the investigation an opportunity to make their point before pressing for the customary senatorial head hunt.

Some of the insurgent members of the committee expressed dissatisfaction after the two-day examination of Mr. Whitney early this week. Nothing had been accomplished, they asserted. Yesterday's meeting developed, however, that several of these members had not examined the statistics and tables which Mr. Whitney left with the committee. This material related exclusively to short selling.

In the minds of several members,

Atlantic Conference to Be Reestablished, Cuts Go to 50 Per Cent.

London, April 14 (A.P.).—Members of the North Atlantic Shipping Conference met here today, presumably to consider proposals for curtailment of the passenger service. A statement was expected tomorrow at the close of the conference. After today's meeting a statement was issued which said:

"After a full discussion it was unanimously agreed that the Atlantic conference shall be reestablished forthwith, thereby stabilizing fares on the basis of recently reduced rates. The discussion on points arising out of this reestablishment will be continued tomorrow."

The alignment of the North Atlantic lines was affected last month when most French, American, German, and British shipping companies reduced their passenger rates from 20 to 50 per cent, and decided in most instances not to put on higher rates for the tourist season, a usual procedure in the past.

GROUP IN HOUSE FAILS TO AGREE ON SAVING PLAN

White House's Omnibus Bill Is Waited to Renew Work.

FURLOUGH-PAY CUTS DEADLOCK UNBROKEN

Opposition to Wage Slashing Spreads to Senate; Delay in Economy Hit.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The House economy committee adjourned in stormy disagreement on retrenchment issues last night after announcing definite postponement of pay-cut action pending preparation of a White House bill embracing all projected economies.

Chairman John McDuffie will delay salary slash action until Tuesday, he said last night. If by then the omnibus measure is not drafted, and members not agreed on that, he will demand a House vote on the rule giving preference to his pay reduction plan.

Bitter debate, centering about the Hoover plan of one blanket bill, instead of the several proposed by the committee, held the economy committee in turmoil until adjournment was taken at 6 o'clock last evening.

Two Methods Debated.

Conflicting salary plans, including the Hoover Federal furlough proposal, with five-day week features, and the committee 11 per cent reduction, with $1,000 exemption, were thrashed back and forth. Members were poles apart. Chairman McDuffie was not in a pleasant mood when he left the committee room.

A program for savings approaching $80,000,000 through readjustment of regulations governing Federal payments to former service men, was credited to President Hoover last night.

Under this plan no one making an income tax return of $1,500 if single, and $400 additional for each dependent, except those suffering from combat disabilities, would be entitled to any allowance or pension or free hospitalization.

No person receiving a Federal, State or municipal salary above these same figures would get allowance or pension, and no one getting free treatment or subsistence in a Government institution would receive more than $20 a month.

Features of Plan.

Features of the plan include the following:

Six months service prior to November 11, 1918, and actual war disability, would be required of emergency officers. Payments would be eliminated where persons were under examination for claim against the Government. Suits against the Government under the World War veterans' act would operate under procedure modified so as to require review of decision on basis of evidence presented before the administration.

The outburst of antipay cut sentiment that followed the program postponement spread from House to Senate, where Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, expressed unqualified disapproval of any reduction in Government salaries under $3,000. Heated Senate debate was precipitated by efforts to sink the McKellar 10 per cent ax in the Treasury-Postoffice appropriations bill, which carries $180,000,000 for Federal construction projects employing thousands.

Senator Ashhurst (Democrat), Arizona; Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, and others rallied to the

DEMOCRATS VEXED AS LEADERS CLASH

Some Feel Smith's Enmity May Hurt Chances of Roosevelt.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A bit scared in some cases, Democrats were looking beyond the Chicago national convention yesterday. They were looking ahead to the November presidential election itself, their thoughts having been thus projected by Alfred E. Smith.

The redoubtable Al, in his already celebrated Jefferson Day speech, implied that his old comrade in arms, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was a "demagogue," and he threatened to take off his coat and vest and fight him to the "bitter end." Most people got the impression that those two garments already were off.

In the past, Al Smith's opposition seems to have been a help to Roosevelt. From the day that Smith announced that he was a receptive candidate there was a rush for the Roosevelt band wagon. Now the Roosevelt boosters are saying that Smith's latest blast will have the same effect, especially in the South and West.

What some of the more thoughtful Democrats are asking themselves, however, is this: Suppose that Roosevelt is nominated, how will he fare in the election with Al Smith's animosity hanging over him?

They ask themselves particularly how he will fare in the East, where he is now weakest. What would hap-

Roosevelt Refuses Place as Delegate

Cites 'Political Delicacy' in Attending Convention in New York Group.

Albany, N. Y., April 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt said tonight on the eve of the meeting of the Democratic State committee that he would not go as a delegate to the Chicago convention which will consider him for the presidential nomination.

The committee will meet here tomorrow to select a slate of delegates at large and complete the organization of New York's delegation which, with its 94 votes, will form the largest block of the convention.

Gov. Roosevelt set at rest reports that he would attend the convention as a delegate at large with a brief declaration that because of "political delicacy" he could not permit his friends to present his name tomorrow

BOMB BELIEVED CAUSE OF OHIO BLAST AS 5 DIE

Death List Is Expected to Mount in Debris of State House.

QUIZ BEGUN IN WRECK OF $6,000,000 EDIFICE

Structure Hub of 2 Years of Labor Rows; Resembles Demolished Fort.

Columbus, Ohio, April 14 (A.P.).—A terrific explosion shattered and twisted Ohio's new $6,000,000 State Office Building here late today, killing five men and injuring at least 57 others.

A careful check-up of working lists by contractors late tonight revealed one known workman missing. Whether others were buried in the debris could not be determined for at least another twelve hours.

As soon as fire that followed in the wake of the blast was extinguished, every agency at the command of the State was bent toward determining the cause of the disaster.

Gas Theory Discarded.

Aided by county and city authorities, State officials gathered at the scene of the blast and opened a probe in an effort to determine the cause.

Workmen and fire department officials were agreed that the explosion was not caused by natural or sewer gas, and some officers expressed the belief that a bomb of some sort may have spread death and destruction in the nearly completed white marble thirteen-story structure.

One fire department official, familiar with explosives, said it seemed to him that nitro-glycerine had been set off in the southeast basement of the building.

Magnificent Building.

A large part of the beautiful structure, which stands in downtown Columbus fronting on the Scioto River, resembled a war-torn fort tonight.

Rescue crews stumbled about inside the shattered piles of white Georgia marble attempting to clear out the wrecked lower floors and basement to bring out missing victims.

All the dead and injured are thought to be workmen engaged in putting the finishing touches to the structure, one of the most beautiful from an architectural standpoint in the capital.

Bronze Doors Dislocated.

It was determined that more than 100 men were in the building when the blast ripped upward and outward from the basement and first floor and hurled great slabs of white marble into the air. So terrific was it that the heavy ornamental bronze doors of the building were wrenched from their hinges and steel window frames torn from the casings.

Vivid and horrible pictures of the blast were painted by survivors. They said the explosion, centering in the southwest corner of the building, lifted a section of the west wall 25 feet high and 200 feet long into the air. Great slabs of marble sailed out over the Scioto River.

The blast was followed by dense clouds of smoke, which billowed forth from the gaping hole and shattered windows. The building has been a constant cause of political and labor bickering ever since it was first thought of in 1913.

Covers Entire Block.

Designed to house all of the offices of the State, with the exception of those of the governor's office, the adjutant general's department, the secretary of state, treasury and auditor and the various subdivisions of

New War in Asia Looming, Britons Ask for Protection

Missionaries at Changchow Are Reported Evacuating as Communist Troops Converge on City in Retreat From Nanking Government Soldiers.

Shanghai, April 14 (A.P.).—War and preparations for war in two spots far removed from Shanghai stirred China today, and "Communism" dotted dispatches describing the conflicts.

The two spots were Harbin, Manchuria, and Amoy, Cantonese China, almost equidistant from Shanghai, Amoy being about 850 miles southwest, and Harbin about 900 miles northwest.

Dispatches from Harbin told of increasing opposition to the new state of Manchoukuo, and stressed that Gen. Mah Chan Shan had withdrawn his support from the Japanese-sponsored Henry Pu-Yi, and had established headquarters on Soviet Russian territory.

He intends to attack Manchoukuo from the north, it is said, and at present is at Blagoveschensk, Siberia, just across the river from his former capital, Heilungkiang, in the state of Heilungkiang, Manchuria.

Korean and Chinese Communists were reported assisting Chinese irregulars throughout northeastern Heilungkiang.

These dispatches apparently were confirmed by the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency correspondent at Harbin who said that Chinese rebels in Kirin had captured the town of Pogranitchnaya, in Kirin province on the Soviet Russian border. Japanese cavalry was sent up to Imienpo, 150 miles away.

Amoy dispatches said Chinese Red armies in Fukien Province, against whom the Nanking government recently sent large bodies of troops in an effort to head off civil war, were converging on Changchow in retreat.

Faith Firm Despite Crisis, Mellon Says in London Talk

Hails New Era in First Public Address as Ambassador; Drinks Champagne Toasts to King George and President Hoover.

London, April 14 (A.P.).—Hailing a new era, Andrew W. Mellon, America's Ambassador to Great Britain, tonight told the Pilgrims Society there was nothing in world conditions so unprecedented as to justify a lack of faith "in our capacity to deal with them."

This was the first public address as ambassador of the man who made millions in business and then administered the United States Treasury under three Presidents.

He spoke before a distinguished audience of 400 or more, including the Prince of Wales, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Lord Derby, who presided.

Before his address the ambassador drank toasts in champagne to King George and the President of the United States, in accordance with his previously expressed intention to conform to the customs of the country to which he had been named ambassador.

Those Englishmen who had hoped for some indication that Mr. Mellon's mission to Great Britain was to arrange the revision, perhaps the cancellation of war debts, were disappointed. He did not refer to the subject in his address.

The ambassador reaffirmed his faith in "capitalism, or whatever name may be applied to the system which has been evolved in adapting individual initiative to the machine age." In discussing the way out of the present economic difficulties, he declared, "I do not believe in any quick or spectacular remedies for the

DEMOCRATS JOCKEY ON TAX, MILLS SAYS

Secretary Charges Political Maneuvers at Finance Committee Hearing.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Democrats are jockeying for political advantage in considering the billion dollar tax increase bill, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills declared in the course of a duel of words with Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, before the Senate finance committee yesterday.

Secretary Mills had been invited to appear again before the committee because Senator Harrison charged he sought to evade responsibility for the administration by refusing to submit a detailed tax program to the committee. Well advertised, the clash was staged before a crowded committee room and the largest turnout of senators since the committee began hearings last week.

The Treasury head sharply challenged the charge he was seeking to evade responsibility for a definite and specific tax program, and said that the Treasury had gone out of its way to assume responsibility in its desire to help draft a well-thought-out and balanced tax measure.

Urges Nonpartisan Work.

"As far as I am concerned there will be no partisanship and no shirking of responsibility," he said. "I believe that the way to proceed is to lay aside all partisanship, to sit around this table with one single thought in mind, the national interest, and with an unequivocal willingness to share the responsibility, and I may add, whatever degree of unpopularity may come from the imposition of additional taxes in times such as these."

Mr. Mills said that the Treasury stood on the tax program it submitted to the ways and means committee with some "minor modifications."

Senator Harrison objected that elimination of the retroactive income tax provision meant a loss of $107,000,000 in prospective revenue, and therefore the program wouldn't balance the budget. Mr. Mills said now that something seemed about to be done toward Government economy he would raise his former estimate of a saving of $118,000,000 to $200,000,000, which would leave only $25,000,000 needed, and that could be got and more by a tax on wort and malt to yield $35,000,000.

Wants Tobacco Tax Boost.

Going through the program item by item, Senator Harrison asked whether he insisted on the proposed increased tobacco tax, and Mr. Mills said "Yes; I insist on it." He said he would want to modify his proposed 7 per cent tax on domestic consumption of gas and electricity, estimated to produce $94,000,000. Well, persisted Senator Harrison, how much would he modify it? To produce between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000, Mr. Mills replied. Thus it went down through each item.

"What are we doing here this afternoon, seeking information on the tax bill, or trying to make a political record?" Secretary Mills finally inquired, with sarcasm. "Just what is it you want? I'm beginning to suspect, but I don't know."

Senator Harrison said he wanted to know if he would give the committee a complete and specific program.

"Yes; I will again," Mr. Mills said.

Two requests were made. One was that he submit a complete Treasury program. The second was that he take the bill passed by the House and take out what he didn't like and substitute taxes he approved of.

"Do you think that's a fair way?" interjected Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader.

Tariff Subject Up.

"Of course not," emphatically said Mr. Ellis, "but I'll rewrite the House bill in its entirety, if you want me to, but it won't be the Treasury program. It will be the Harrison program. I'm going to report back a Harrison bill.

"Why all this shouting about the matter," inquired Senator Robert M. La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin, "if you're only going to take one little item out here and plug up the hole with another little item?"

Senator Cordell Hull (Democrat), of Tennessee, brought up the subject of tariff in the bill, and Secretary Mills said he had no illusions about the character of the oil and coal tariffs put in by the House.

Tariff in Revenue Bill.

Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, proponent of an oil tariff, also sought to get Mr. Mills to express an opinion about the propriety of including a tariff in the revenue bill. The Secretary refused to do so. Senator Connally said "You seem already to have done so, and it didn't hurt your soul, did it?"

"No," agreed Mr. Mills, "because I'm a protectionist, but it must wring the hearts of some of the members of your party."

Responding to questions by Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, Mr. Mills said that he would modify the House bill by doing away with the net loss restriction, the tax on dividends, substituting 1920 rates on inheritances and modification of gift rates eliminating the one-quarter per cent tax on stock transfers, but would keep the income tax rates in the bill.

Levi Cook, Washington attorney, representing the near beer industry, urged the committee to increase the tax on wort, which he said was used in illicit beer making, which had cut down near beer consumption. Consumption of illicit beer ran into the millions of gallons, Mr. Cook said. He described the makers of it as "alley brawers." Senator Samuel Shortridge (Republican), of California, suggested that it "isn't ntoxicating, is it?"

"It is," replied Mr. Cook, "unless others have stronger powers of resistance than I."

Other Taxes Opposed.

Richard E. Lee, of New York, general counsel of the National Council of Business Mail Users; Leonard J. Raymond, of Boston, representing the Direct Mail Advertising Association, and James S. Wiley of New York, representing the Envelope Manufacturers Association, opposed the increase in postage rates.

Harry S. Joseph, of Salt Lake City, Utah, urged a tariff on copper. Mr. Cook, representing match manufacturers, opposed the tax on matches. E. G. Buckland, of New Haven, Conn., representing the Association of Railway Executives, wanted railroads exempted from the 1½ per cent additional corporation consolidated income return. M. J. Julien, of New York, representing the Better Vision Institute, wanted eyeglasses exempted from the jewelry tax.

By JOHN J. DALY

THE American bandmasters are in town for their convention, and all the bands in all the cities, towns and hamlets of the Nation are leaderless.

Not a cornet will sound its A nor a trap-drum beat during the absence of the bandmasters, for there is this about a band: It can not play unless the boss is on the stand, baton in hand. That is, it can not play with any degree of harmony, with every man for himself.

No leader, no band.

Sad days these, back in the towns and villages. A town without a band is like an empty bottle of prewar Haig & Haig. The spirit is gone.

* * * *

SO the bandmasters had better hurry up and get through with their convention, go on home, each to his own parish, and strike up the band.

Not that Washington doesn't want the bandmasters! Washington does. The old town has a soft spot in its heart for bandmasters, having given the world the greatest of them all, John Philip Sousa. And though he is not present with all the great leaders of bands—Arthur Pryor, Edwin Franko Goldman, Charlie Benter, Taylor Branson, and his old friend, Herbert Clark, the champion cornetist of all time—over the convention broods the spirit of Sousa, his soul marching on to the glorious strains of magical music, "The Washington Post March" leading 'em all.

* * * *

EVEN at that, the bandmasters must get back to their bands. Silence on the parade grounds, not a sound from the rehearsal rooms, America is lost without the banging of the big bass drum and the trilling of the piccolo.

No, much as the National Capital wants to see the bandmasters in action, it must make the sacrifice and send them scurrying home to their deserted villages and towns, where not a toot of a flute punctuates the stillness of the air, save for the cacophony of jazz bands without leaders—and, if they had leaders, they wouldn't follow them, jazz being just that; lack of direction.

Strike for home, men, and strike up the band.

DISTRICT'S APPROPRIATIONS CUT BY HOUSE COMMITTEE of the commission's meter order will be nullified.

A motion to strike out $1,500,000 in Municipal Center funds went over until today, when Chairman Cannon, unable to dissuade Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, from pressing the motion, forced an adjournment.

Although no construction funds were provided, the committee's estimate asked $900,000 from unexpended balances for completing purchase of a site, and $600,000 for grading and paving of streets and relocation of District owned utilities.

Representative Stafford declared he could "see no merit in buying dilapidated buildings when real estate prices are as high as they are now." He said he would not oppose the project if construction work was proposed, "giving men jobs."

The bill as reported turned down President Hoover's request for reallocation of $600,000 of the municipal center funds for local unemployment relief.

"Employment conditions in the District of Columbia are better than in any other comparable city by reason of the fact that the main industry of the District is Federal Government business, and the net decrease of Government employed personnel in the District has been very slight," the report stated.

Supported by 65 Groups.

"The committee is of the opinion that those interested in this item did not justify the present need of the proposed appropriation, which was supported to a large degree by the paid employes of several of the 65 organizations that participate in the funds collected by the Community Chest."

The bill was literally "cut to the bone." Virtually every item was hit, numerous jobs eliminated and additional positions created only in the schools, where 24 of the 66 new teachers required were taken from kindergarten work and given teaching assignments in the grades.

The pay increase ban, which was written into all of the House appropriations bills and as promptly stricken in the Senate, was inserted in the measure. In view of House-Senate conference action on the agriculture appropriations bill, striking this restriction, it is doubtful whether it will hold.

Also included is the provision for no filling of vacancies without consent of the President. The section was rewritten by the agriculture appropriations conferees, and probably will remain in the bill $11,938,808 for Schools.

The committee recommended $11,938,808 for school appropriations, $1,577,752 less than the 1932 appropriation and $592,107 under the budget figure. Inserted in the schools item was a section prohibiting free instruction of nonresident pupils in District schools. This alone is expected to result in a saving of $225,000.

All construction costs were hit. School building appropriations were reduced from $1,586,000 to $1,451,000. Budget recommendation of $250,000 for construction of a P street bridge over Rock Creek was thrown out, but the $300,000 for Benning Bridge was allowed.

The committee also eliminated the $75,000 estimate for beginning construction of the Georgetown Branch Library, $818,220 in street and road improvements, and funds for the proposed sewage treatment plant.

The usual appropriation for mosquito eradication work was cut in half. Fire Department employes denied appropriations for shirts and ties, and funds eliminated for use of private automobiles in public work.

Others Thrown Out.

Important items thrown out included appropriations for the widening and repaving of Constitution avenue from North Capitol to Sixth street and $15,000 for surveys in connection with proposed construction of viaducts over the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at Michigan avenue and New Hampshire avenue.

Elimination of the following street paving projects is called for under the bill:

Good Hope road, Minnesota avenue to Naylor road; Sixteenth street, Irving to Lawrence streets; Varnum street, Tenth to Twelfth streets; Fourth street, Franklin street to Michigan avenue; Third street, Sheridan to Underwood streets; Tuckerman street, Eighth street to Georgia avenue; Piney Branch road, Georgia avenue to Van Buren street; Dahlia street, Georgia avenue to Ninth street; Hamilton street, Thirteenth to Fourteenth streets; Forty-third street, Jenifer street to Military road; Ingomar street, Forty-second street to Wisconsin avenue; Waterside drive, Massachusetts avenue, south; Fifteenth street, Florida avenue to Euclid street.

"Having in mind the necessity for reduced expenditures, the committee has eliminated new items wherever possible and has also denied the establishment of new positions except in cases of utmost urgency," the report read.

"Particular consideration has been given to proposed items for new construction, and in most cases the committee has found it possible to postpone such projects without seriously interfering with the welfare and needs of the District."

Far from granting the Roosevelt High School additional funds for a stadium, requested by a delegation of citizens representative of virtually every civic group in the city, the committee cut $35,000 from the budget estimate of $135,000 "for completion of construction and improvement of grounds."

The $315,000 original providing for construction of the Jefferson Junior High School was reallocated on recommendation of the Budget Bureau to erect a trade school for colored children at Twenty-fourth street and Benning road northeast.

The bill as drawn by the subcommittee proposed to strike the salaries of Public Utilities Commissioner Patrick and William A. Roberts, counsel for the commission, as a retaliatory measure for their refusal to comply with a House resolution asking rescinding of their order requiring taxicab installation of meters. These two provisions were eliminated at a meeting of the full appropriations committee yesterday when the group decided upon the substitute procedure of taking taxicab meter authority out of their hands by legislation.

Attacked by Holaday.

Prior to House adoption of the alternative amendment, Gen. Patrick was under fire by Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois; Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, and others, for his failure to comply with the House request.

Mr. Holaday asserted Gen. Patrick had "disregarded the public interest" and was "planning to throw 700 men out of work" by catering to the requests of two local taxicab companies for a "monopoly." Mr. Blanton said he would discourage visitors from coming to Washington under the taxicab regime proposed by Gen Patrick. Other members charged that abolition of the zone system was "unfair to Bicentennial visitors."

Cavalry Captain Is Injured.

A hit and run driver yesterday brushed past the mount of Capt. Claude O Burch, Headquarters Company, Third Cavalry, Fort Myer, as he was returning from maneuvers at Fort Humphreys. The officer was removed to Walter Reed Hospital with a fractured ankle. His condition is not serious.

HOUSE BONUS VOTE APPEARS ASSURED

Virtually Conceded Following Committee Hearing Held Under Police Guard.

(Associated Press.)

A House vote on cashing the $2,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus virtually was conceded yesterday by Democratic leaders.

After another ways and means committee hearing—held under police guard because of disorders created by a Communist group—Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, said:

"A House vote seems assured. Advocates claim enough votes to pass the bill. Maybe they have them, but I believe the opponents are making headway."

Even then, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board and chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was assailing the plan for issuing new currency to pay the bonus as "dangerous."

Statement by Stevens.

Issuance of $2,400,000,000 in currency, Meyer told a banking subcommittee, "would be most unfortunate from the point of view of the masses of the people of the country."

From Indianapolis came a statement by Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, reiterating his view that the Detroit convention delivered "a clear and unmistakable" mandate against the bonus.

"It authorizes no action, but clearly restrains the American Legion from asking for the immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates," Stevens said.

Fight Being Pushed.

Both Democratic and Republican spokesmen made clear every effort still is being made to stop the bonus. Polls have been taken, but are considered inconclusive. One prominent Democrat said "it depends on how much pressure is applied" when a petition to bring the question to the floor is filed.

Committee testimony in behalf of the bonus jumped suddenly from a scholarly, classroom lecture on money and economics by Prof. Williford I. King, of New York University, to a blunt interruption by representatives of the Workers Ex-Service Men's League which caused Acting Chairman Crisp to call uniformed police to keep order.

When King concluded nearly two hours of testimony, Samuel J. Stenber, of the Workers' organization, demanded a hearing "after waiting for four days." Crisp banged his gavel and said that order would be maintained. The committee had designated Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, to present the bonus case.

Police Are Called.

When Stenber persisted Crisp again rapped his gavel and directed the clerk to call police. Stenber and his group, which included J. W. Ford, a Negro, who said he was a candidate for the Vice Presidency on the Communist ticket, then left the chamber, but shortly returned and sat quietly in the rear.

Later Crisp allowed each ten minutes' time, explaining the clerk had promised them a hearing. Both read long prepared statements urging the bonus payment and condemning Congress for failure to enact unemployment relief. Except when Stenber charged Stevens with lying—a statement Crisp ordered expunged from the record—they were not interrupted.

Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, yesterday recommended to the House military committee a modification of the disabled emergency officers retirement act.

Previously, David O. Smith of the Veterans Bureau, testifying on the Blanton resolution to repeal the disabled emergency officers retirement act, said less than one thousand had been estimated when Congress passed the act.

He blamed the added drain on the Treasury on a "liberal interpretation" of the act by the Attorney General.

Jury to Probe Death Of Girl in Operation

A coroner's jury today will inquire into the circumstances leading to the death of Elizabeth Baldwell Baker, 20 years old, early yesterday, at Sibley Memorial Hospital, as the result of, physicians said, of an illegal operation.

Dr. Samuel Lumpkin Stark, 51, colored, was arrested by headquarters detectives yesterday, and held for the action of the coroner's jury. Detectives said the physician admitted treating Miss Baker, but denied performing an operation. Vaughn S. McQueen, 26, of 918 I street northwest, was arrested early yesterday morning. He is said to have been a close friend of the girl.

CAPITAL AGAIN WINS RED CROSS MEETING

Chicago's Bid for Convention in 1933 Is Lost; Higher Membership Sought.

In closing, delegates at the American Red Cross Convention yesterday voted to have their next year's meeting in Washington despite efforts of Chicago delegates to bring the 1933 convention there.

A resolution was adopted calling for increased membership to meet greater need and demand upon the organization because of the Nation's economic distress.

The convention nominated for reelection to the central committee, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, of Washington, and Mrs. Henry R. Rea, representing the board of incorporators, and Mrs. August Belmont, of New York, and Gustave D. Pope, of Detroit, representing the chapter delegates.

Mrs. John A. Johnston, roll call chairman of the District chapter, was presented the Mabel T. Boardman trophy, a Red Cross banner, by Douglas Griesemer, national director of roll call, in recognition of the chapter's lead in enrolling membership during the last roll call. The District has won the banner for the second consecutive time.

The invocation at the closing session was by the Right Rev. James Hugh Ryan, president of Catholic University. Chairman John Barton Payne bade the delegates farewell until another year.

Juror Unfriendly, Counsel Charges

Attorney Files Motion for New Trial in Haury Attack Case.

Charging that one of the jurors who sat in the case of Mrs. Ruth Stevens, her husband, Robert Stevens, Robert Ely, C. I. Rockenbaugh and William I. Green, who were tried for simple assault upon Charles E. Haury supervisor of the International Union of Operating Engineers, was unfriendly to his client, Richard A. Harman, attorney for Ely, yesterday filed in District Supreme Court a motion for a new trial.

Four of the five defendants were convicted, while the fifth, Rockenbaugh, was acquitted.

The juror, Mr. Harman charged had purchased a Christmas tree from Ely, and there had been some unpleasantness over the worthiness of the tree. The juror, the attorney said, was not known to be on the jury until after the trial, and on the basis of possible prejudice on the juror's part, Justice James M. Proctor was asked to grant a new trial, which if granted would automatically give the four found guilty a new trial.

INSANITY PLEA IS INDICATED IF MASSIE ADMITS KILLING

home, she met me at the door, I could hear her sobbing before I could get into the house. She collapsed in my arms. Her lips were bruised, her face swollen, her clothes torn and her nose bleeding. I asked her what had happened.

"I thought a truck had run over her. She said it was too horrible to tell and could only sob.

"She said she wanted to die. Finally she told me some men had taken her in a car and carried her into the bushes and ravished her. I said 'My God!'

"I then called the police and told them my wife had been assaulted."

Mrs. Fortescue Weeps Openly.

Massie looked at the floor as he talked. Mrs. Fortescue's lips trembled, and she shook as she cried openly. Her sister, Mrs. Helen Ripley, also cried.

Folding and unfolding his arms, Darrow stood by the jury box. Massie continued his story.

The accused lieutenant said he carried his wife to a hospital and had her examined. Next day he took her there to stay. Her jaw was broken, and doctors said she was suffering from serious mental and physical shock.

Massie said he went home and tried to sleep, but could not. Next day, he said, four men were brought before Mrs. Massie. They included Hahahawai.

"She questioned them all," Massie said. "She seemed to concentrate on Kahahawai. After they left she told me they were the ones. I asked her if she was sure, and she said, 'Darling, do you think I would ever draw another honest breath unless I were sure?'"

Identified Four Men.

Next day, Massie said, X rays showed two fractures in Mrs. Massie's jaw, and it was necessary to take her to a hospital to have a tooth extracted. He said he called detectives, and she identified the four men.

Massie then related the story of the attack which Mrs. Massie had told him.

"She said she left the inn to go for a walk to Fort De Russy," the lieutenant testified. "It is about a quarter of a mile. As she walked along the road a car came up from behind and two men grabbed her. They beat her and she offered them money but they laughed at her. She said she told them her husband would give them money if they would let her go. They only beat her more.

"They drove into the bushes and she told me what they did."

Massie hesitated a moment.

"Go on," said Darrow.

"She said," continued Massie, "that Kahahawai beat her more than any other and that when he assaulted her she prayed for mercy and he hit her and broke her jaw."

One night, Massie testified, he was awakened by Mrs. Massie screaming.

"'Don't let him get me!'" Massie said his wife pleaded.

"'There's nobody here,'" he said he assured her.

"'Yes there is; Kahahawai is here,'" the witness quoted his wife as saying.

"I couldn't seem to get it out of my mind," Massie continued.

"Did you ever get it out of your mind?" Darrow asked.

"No."

The witness said on several occasions thereafter Mrs. Massie called him at night to say she heard footsteps.

"I thought she was dreaming," Massie went on, "but one night when she called me I didn't answer or turn on the light and I heard footsteps.

"I jumped up and ran out of the house, but saw nobody."

"Did you ever get advice from a doctor about your wife's condition?" Darrow queried.

"I got that at the hospital," Massie said, "after Mrs. Massie's mother informed us an operation would be necessary to prevent pregnancy. It was performed in October."

Court then adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Victim's Mother in Tears.

Mrs. Fortescue was not the only weeping mother in the courtroom. As the prosecution's last witness, Mrs. Anito cried as she identified articles of clothing taken from the Fortescue home and from the car in which Kahahawai's body was found, as those of her son.

The defense objected to Mrs. Anito's going on the stand, but Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis decided in favor of the prosecution. He also ruled against the prosecution when it objected to Darrow's bringing Massie to the stand to testify about the assault case.

At Darrow's call remained Dr. Edward Huntington Williams and Dr. James Orbison, Los Angeles alienists, who arrived here several days ago and who appeared at the judiciary building this morning in response to defense summons.

As a finishing touch to its case the prosecution called Miss Mapuana Peters, a stenographer who had taken statements from Mrs. Fortescue and from Lord shortly after their arrest. In two points these defendants contradicted each other, according to the transcript.

Statements In Conflict.

Miss Peters' document showed Mrs. Fortescue had denied an enlisted man of the Navy stayed at her home one night before the slaying or had had breakfast with her. At first Jones, the record showed, had said he had spent a night there and had breakfasted with the society matron.

Later he denied all the statements he had made and said the opposite was true. He had told questioners he was intoxicated the night before the killing, but had denied taking Kahahawai's life.

SENATE BODY HEARS ATTACK ON DRY LAW

Women's Group and Leader of Hotel Owners at Hearing; Test Vote Seen.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition hearings regarded as a prelude to a Senate vote on the issue began before a committee yesterday with a packed audience of women spectators applauding attacks on the liquor laws.

Most of them were members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform which is meeting in Washington. One of the witnesses was Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the organization. The friends of prohibition will be heard later.

Chairman Blaine of the judiciary subcommittee said after the session he hoped the hearings would lead to a favorable report on a measure calling for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment.

Test at This Session.

Both wet and dry Senate leaders have agreed on a prohibition test at this session. It is expected to be on a proposed constitutional amendment probably similar to that already defeated in the House. There are also a number of measures pending to legalize beer.

Three witnesses added their testimony today to that by Mrs. Sabin, demanding a change in the prohibition laws.

Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, and former Senator Wadsworth, of New York, said the liquor laws were an evil and that a change was necessary for economic and social reasons.

Frank A. K. Boland, representing the American Hotel Association of the United States and Canada, testified prohibition had driven the food business of the hotels into speakeasies.

"The only relief from the disasters that prohibition brought us," he said, "is the development of the combination corkscrew and bottle opener, which must be welded to a door or somebody will take it away.

Mrs. Sabin said, "The prohibition amendment is poisoning our national life, and must be repealed."

The several hundred spectators who overflowed into the hall of the large majority room in the Senate Office Building interrupted her with applause, which included cheers. There were only a few men in the audience.

"Those churches and the temperance organizations which still support it (the eighteenth amendment)," she said, "have become, all unconsciously, the chief allies and friends of the outlaw classes and the time has come to end this unholy alliance."

Mr. Bingham said prohibition was urged during war time to win the conflict and not as a temperance issue.

"It is not a temperance issue now," he said. "Repeal is an economic issue to fight the depression."

Hearing Again Today.

Mr. Wadsworth, representing the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said the "evils" of prohibition can not be cured until the repeal of the "eighteenth amendment." He added that if the liquor taxes of 1919 had been undisturbed they would have yielded $1,000,000,000 in 1931.

This sum, he added, had been tossed out the Treasury windows and the bootlegger picked it up and "put it in his pocket."

Mr. Blaine said the opponents of prohibition would be heard first and then those supporting it. The hearing will continue today.

SUIT SEEKS TO HALT 2 RAILWAYS' MERGER

Southern Pacific Takes Over 'Cotton Belt' in Spite of Illegality Charge.

Frankfort, Ky., April 14 (A.P.).—The Interstate Commerce Commission and the Southern Pacific Co. were notified today an application for an injunction to prevent the Southern Pacific from taking over the Cotton Belt Railroad had been filed in Federal District Court here by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. and the Texas and Pacific Railway Co.

The defendants have 20 days in which to answer the petitions which charge the decision of the commission in approving the acquisition was contrary to the evidence and the law.

Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran, Maysville, of the Eastern Kentucky District, is expected to invite two other Federal judges to review the case with him.

The Southern Pacific was chartered in Kentucky and has its home office at Spring Station in Woodford County, although its nearest rails are in New Orleans.

Conditions of Acquisition.

In event a perpetual injunction is denied, the plaintiffs asked that the court impose "adequate, just and reasonable terms and conditions upon acquisition by the Southern Pacific Co. of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Co." which also is known as the Cotton Belt.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—The Southern Pacific Co., which is America's largest railroad system in terms of total assets, today formally assumed control of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway, known as the Cotton Belt.

After a meeting of the Southern Pacific executive committee, it was announced that the company had "today filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington its final acceptance of the commission's order in the proceedings instituted by it to acquire by purchase of capital stock the control of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Co."

The merger represents one of the few to be consummated in the railroad field since the World War. As a result of its acquisition, Southern Pacific will add 1,900 additional miles of lines to its system. The consolidation will increase Southern Pacific's assets to approximately $2,500,000,000.

Guaranty of Loan.

In compliance with the Interstate Commerce Commission's provisions laid down before the merger could be completed, Southern Pacific also agreed to give its unrestricted guaranty of an $18,000,000 loan, which the Cotton Belt has asked from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific's executive committee and Daniel Upthegrove, president of the Cotton Belt, have recently been conferring on the transaction in New York, and in the past few days have been in Washington.

Southern Pacific originally purchased 87,200 shares of Cotton Belt preferred and 42,600 shares of common. It also obtained an option on 59,880 additional shares of preferred and 24,700 shares of common. This gave Southern Pacific control of 58 per cent of the stock.

In addition, it was said today, Cotton Belt stock outstanding had now been deposited in favor of the plan to approximately 80 per cent.

Would Benefit Road.

In a recent statement to stockholders, Mr. Upthegrove contended that the merger would distinctly benefit the Cotton Belt. He estimated that it would increase Cotton Belt traffic by 100 per cent within two years.

A month ago the Interstate Commerce Commission gave the Southern Pacific 30 days in which to comply with the terms under which the commission would permit the consolidation. The period expired today.

Some uncertainty over final completion of the transaction had revolved around the I. C. C. insistence that Southern Pacific unconditionally guarantee the Reconstruction loan to Cotton Belt, which was needed to meet bond maturities.

Details as to plans for physical consolidation of the properties were not yet available.

Narcotics Stolen From Drugstore.

A quantity of narcotics valued at $150 was stolen early yesterday morning from the Tschiffely Bros. Pharmacy at 1203 Connecticut avenue northwest. Nothing else was harmed. Entrance was gained by smashing the glass in a rear door.

SENATE UNIT VOTES TO PUSH BEAR QUIZ

the material already at hand demands the continuance of the inquiry.

The point also was made in yesterday's executive session that a general inquisition, without direction or specific purpose, might tend to unsettle not only the stock and other financial markets, but the cotton and grain trade and the minor commodity exchanges as well.

As the new credit expansion policy of the Federal Reserve System, perfected here on Tuesday, began to exert its influence in the stock market yesterday, a tremendous volume of short covering lifted the entire list in the best rally since March 2.

Warning to Congress.

With this most encouraging development, however, most members of the banking committee emphasized the point that any recovery which might flow from the new money policy is contingent upon the all-important qualification that business and trading sentiment be not further shocked and mending confidence again disorganized by wild and irresponsible action on Capitol Hill, as in the case last month of the House's conduct with the tax bill.

The confusion, uncertainty and bewilderment which flow from such legislative debacles, it was pointed out, are the life-blood of organized bear raids.

A second bit of good news in yesterday's stock trading was the announcement that the banking and currency committee had agreed on further vital amendments to the revised Glass banking bill. As tentatively accepted, these amendments remove all stringent deflationary provisions from the bill. It now is understood that the bill will be reported out this week, perhaps tomorrow.

The bear-raiding inquiry will be resumed Monday morning, when Mr. Whitney is to appear again with the detailed records of short trading as of April 8, 1932. These were originally demanded for last Monday's hearing, but Mr. Whitney explained the labor of compilation involved prevented his compliance with the subpena, which was not delivered to him until Friday night. He promised the records in complete detail, however, by the end of this week.

Will Disclose Names.

They will be the first to go before committee with dates and sales in such form as will enable the Senate to get at the names of the principal short sellers.

As the markets swung upward sharply yesterday in response to the new administration moves to end the trend toward destructive deflation, Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), Utah, published an unusual appeal to holders of securities everywhere to refrain from selling their assets at prevailing prices.

As chairman of the finance committee and one in a position, therefore, to command a long-range view of national policies, Senator Smoot spoke with more authority than usually attaches such observations in the Senate.

Instance Is Cited.

He alluded to an unnamed stock now selling on the New York Exchange for $4.50 which, in "cash and goods actually in hand today is worth $40."

This statement conformed generally to a recent tabulation by Moody's Investment Service showing the average yield of 280 dividend payers on the New York Stock Exchange at 10.81 per cent as of April 1, against an average of about 5 per cent in the 1929 boom.

Senator Smoot warned the Nation vigorously against allowing rampant pessimism to lead the people to sheer folly in unloading their stocks in the existing bear market.

Following through for the Federal Reserve Board, Gov. Eugene Meyer told the House banking and currency committeee he believed this week's concerted action by Congress and the administration had once more prepared the ground for solid business recovery.

ROOSEVELT GIVEN 38 VOTES BY MICHIGAN

State Convention Urges Wet Plank; Tables Motion for Bonus Payment.

Saginaw, Mich., April 14 (A.P.).—Michigan today added 38 votes to the pledged total of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Besides instructing for the New York Governor, the Democratic State convention today adopted resolutions favoring repeal of the National and State prohibition laws and restoration of State liquor control. The repeal resolutions precipitated a bedlam of cheers and hisses and attempts by drys to modify them were shouted down with cries of "we want beer!"

A resolution favoring immediate payment of adjusted compensation to World War veterans was tabled after a lengthy debate.

The instructions to the delegation to the national convention direct that Michigan's 38 votes be cast for Roosevelt "as long as in the judgment of the delegation party welfare so dictates." The vote for an instructed delegation was practically unanimous.

The uproar that greeted the prohibition repeal resolution duplicated an earlier riotous proceeding in the First (Detroit) District caucus in which Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, became the center of a fight over the selection of the district's two delegates to the national convention.

The caucus came close to fisticuffs when a faction opposed to Murphy hurled charges of "railroading."

The caucus adjourned during the midst of the turmoil, and upon reassembling later formally named Murphy and William A. Comstock, several times candidates for governor of Michigan, as the First District delegates.

First Year Is Marked By Republic of Spain

Madrid, April 14 (A.P.).—Industrial and commercial activity came almost to a full stop through the nation today as republican Spain celebrated its first birthday in fine spring weather.

Buildings and houses in the capital were in the new republican tricolor, while President Alcala Zamora, Manuel Azana, minister of war, and other high dignitaries reviewed 10,000 troops representing all branches of the service on Castellana boulevard. The crowds broke into cheers in front of the reviewing stand as the troops passed by.

Electricity to Supplant Coolidge Home Lamps

Plymouth, Vt., April 14 (A.P.).—The kerosene lamps by light of which the late John Coolidge administered the oath of office as President to his son, Calvin, nine years ago, no longer will see service in the Coolidge summer home.

Modern workmen, skilled in modern methods of lighting, today began the task of supplanting the domestic illumination of another era. They are wiring the century-old farmhouse and will install a small electric plant.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND is an American of large ideas: The world is his home. He has blazed the trail of American engineering genius from Blomfontein to Cuernavaca. Condemned to death for his opposition to the famous Jameson Raid during the fateful days of the Boer rebellion, he coolly talked his way off the scaffold and finally persuaded his captors that he was worth the $125,000 that was paid as the price of his freedom.

When Cecil Rhodes was laying the bricks and mortar of his colonial empire, Hammond was by his side with an almost occult sense of the exact placement that later was to bring him and Rhodes countless millions. When Barney and Woolf Barnato were thinking of a man to help them save the world from becoming glutted with diamonds, Hammond was again their expert counsellor.

These adventures might have satisfied another man made of less heroic stuff than Hammond, but he rounded the Horn again and came on to London and thence back to the United States. He has been called in on most of the important engineering projects from the Panama Canal to the irrigation conception which has made Western deserts bloom like gardens.

Like Goldsmith's hero, he has now come home at last and spends his days on the shores of the Atlantic in his magnificent property at Gloucester, Mass., or looking at the sunsets across Rock Creek Park from his beautiful home here. He contributes to scores of scientific magazines all over the world and is gracefully approaching the age of four score.

Roosevelt's Stand Upheld by Straus

Criticizes Democrats for Joining in Attack on Recent Speech.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—A spirited defense of the recent address of Gov. Roosevelt, "which has been criticized even by one or two Democrats who should be his friends," was made today by Jesse Isidor Straus, merchant prince and intimate associate of the governor. The statement of Mr. Straus at one point said:

"Gov. Smith in his Washington speech last night referred to the present tariff as a drain upon the farmer, as a boon to the intrenched manufacturer. It was, as I see it, that thought which motivated Gov. Roosevelt. He said nothing against the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, but made it clear that it should be supported by additional reconstruction beginning at the other end. * * *

"Those who will study Gov. Roosevelt's speech and will bear his public record in mind will observe that he is firmly convinced this country can not be prosperous when 40 per cent of its inhabitants, who are unable to get the cost of production from their labor, are yet obliged to pay a toll on everything they buy to the interests that support the Republican war chest."

Gov. Ritchie Pleased With Byrd's Dry Stand

Baltimore, April 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, himself a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, today expressed pleased surprise at the statement of former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia in declaring for a prohibition referendum.

"Nobody was surprised when Gov. Cox or Gov. Smith or myself spoke adversely of the eighteenth amendment, for we have been doing that for years," he said, "but when Gov. Byrd of Virginia came out for a referendum I felt as though at last I had crashed the gates of fashionable political society."

Garibaldi's Image Taken Into Vatican

Vatican City, April 14 (A.P.).—The image of Garibaldi, who made war against the Pope, was carried into the Vatican today on a series of stamps commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of his death. The Italian minister of communications sent the stamps to the Governor of Vatican City, according to the custom of exchanging new commemorative series.

G. O. P. NOMINATES IN NORTH CAROLINA

Clifford Frazier Selected for Governor; Platform Backs Prohibition.

Charlotte, N. C., April 14 (A.P.).—Clifford Frazier, a lawyer and Quaker, of Greensboro, was nominated for governor of North Carolina on a "bone dry" platform by the State Republican convention today, after a proposal for a plank favoring State control of liquor was hissed down.

The seven delegates at large to the national convention were not formally instructed, but the convention adopted a resolution praising the national administration under the "matchless statesmanship" of President Hoover.

Jake F. Newell, of Charlotte, an attorney, was nominated for United States senator. Although the Republican party customarily names its nominees by convention, the State primary law provides that other candidates may file, and George DePriest, of Shelby, has announced as a candidate for the Senate. Unless one withdraws, Newell and DePriest will seek the nomination in a primary.

The proposal for State control of liquor came from John L. Morehead, of Charlotte, a son of the late John M. Morehead, who represented the Fifth North Carolina District in the Sixty-first Congress.

Mr. Morehead gained the floor after George M. Pritchard, the keynote speaker, completed his address. The Charlotte man had the convention on its feet cheering after beginning his remarks with praise of President Hoover, when he switched to a denunciation of prohibition.

The cheers turned to hisses and catcalls.

"Go join the Democrats," a voice shouted from the back of the building, and a moment later the convention hall was in an uproar.

Mr. Morehead was forced to stop as Mr. Pritchard, the temporary chairman, vainly rapped for order. When some semblance of quiet finally was restored Mr. Pritchard pleaded for the delegates to grant Mr. Morehead a hearing, and the speaker was allowed to finish.

The platform was adopted as brought in by the platform committee and pledged the party not only to enforcement of prohibition but also to working for its retention.

Charles A. Jonas, of Lincolnton, was reelected national committeeman by acclamation. Mrs. Queen Bess Kenn, of Mocksville, was elected national committeewoman. She had no opposition.

SMITH-ROOSEVELT CLASH IS WORRYING DEMOCRATS

pen to him, for example, in Massachusetts, where already a factional primary fight over Roosevelt and Smith is threatening party success in November? What would happen to him in New Jersey, Rhode Island and, for that matter, New York itself, the grand prize in the electoral college?

In all these States, and in others, there are still many voters who swear by the brown derby. There are States which are vital to Democratic success in November.

The concern that Democrats feel as they ponder these questions is, of course, predicated on the theory that Al Smith means business; that he has not yet finished with Roosevelt.

Smith Means Business.

The impression prevails that Smith does mean business. Those who know him say that he has long been contemplating such an attack as he launched Wednesday night. They say that he is convinced that Roosevelt, being a pussyfooter by nature, would be a weak candidate and a poor President; a man who, if he did get in the White House, probably would not last more than one term.

Roosevelt, in a radio speech Thursday night a week ago, gave Al the opening he had been waiting for. For fifteen minutes Roosevelt pleaded the cause of the "little fellow," the city man without a job, the farmer without funds to purchase. Also he denounced the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Corporation because it failed to help these people. Having talked thus, however, Roosevelt failed to offer any kind of a program.

Attack Ensues.

Hence Smith's cry of "demagogue" the other night. He did not use it in the jocular sense that Jim Watson or Pat Harrison would use it. He was angry. When he said demagogue he had in mind the type of person that Noah Webster described:

"One who plays an insincere role in public life for the sake of gaining political influence in office. * * *

"A poser in politics. * * *

"One who panders to popular prejudice or seeks to inflame reasonless passions in the advancement of his personal interests."

Today the demagogue brand is on Roosevelt, placed there by Smith's searing words. It is up to him to remove it. To do it he must substitute action, or proposed action, for words. He must formulate a program.

By reason of his prominent position in the Democratic race every speech that Roosevelt makes is important. Now, however, his speeches will be followed with even greater interest than otherwise would be the case. The voter will want to see if he has accepted Smith's challenge.

It so happens that Roosevelt's next speech will be in a region where the man he expressed concern about recently—the small farmer—abounds. This speech is scheduled to be delivered Monday in St. Paul, Minn.

It may be that Roosevelt will redeem himself in Smith's eyes. It is agreed, however, that he must go a long way to do it.

Republicans Cheered.

Meantime, the Republicans are greatly cheered. They hope that Chicago will see another Madison Square Garden brawl, and that it will be followed by the same results. Whether this happens or not, they have Smith's speech carefully filed away, and, in the event that Roosevelt is nominated, they are prepared to give the New Yorker a new middle name—Franklin "Demagogue" Roosevelt.

The Smith speech shared attention with the tax fight, the economy row and other legislative matters, at the Capitol yesterday.

His proposal that the United States "forget" Europe's war debt for 20 years, and write it off as European nations buy American products, was generally frowned on.

"That was not Mr. Smith speaking," said Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, a Roosevelt man. "That was the House of Morgan. Gov. Smith did not call anybody a demagogue in 1928 who advocated raising farm prices. He welcomed the support of the Blaines, the Norisses and the Wheelers, and even the support of Magnus Johnson, speaking in Minnesota."

Other Sentiment.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, said that Smith had "offended the proprieties of the occasion."

Senator William King, of Utah, was much disturbed.

"I can scarcely believe," he said, "in view of the outstanding qualities of Gov. Roosevelt and his loyal, generous support that Gov. Smith would have intended to be a critic or to challenge his fitness for the Presidency."

Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, said he had been swamped by queries about Smith's speech.

"I told them," he said, "that if it does anything it will help Roosevelt."

Rainey said that Smith's debt proposal was "bunk." Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, said it was "foolish," and Senator Wesley Jones (Republican), of Washington, branded it "ridiculous."

"It's just the same as asking a subsidy for these big corporations that deal abroad," said Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania.

Upheld by Walsh.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, who is supporting Smith for the presidential nomination, said that the speech was a "frank and courageous statement of his views on the political questions of the day." The debt proposal, he said, touched on a view that has not hitherto been emphasized.

The satisfaction which Republicans generally felt over Smith's attack on Roosevelt was expressed by Representative James G. Strong, of Kansas, when he said:

"Hit 'em again, Al."

Smith himself said he had received hundreds of telegrams congratulating him.

"There was only one complaint," he said, "and that came from a man I didn't know. He asked me if I would tell another bedtime story tonight for his boy."

Raskob said he thought that Smith's speech had a "good reception."

Smith's Debt Proposal Applauded in Berlin

Berlin (Friday), April 15 (A.P.).—Germania, newspaper close to Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, said today that Alfred E. Smith's proposal for a 20-year suspension of foreign debt payments, with reduction of the debts on a reciprocal trade basis "will command strong consideration in Europe."

Germania was the only German newspaper to comment on the proposal, but its views generally are thought to reflect the opinion of the government.

It saw the project as a likely plank in the platform of the Democratic party in the American presidential campaign.

"The debt problem is not alone Europe's, but in America it is also a question of fateful contention," it concluded.

State Favors Elections To Congress at Large

St. Paul, Minn., April 14 (A.P.).—A ruling by the State attorney general today paved the way for electing Minnesota members of Congress at large, unless contrary action be taken by Congress or the Minnesota Legislature.

Attorney General Henry N. Benson held that the secretary of state might accept at large filings for the June primary election. The issue was raised by a United States Supreme Court decision which ruled invalid the State reapportionment act of the 1931 Legislature. That act reduced the number of districts from ten to nine, in accordance with 1930 census figures and congressional mandate.

REBEL LEGISLATORS OVERRULED IN COURT

Arkansas Justice Privately Praises Economy Effort of House, However.

Little Rock, Ark., April 14 (A.P.).—A rebellious majority of the Arkansas House of Representatives was ruled out of rump session today by the State Supreme Court but out of the record it was called a "band of patriots" by the chief justice.

As the court's unanimous opinion was delivered to the House, Richard E. Mason, who had been elected speaker of the rump session, became "Mr. Chairman" of a mass meeting of private citizens attacking Gov. Harvey Parnell and other State officials.

The supreme court ruling held the legislature automatically was adjourned last Tuesday through failure to extend the special session after completion of business within the governor's call. The House had voted to extend the session to consider a retrenchment program, but the Senate defeated the move.

Gov. Harvey Parnell issued the proclamation after Lieut. Gov. Wilson, presiding officer of the Senate, and Irving C. Neale, speaker of the House, certified that the two houses were hopelessly deadlocked on the question of an extended session.

Heartened by encouragement from the "home folks" but slightly disconcerted by a coup of the governor today, the rump session appealed to the Supreme Court.

Gov. Parnell outmaneuvered the House today when he signed a road improvement district bond refunding bill, chief object of the special session.

Packed galleries applauded the reading of many telegrams and letters of encouragement.

Chief Justice Hart of the Supreme Court, who delivered the court's opinion to a committee of representatives speaking privately referred to them as "this band of patriots" and was quoted as saying the court "was not unmindful of efforts of that body to stay here in the interest of the people."

PUBLISHER PLEADS FOR LOWER TAXES

U. S. Advertisers Are Urged to Join Fight to Reduce Governmental Costs.

A strong plea for reduced governmental expenditures and lowered taxes was made last night by John Stewart Bryan, president and publisher of the Richmond News-Leader, in an address before the American Association of Advertising Agencies at a banquet in the Mayflower Hotel.

Earlier in the day Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, of the school of marketing of Columbia University, told the convention that "Business will get better when business men go out and make it better. * * * This is a time of advertising, for sales promotion, for energetic selling," he said.

In arguing his case for curtailed governmental spending Mr. Bryan declared he believes "that the time has come for the people of America to cut by the roots this mass of overgrown bureaucracy, pensions, extravagances and the multiplication of efforts that grew up in the period of 'fools' gold.'

Newspapers as Crusaders.

"These times of far-reaching depression is an occasion which gives every man who wants a fair deal a chance to stop and consider how much of his daily labor he will permit the Government to expend for governmental purposes. And the fact that Congress says thus and so has got to be spent in order that Congress may have the worship of the voters at home doesn't mean that the taxpayer can put up this money, or even should put it up," he said.

He also asked that the newspapers of the country assume their responsibility in helping turn the tide of high Government costs. "I know of no single school wherein the public can be so well and so widely educated as by the newspaper. It is the greatest invention for the advancement of human reasoning the world has ever known."

In his address for more business leadership, Dr. Nystrom said: "All our charities, doles, chests and block aids are hopeless as remedies for economic depression. What is needed is that production, distribution and business must be revived. Exchange of products and services must be revived. Unemployment among your customers is your business.

Time for Thinking.

"This is a time," he said, "for serious thinking and some real planning to get business. This is no time for quitting, for not trying. The most hopeful aspect in the present storm is the small but increasing number of business concerns which are assuming their responsibilities for carrying on and are using their heads in finding ways to carry on. When others join them, business will improve."

Other speakers during the day were: Walter Hovnig, vice president and merchandising manager of R. H. Macy & Co.; Floyd Parsons, economist and associate editor of Advertising and Selling; W. L. Day, vice president of the J. Walter Thompson Co.; William H. Johns, president of the Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn Co.; Herbert S. Gardner, president of the Gardner Advertising Co.; E. De Witt Hill, treasurer of McCann-Erickson; and Wilbur Van Sant, president of Van Sant, Dugdale & Corner Co. C. D. Newell, president of the association, presided.

At the conclusion of the banquet last night entertainment was given by stars of the Columbia Broadcasting System, including Little Jack Little, Ruth Etting, Alex Gray, Lilyan Tashman, Toscha Seidel, Alex Haas, Richard Crook and Fray and Bragiott.

NEW THREAT OF WAR IS REPORTED IN ASIA

25 miles west of Amoy, were reported evacuating as the Communist troops approached. Foreigners at Amoy were uneasy and British officials asked for a warship to protect the port.

Meanwhile peace parleys in the old Shanghai war zone were at a standstill, with Mamoru Shigemitsu, the Japanese minister to China, verbally attacking the Chinese reference of peace proposals to the League of Nations.

He said this action signified the collapse of the parleys and left the way open for Japan to take any action she may deem necessary to protect her interests.

(Geneva dispatches said a committee of the League of Nations Assembly will meet Saturday to consider the situation at Shanghai.)

Moscow, April 14 (A.P.).—Reports that Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, minister of war in the new Manchurian government, was at Blagoves-Chensk, Siberia, and working in connection with Soviet Russia, were officially denied here today.

Reports of Far East's Unrest Received Here

Disquieting rumors were yesterday reported from the Orient, where the failure of the Japanese Government to fix a definite date for the evacuation of Shanghai caused sharp resentment from Chinese authorities.

China has cabled its protest to the League of Nations. The league, however, declined to go any further into the complexities of the Chinese situation until the definite report from the league's special commission of inquiry has been received by them. Meanwhile, it was reported here that Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, had informed Dr. W. W. Yen, the Chinese delegate to the league, that the league authorities would suspend all future moves until Lord Lytton's committee had reported to Geneva.

The Lytton committee includes Gen. Frank R. MacCoy, who is now with the committee on a tour of investigation with the other members in Manchuria. The Japanese government, who have established a protectorate over Manchurian territory, have offered a guard of protection for Gen. MacCoy and the other members of the committee. The State Department has made clear that Gen. MacCoy is not in China as a representative of the United States, but merely as a member of the committee of experts charged with reviewing the situation there and reporting on it to the league authorities.

POLICEMAN DRAWS SUSPENSION IN ROW

'Rookie' Is Accused of Firing Revolver in Unwarranted Search of Home.

A "rookie" policeman was suspended yesterday by a superior officer as a result of a disturbance allegedly created by him in a downtown apartment early yesterday, during which he is accused of displaying and firing his service revolver.

The policeman, Private Charles M. Skidmore, attached to the Third Precinct station, is serving his probationary period on the force. Because of Skidmore's status, Inspector T. R. Bean, of the First Inspection District, said last night that he could recommend the policeman's dismissal without Trial Board procedure if the evidence warrants it.

With Anthony J. Grasse, of 1005 I street northeast, Skidmore is said to have engaged in a quarrel with a clerk in a drug store at Seventh and E streets northwest. The two then are alleged to have gone to the apartment of Miss Eunice Wilson, at 740 Ninth street northwest.

Despite the remonstrances of Miss Wilson and a guest, Skidmore is said to have made an unwarranted search of her apartment for two girls he said he had seen enter. Before he left her apartment he fired a shot in the floor, she said. Later in the hallway he is accused of drawing his gun on Elmer J. Mercurio, another apartment occupant.

Acting Lieut. Alvin S. Bohrer, of the First Precinct, later questioned Skidmore and Grasse, neither of whom was charged. He said neither appeared to be under the influence of liquor, although witnesses had made that accusation. The police official said Skidmore's revolver was empty, but that it appeared to have been recently fired. Inspector Be- would venture no comment on the case, pending a study of the evidence.

BOMB THOUGHT USED IN FATAL OHIO BLAST

their offices, the building covered an entire city block.

Even after the building was authorized, the bickering continued, various political factions, contractors and material companies fighting over the proposed type of the building.

The building was to have been occupied by the various offices in May. Preparations had already been made to move the office equipment and supplies of the various departments to the new structure. It was started in 1929.

During its construction, which took almost two years, labor fights occurred among various workers who questioned the right of various building trade organizations to do various jobs. At one time the plasterers were on strike several weeks. Hardly had they returned than the painters and ornamental iron workers quit because of differences of opinion.

Investigation shifted from the State house to the partially wrecked building tonight. Temporary lights were strung, and one of the offices which was not greatly damaged, was pressed into use. State officials prepared to examine witnesses immediately, and to have a report ready for Gov. White when he returns from Washington in the morning.

While firemen continued to work in the basement, they said the debris was so thick it would be several days before they could make any great impression on it.

Water Covers Debris.

Tons upon tons of debris, including heavy pieces of marble, were covered by the water from fire hoses, and firemen were forced to use pike poles in their search for bodies.

One fireman was injured when a piece of marble toppled on him as he was digging in the wreckage. He was removed to a hospital.

The Columbus Auditorium, nearby, used as an emergency hospital earlier, was turned into a temporary morgue tonight with Red Cross workers in charge.

Rescue workers gazed at this inscription, ironically placed over the scarred entrance portal:

"May the lightning of heaven which scathes, and the whirlwind and storm which prostrate the work of man, pass by and spare this house erected by the mighty people and consecrated to social and constitutional government."

Gov. White, in Capital, Off Quickly for Ohio

An immediate and thorough investigation of the blast was ordered yesterday by Gov. George White by long distance telephone before he left Washington for the Ohio capital.

The governor was here for the Jefferson Day dinner and rally Wednesday. When first told of the catastrophe, he said "I am shocked, stunned. I deeply regret the loss of lives and injuries to workmen. The meager reports convince me there should be a thorough investigation."

WILLIAM J. BURNS, DECTECTIVE, IS DEAD

1923 he led the investigation into the Wall street bomb explosion, working on an expressed conviction that the hand of Soviet Russia would be found implicated in the case.

The Teapot Dome case was probably the most lurid and the last major episode of his life.

In appointing him to his post, Daugherty said Burns was "an intelligent and courageous man, and at this time especially is considered to be as high class a man as could be secured to assume the important duties assigned him."

It was just a few years later that both the chief and his appointee were engulfed in the oil case and both retired from office, Burns some time after his chief.

Burns was indicted along with Harry F. Sinclair and Henry Mason Day, Sinclair's associate, for the jury-shadowing which caused the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy mistrial. The Supreme Court upheld the conviction of Sinclair and Day, and both served jail sentences.

W. Sherman Burns, who had active charge of the Burns Agency at that time and whose agents did the shadowing, paid a $1,000 fine, but the court held that the former Department of Justice agent had not been shown by the Government to have been responsible and set aside the fifteen-day jail term which had been imposed upon him.

METHODISTS PLAN TO FILM PROGRESS

Session Is Held in Baltimore to Map Observance of Sesquicentennial.

Baltimore, April 14 (A.P.).—A motion picture history of the progress of Methodism in the United States during its 150 years was tentatively accepted today as one of the high points in the program of celebration by all branches of the sect of its sesquicentennial.

The plan was broached, along with others, at a meeting here today of lay and ministerial representatives of the three branches of the church in America, the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South and the Methodist Protestant Church.

The Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman, of Fredericksburg, Va., suggested the motion picture plan, and it was tentatively accepted. The entire film would be made in various places of interest in the development of the church since its inception.

C. F. Eggleston, of Philadelphia, a lay representative, advocated a series of pageants and addresses, commemorating the progress of Methodism, to be held in churches throughout the Nation during the period of commemoration in October, 1934. He also advocated the marking of all spots of historical interest in the growth of the church, and the two plans also were given tentative approval.

The meeting today was the first of several which will be held before the next national meeting of each of the three branches of the church. It was held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, which is the successor to the Lovel Lane Meeting House where Methodism in this country was born in 1784.

The meeting was attended by Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Richmond; Bishop William Fraser McDowell, of Washington, who presided, and Bishop Collins Denny, of Virginia.

MANEUVERS STAGED AT FORT HUMPHREYS

Army Tactical Problem Is Worked Out by Number of War Units.

An Army tactical problem involving infantry troops, Field Artillery, Cavalry, and aviation units was held yesterday in the vicinity of Fort Humphreys, Va.

An attack was made by part of the forces at 9 a. m. yesterday morning. The problem ended early in the afternoon. It involved the movement of a large body of troops across the Potomac River under the cover of an Infantry battalion.

The attacking force was made up of the Third Battalion, Twelfth Infantry, from Fort Washington, an aviation unit and one gun battery, and one headquarters battery of the Sixteenth Field Artillery at Fort Myer.

The defense was composed of one rifle platoon, one machine-gun section, an aviation unit, and three platoons of the Thirteenth Engineers from Fort Humphreys.

The attacking force attempted to open the road for a brigade to reach Alexandria. The Engineers at Fort Humphreys were placed in a defensive position.

The annual dinner of officers of the Engineer Corps will be held at Fort Humphreys tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. Engineer officers from the Eastern area and as far West as the Mississippi River are expected to attend and arrangements have been made for dinners for 170. The annual dinner has been held since the Civil War.

Addresses will be made by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers; Maj. Gen. W. D. Connor, commandant of the Army War College, who will soon leave to become superintendent of West Point; Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, and "The Goat," the lowest ranking engineer officer at the dinner.

standard of the Federal employe, as the Senate discussion spread. Senator Johnson declared approval of cuts in salaries under $3,000 would be "the cruelest and meanest thing we could do."

White House Blamed.

Blame for delay in the economy program was laid at the door of the White House by the economy committee chairman when he took the House floor shortly after noon. His explanation for sudden postponement of the legislative appropriation bill, to which pay-cut rider would be offered, was as follows:

"We wanted to be courteous to the administration and especially to the President of the United States, who evidently knows much about organizing government. We want the benefit of his suggestions. Up to this good hour we have not had them in detail. Col. Roop (director of the budget) was to appear Monday. He did not appear Monday, and on Tuesday he did not appear with the President's detailed plan. On Wednesday morning Col. Roop appeared and brought suggestions such as you see in the Congressional Record this morning. About 10 o'clock this morning I called up Col. Roop and asked him how soon he could present a detailed plan, and he said he could have it here in an hour and a half. Within 30 minutes thereafter Col. Roop said it would take him two days to get the detailed plan."

Had it not been for the President's intervention, Representative McDuffie said the committee would have been "practically ready" to proceed yesterday on a program embodying from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in economies.

"I wanted you to know that your committee is not responsible this morning for the committee's failure to proceed to reduce the Federal salaries of this country on the legislative bill," he declared.

There are going to be "new faces in Congress in the future" unless salary cuts are enacted, he said, asserting that "98 per cent of the taxpayers of the country are demanding a reduction."

His statement loosed a whirlwind of opposition, led by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York; Representative William P. Connery, jr. (Democrat), Massachusetts, and Representative John J. Boylan (Democrat), New York.

Said Representative LaGuardia:

"I deny that any one can prove a reduction of salaries is necessary or is for the best interest of the country. There are two schools of economic thought. I concede that one school may be for the best interest of an efficient, profitable industry, controlled by a few privileged persons. If we should tear down the standard of wages and lower the standard of living, a few individuals would profit by such a condition, but that is not the American way of doing it.

Held Buying Power Aid.

"If instead of lowering the scale of wages and the standard of living, we attempted to, and we can, bring up that scale, we thereby maintain and increase the purchasing power of the country."

He said President Hoover had "hit on one good idea" in his suggestion of a five-day week, but asked that the entire cost of going on a five-day week not be put on the Federal employe.

Citing the French and Russian revolutions as historical precedent, Representative Connery waved the flag of "revolt" as within the realm of possibility if general wage reductions are projected. He said leaders are "misguided" in thinking a further cut in expenditures necessary at this time.

Representative Ed. H. Campbell (Republican), Iowa, proposed to offer an amendment to cut pay of Congress members $2,175, with 45 per cent off salaries in excess of $10,000 if the pay cut rule goes through next Tuesday. Exempting $1,000, he offered a graduated scale of reductions on smaller salaries, beginning with 5 per cent on the first $500, and 10 per cent on the second.

Another pay cut alternative was credited to President Hoover in congressional circles. The White House reputedly offered to exempt $1,200 a year salary from compulsory leave under the Hoover staggered furlough plan.

Garner Likes Pay Cut.

Speaker Garner, who up to this time has been silent on the question of pay cuts, said at yesterday's newspaper conference "he thought John McDuffie has come around to the idea." He said he liked the principle "of the pay cut best" when asked as to his preference for committe or White House plans.

"It does not matter how you make the reduction," he said, "whether in one bill or three or four. What I want is reduction in Government costs, and we are going to get it. I said long ago if we could get the cooperation of the President we could save $200,000,000 to $250,000,000."

In the Senate, Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, came forward with a proposal that permanent improvement construction items be eliminated from the budget and financed on a "long-time credit basis," as a one, two, or three year emergency measure. Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, said the plan seemed a "good idea to him."

Attack by Johnson.

Senator Johnson resorted to satire in his attack on the economy proposals.

"Economy was not thought of when the moratorium was passed in December," he said. "Economy was in a different guise then. It will be in a different guise when the time comes for another moratorium in June. We will make up for the moratorium by taking money from building projects and forcing men to walk the streets."

Chairman Stone of the Federal Farm Board yesterday declared the body will have to reduce its working force if Congress finally approves an $880,000 cut in its administrative budget. Attorney General Mitchell sought authority to allocate the cuts made in the Justice Department to effect more efficient operation.

Ouster on Schall Is Filed in Senate

Hoidale Says Minnesota Election Permeated by Corruption.

(Associated Press.)

Einar Hoidale, of Minneapolis, yesterday challenged the election of Senator Thomas D. Schall (Republican), Minnesota, in a petition submitted to the Senate for him by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, charging violation of State and Federal corrupt practices acts. Mr. Hoidale was the Democratic candidate for senator in 1930.

The specific charges he brought were the following:

That Mr. Schall did not report all of his campaign contributions and expenditures, and did not itemize them to show the names of persons involved. That he used patronage or influence to "enhance his own personal and political ends and for financial support in his campaign," soliciting postal employes in the Seventh Minnesota District for contributions before and after the election.

The petition was referred to the elections committee.

FAITH IN FUTURE REMAINS DESPITE CRISIS, SAYS MELLON

ills from which the world is suffering."

The economic life of nations seems to go in cycles, he said, spurting forward in industrial expansion, then inflation and extravagance, "which brings its own retribution."

"Then the downward movement begins and the whole structure seems to topple about our heads. Yet we know by experience that such catastrophes never completely wipe out the progress which has been made, and that when the world begins to mend the many gains of recent years will not be lost but will be consolidated."

The ambassador referred to the problems at home:

"In America we are facing our difficulties frankly and, while conditions there are serious, they are neither so critical nor so unprecedented as to justify a lack of faith in our capacity to deal with them in our accustomed way.

"But there is much which remains to be done both in America and elsewhere. The world's trade must settle into new channels, and, notwithstanding tariffs and other barriers, it will grow in volume as we succeed in improving the standard of living and increasing purchasing power."

Mr. Mellon's health was proposed in a toast by Sir John Simon, who said none of the new ambassador's distinguished predecessors had had a warmer welcome than he received tonight. The tumultuous cheers which greeted Mr. Mellon as he rose to speak gave point to the foreign secretary's statement.

King George, replying to a message of loyalty from the pilgrims, said:

"I cordially thank the pilgrims and their guests assembled this evening for the loyal terms of their message, and I am glad to think that my son is with them on this auspicious occasion.

"It is indeed a pleasure to me to have this opportunity of associating myself with the welcome they are giving to Mr. Mellon as Ambassador from the United States of America."

The Prince of Wales spoke at the conclusion of the banquet.

"I feel it proof of the friendly feeling of America," he said, "that they should have sent one of the greatest financiers of their country at this time of world-wide economic stress to give advice both to this country and to his own country.

"I regret that I do not see an opportunity of visiting America again this year, but be sure that I shall avail myself of the first opportunity that presents itself to visit again that great country, that most interesting and hospitable country.

"We welcome Mr. Mellon because he has so outstanding a reputation in his own country, and whatever he says will be treated with the utmost respect. We welcome him not only as an ambassador, but as a great friend who has a long acquaintance with our country."

The TIRE That Taught THRIFT To MILLIONS!

FIRESTONE tires appeal to the thrifty. They give Extra Values at the lowest prices ever known.

Firestone do not manufacture tires under special brand names for mail order houses and others to distribute. Special brand tires are made without the manufacturer's name. They are sold without his guarantee or responsibility for service.

You take no chances on Firestone tires. They are silent, safe, long-wearing — and each tire bears the Firestone name, which is a guarantee of satisfactory service.

Firestone's greater economies in buying, manufacturing, and distributing make possible these greater values and lower prices.

Stop at our store today. See sections cut from Firestone tires — special brand mail order tires and others. Take these sections in your own hands — compare Quality and Construction. Then you, too, will know why— "Firestone is the tire that taught thrift to millions!"

Extra Values

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA CORD PLIES UNDER THE TREAD

This is a patented construction, and the two extra cord plies are so placed that you get 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 26% greater protection against punctures and blowouts. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD

Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

PAN AMERICAN RITES STRESS FRIENDSHIP

Flag-Raising Addresses and Music Climax Ceremony Held on Ellipse.

Celebration of Pan-American Day was brought to a brilliant climax on the Ellipse yesterday afternoon when the flags of the 21 South American republics were raised to the accompaniment of cannon shot, and an address was made by Vice President Curtis in the presence of the 1,800 members of the Washington High School Cadet Corps and hundreds of other school and college students and older spectators.

The patriotic airs of South America were played by the United States Army Band, while a company of the cadets stood at ease in front of the reviewing stand occupied by the Vice President, diplomatic representatives of the South American nations and District municipal and school officials.

At the conclusion of the ceremony 155 cadets received commissions from Maj. Gen. Paul Malone, U. S. A., commander of the Third Corps Area.

The speeches, translated simultaneously into three languages, were broadcast throughout the United States, South America and, by short wave, to Germany. Heriuf Provensen, National Broadcasting Co. announcer, spoke in English; Kurt G. Sell, representative of the German Broadcasting Co., in German, and an announcer in Schenectady spoke in Spanish.

Youth Must Realize Ideals.

Declaring that democracy "is something toward which we are striving, but which we have not as yet attained," Vice President Curtis said that the realization of these democratic ideals rests with American youth.

The Vice President expressed pride in the fact that the American republics have assumed leadership in the settlement of their differences by peaceful means. He pointed out that but a few questions remain to be solved, and these few, relate, in the main, to boundary disputes inherited from the colonial period.

Governmental action supplemented by private effort in the development of closer inter-American understanding was cited as an important need by the Vice President. Responsibility of fostering an atmosphere of good will, in which the possibility of inter-American misunderstanding will be reduced to a minimum, rests upon the youth of the Americas, he added.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the District Board of Commissioners, presided at the ceremony and introduced the Vice President. He said: "Pan-American Day and its observance throughout the American continent is destined to become the outward symbol of that great spirit of friendship and mutual understanding of which the western world is today the outstanding example."

While the celebration was unfolding on the Ellipse, Pan-American Day was being observed in the Senate and House. Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, expressed gratification over the marked lessening of former feelings of distrust of Latin-American governments toward the United States. A better mutual understanding of the culture and ideals of the various republics was attributed by Senator Bingham to the clear understanding between the two Americas.

In the House, Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, said that cultivation of better trade and spiritual relations with the American republics is more important to future welfare of the United States than continued fostering of ties with the Old World.

Diplomatic representatives of the Latin-American republics journeyed to Mount Vernon yesterday morning, where a wreath was laid on the Tomb of George Washington and messages were read from presidents of all the Pan-American nations. Assistant Secretary of State Francis White responded.

He expressed gratitude to the governing board of the Pan-American Union for its action in devoting the 1932 celebration of Pan-American Day as a tribute to the memory of George Washington. He observed that the ideals for which Washington struggled have so much in common with those of the founders of the other republics of America that the day's tribute might well be directed "to that great company of patriots to whom we owe the existence of the free nations of this continent."

Exercises at University.

Exercises were also held yesterday morning at George Washington University. Dr. James Brown Scott, international jurist and secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the principal speaker, stressed the need of the American republics for faith in their common destiny and common mission. "America for the Americas is not enough," he said; "it should be America for the world, as well."

Dr. Scott was introduced by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the university. Documents pertaining to Pan-American Day were read by Provost William Allen Wilbur, who offered the invocation and pronounced the benediction.

Dr. Enrique Coronado, assistant editor of the Bulletin of the Pan-American Union and brother of the first secretary of the Legation of Colombia, delivered an address at the Club Espanol of the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University.

Celebration of Pan-American Day was brought to a conclusion last night with a concert of Latin-American music in the Hall of the Americas in the Pan-American Union. The program featured the noted soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Mme. Aida Doninelli, of Guatemala, as well as the United Service Orchestra, composed of 110 musicians of the United States Army Band, the Marine Band and the Navy Band.

NEWS ABOUT LINDBERGH BABY HUNT IS WITHHELD BY POLICE

ago announced they would make public news of the reestablishment of any contact, providing it did not interfere with the investigation and the search for the stolen child.

Today's reference to the "reestablishment of contacts" was interpreted as referring to the attempt of Dr. John F. Condon, 72-year-old educator, who is negotiating under the title of "Jafsie," to get in communication again with the man to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom on the night of April 2 in the shadow of a Bronx cemetery.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, Lindbergh's attorney, has conferred with Dr. Condon frequently since the ransom payment.

Dr. Condon, himself, appeared cheerful and optimistic as he entered and left his Bronx home today on frequent short trips. He did not, however, discuss what progress, if any, he had made.

He was asked if he thought the kidnapers local men because they seemed so familiar with that section of New York, and he replied:

"I can't answer yes or no, but I want to tell you we are fighting the shrewdest band ever organized in the United States."

A moment later he was asked about the possible value of "leads" from abroad and in reply told the story of the blue bird of happiness, which was sought far and wide by two children, who at length returned discouraged to their home, only to find the bird awaiting them on their doorstep.

At 5:15 p. m. Dr. Condon left his home without disclosing his destination.

Meantime, Col. Breckinridge appeared to consider the discovery of one of the ransom bills in New York last week so important a clew that he held a long conference with New York police.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced that at the lawyer's request detectives would attempt to trace the bill by interviewing each of the 3,000 patrons of an uptown bank who made deposits on April 4 and 5.

Given Out by Teller.

The $20 bill was given out by a bank teller to David Isaacs, whose wife later discovered it bore one of the numbers announced by the Treasury. Officials of the bank were able to say only that the bill came to them either April 4 or 5, two or three days after the ransom had been paid.

Mulrooney also said that handwriting experts agreed notes received by Dr. Condon were written by the same person who wrote the original ransom demand left in the baby's nursery.

He also said one of his aids had questioned Robert Reo, who had volunteered a story of having overheard one of the conversations between Dr. Condon and the man believed to be an agent of the kidnapers.

Norfolk, Va., April 14 (A.P.).—A procedure without the jeopardy of kidnapers failing to deliver the Lindbergh baby upon the receipt of ransom money was arranged by the Norfolk negotiators prior to the recent futile ransom payment, it was revealed tonight by the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock.

The Episcopal rector added that he did not know whether such an arrangement was being made in the resumption of negotiations since the failure of supposed kidnapers to restore the child for $50,000 recently paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

While stating that the danger of a "double-cross" had been eliminated in their previous arrangements, Dean Dobson-Peacock said the negotiations did require faith on the part of both sides. He refused to give any information as to the nature of such arrangements.

MURRAY CRITICIZES HIS AID'S REGIME

Back Home After Calling Off Stump Tour; Says He's Still in Race.

Oklahoma City, April 14 (A.P.).—Gov. W. H. Murray returned tonight from "campaign wars" in Oregon and indicated displeasure with the rule of Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns during his absence. Hoarsely reiterating that he would continue his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, the governor declined to give any reason for the summary cessation of his Oregon tour.

During Murray's absence Burns halted work on a subprison on the grounds it was being constructed illegally, and ordered Col. Cicero I. Murray to explain why "certain companies" had been allowed to overproduce oil in the Oklahoma City field.

Col. Murray, the governor's cousin, is in charge of military proration of the field. "I have the same right to put the convicts to work that he (Burns) had to stop them," Murray said regarding the subprison work. "The guards are only in the oil field to prevent the courts from enjoining the corporation commission from enforcing proration," he explained concerning Burns' request for the report.

Volcanic Ash Falls 1,048 Miles Away.

Buenos Aires, April 14 (A.P.).—Meteorologists studying the volcanic phenomena in the Andes early this week received word today from Santa Victoria do Palmar, Brazil, that some of the volcanic ash which spread over Argentina and Chile had fallen there. That town is 1,048 miles from the zone of eruption.

DOCTOR'S KIDNAPING LAID TO 12 ARRESTED

Members of Alleged Gang of Terrorists Seized in Illinois Abduction.

Peoria, Ill., April 14 (A.P.).—Twelve members of an alleged gang of terrorists, accused of kidnaping Dr. James W. Parker, were arrested in a series of raids in three Illinois cities today.

Several of those arrested have confessed, implicating the others, according to State's Attorney Pratt, of Peoria.

Dr. Parker, a prominent local physician, was kidnaped a month ago and released when he was unable to raise $50,000 ransom demanded by his abductors.

Homer Massey, alleged leader of the gang, was rrrested at Jacksonville and Dwight Bartlett was apprehended at New Union, where he is said to have been hiding out since the kidnaping. Both are Peorians.

The other suspects arrested in Peoria and vicinity are Joseph H. Pursiful, James W. Betson, Raymond Stoops and his wife, Bessie; his brother, Arlo Stoops; Dean Stoops, a son; Ed Woodford, Cecil Menninger, Claude Evans and Bartlett's wife, Nellie.

Police said that Arlo Stoops and Menninger confessed that they and Bartlett and Evans were the actual kidnapers, and that Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stoops admitted their farm home was used by the kidnapers as Dr. Parker's "prison" and that they were to receive $2,500 of the expected $50,000 ransom; that Dean Stoops named Menninger and Massey as the guards of the surgeon and Arl Stoops as the driver of the kidnapers' car; that Menninger had admitted his part, and that James W. Betson, a contractor, admitted having been unwilling negotiator between the kidnapers and the surgeon's family for his release on ransom.

GROUPS HERE PLAN CHILD HEALTH DAY

Churches, Health and Social Organizations Will Take Part in May 1 Work.

Educational, civic and public health and welfare organizations of Washington are expected to make their contributions to the city-wide observance of May 1 as "Child Health Day" in response to the proclamation of President Hoover.

Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chief medical and sanitary inspector of the public schools, has again been designated as chairman of the May Day Child Health committee.

Dr. Murphy has written to the pastors of all churches to give special attention and emphasis to the idea of child health and protection in their sermons on May Day.

Public exercises and demonstrations will be held on Monday, May 2, he announced. Already the District Dental Society has arranged to bring two famous specialists to Washington, Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins, and Dr. Wallace Seccombe, of the University of Toronto, who will speak at Central High School on April 26 on "The Relation of Diet to Sound Teeth."

The Tuberculosis Association has promised its usual support with special meetings and clinical service, as has the Dental Society.

Other organizations so far promising help for May Day celebrations are: The Children's Hospital, Freedman's Hospital, the Christ Child Society, the Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A., the Young Women's Christian Association and the Y. M. C. A., the Public Library, Associated Charities, Council of Social Agencies, the Council of Jewish Women, the Women's City Club, the Association for Hard of Hearing and the Federation of Churches.

FEDERAL PAY.

With one stroke of the pen, Congress could cut from any great appropriation bill extravagant and unnecessary items amounting to more than would be "saved" by the proposed reduction in the pay of Federal workers. All plans thus far proposed for economizing at the expense of Federal employes are grossly unjust and unwise, from the standpoint of public interest and the efficiency of the Government.

Federal workers are already underpaid. They have been denied the small annual increases which were promised, and to which they are entitled by reason of loyal and effective service. They are now threatened with what is in effect a double reduction of pay. Naturally, the efficiency of the Federal service will be impaired if the workers are subjected to injustice; but the bad effects of the proposed cut would not stop with impairment of Government efficiency. Throughout all industry wage cuts would follow if the Government itself should take the lead in this defeatist move for false economy.

Economy is thrift and increased effectiveness, not starvation of absolutely necessary personnel. Economy requires the lopping off of unnecessary expenditures. The Government is not going out of business. It is trying to increase its efficiency and balance its budget. Why, then, does it not strike out some of the foolish and unnecessary appropriations for projects which can be deferred?

The temptation to cut down Federal pay, either directly or indirectly, is very great, in view of the urgency of the situation, but it would be most unwise to yield to this temptation. Federal pay is already unjustly low. Federal extravagance in big appropriation bills is unjustly high. The right place for use of the pruning knife is in these big appropriations, and not in the reduction of pay of poorly paid Federal employes. One or two superfluous items cut from appropriations for unnecessary projects would more than equal the total which it is proposed to wring from the Federal employes.

CONFIRM JUDGE WILKERSON.

After a protracted and useless controversy, Judge Wilkerson's nomination for the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals has been approved by a subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee. His name goes to the full committee with a substantial indorsement of his record as a courageous and fearless judge in dealing with organized crime.

Opposition to Judge Wilkerson came only from organized labor. Labor unions protested against two injunctions which he issued to restrain strikers. Regardless of the merits of either case, this objection to Judge Wilkerson is obsolete, because Congress has just modified the law under which injunctions in labor disputes may be issued. In dealing with emergency labor disputes Judge Wilkerson manifested the same courage that was evident in his valiant stand against organized crime. The law has been changed; the judge's courage remains. By all means his service to the country deserves recognition and promotion.

In voting to confirm Judge Wilkerson's nomination Senator Borah, chairman of the subcommittee which considered the matter, said:

> His rejection, I am satisfied, would greatly discourage the law and order people of Chicago who are fighting for their lives against the most ruthless band of thieves, cutthroats and murderers that ever infested a civilized community.
> It is a fight of organized society to free itself from organized crime. Now, the people who are making this fight have come to look upon Judge Wilkerson as a judge who not only had the courage but the ability to deal with the situation. And ability to deal with a thoroughly-trained and well-organized band of assassins is rather rare.

Senator Borah states the situation accurately. Every vote against Judge Wilkerson will give comfort and encouragement to the vicious elements that are trying to make a mockery of justice. In these circumstances it is unthinkable that the Senate would encourage crime by penalizing the judge who put Al Capone out of the way.

Powerful gangs and racketeers attempt to intimidate the courts and law enforcement officers on every hand. Prosecutors, witnesses and judges find it extremely difficult and often perilous to fight against them. How could the Senate justify any move that would further intimidate courageous judges who apply the law without fear or favor? The Senate has already weakened the example of rigid law enforcement which Judge Wilkerson laid down in Chicago by its long delay in confirming his promotion. It should now make up for this by a prompt and strong affirmative vote.

STARVING THE DISTRICT.

A further outcropping of the strangulation policy which the House has adopted in dealing with the District of Columbia may be seen in the District appropriation bill. That measure passes beyond the bounds of economy. It puts the District on a starvation diet, without relieving taxpayers of any burden during this critical period. No one will obtain any relief out of this program, except the Federal Treasury.

Appropriations are cut down to $39,913,810, which is $5,797,825 less than appropriations for the current year, and $4,173,109 less than was recommended by the Budget Bureau. There was no occasion for this drastic cut, except to relieve Congress of its obligation to help maintain the National Capital. Virtually all of the services that are rendered to residents of Washington have been curtailed, while the taxes they must pay remain the same. School children and dozens of other groups will be penalized because Congress is taking funds that should be used for strictly municipal purposes to finance a Capital of which the whole country will be proud.

In the first place, the House passed four District tax bills with a view to cutting the Federal contribution to the National Capital from $9,500,000 to $6,500,000. These tax bills are being more carefully scrutinized in the Senate, and they may not be enacted. Consequently, the House trimmed the District budget sufficient to allow for the $3,000,000 decrease in the Federal contribution without any revenue from the new tax bills. If the appropriation bill is accepted in its present form and the Senate passes the revenue measures, the District will be put in the position of building up a surplus as well as making a generous contribution to Uncle Sam in the form of free police and fire protection, free water, maintenance of parks, &c., during this year of critical depression.

It is not surprising that such stupidity stirs the resentment of citizens of Washington against their city council on Capitol Hill. One example is sufficient to illustrate how this policy of strangulation works out. The average appropriation for schools for 1930, 1931 and 1932 was $3,120,000. In 1933 under the House bill the schools of the District would be allowed less than one-half that amount. Yet miserable shacks are still used for schoolhouses and many pupils are allowed to attend only part time classes. In the last few years a considerable building program has been carried on, and many portable schools have been scrapped. If that program is cut in half and school attendance continues its rapid growth, it may be assumed that a new regime of portables will have to be inaugurated.

To foist such sacrifices upon the District for the sole purpose of relieving the Federal Government of its unquestioned obligation is an outrage which could spring only from total indifference to the welfare of the National Capital. It can not be assumed that the Senate will concur in this unjust and short-sighted policy.

NOT ENOUGH SUNLIGHT.

Dr. Jerome Davis, of Yale University, has joined the ranks of the critics of city life. "The human race," he says, "especially in North America and Europe, may unconsciously be committing suicide in its closed automobiles and the palatial, artificial, heated cages" of apartment houses and hotels.'

Up to within the memory of living people, man generally was a creature of the open country, Dr. Davis declares. The majority of the population was agricultural, laboring day after day in the fields with the sun beating down upon them. Cities were few in number and scattered, and walking and riding horseback or in open vehicles were the standard modes of travel between towns. Today few men work in the fields, still fewer women are employed out of doors, and people travel in closed automobiles, street cars and trains, or, if they walk at all, use only the shaded city thoroughfares. The urban population has fled the sun; the country population until recently has been trying to emulate the city element. There is a decline in the national birth rate traceable, in part at least, to these changes of habit and environment.

Dr. Davis has conducted an interesting experiment with hairless mice in his endeavor to test his observations of men. Mice subjected to ultraviolet radiation, conveying the essential vitamin D and other valuable but mysterious elements, prospered. Mice not so treated degenerated. Hairless mice were chosen because they resemble man in being hairless mammals. They are biologically akin. Both require the sun.

The sturdiest races are those which live in close association with nature. A movement back to the land is needed, and there are many indications that it is already in progress.

LATIN-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

Pan-American Day was observed in Washington with many evidences of good feeling and growing understanding, in contrast to a few outbursts in southern parts directed mainly at that worn-out scarecrow, the imperialism of the "Colossus of the North." American imperialism is conspicuous by its absence. The severest charge that could be brought against this Nation recently is that too much American money has been loaned in Latin-America with too little regard for capacity to repay.

It will be just as well, however, if the session of the Pan-American Union, scheduled to meet this year in Montevideo, should be postponed. The more pressing financial and economic problems confronting the nations of Central and South America, not to mention our somewhat testy neighbor in North America, Mexico, can not be settled in a congress of that nature. Each nation has important questions of its own, and most of the twenty republics have matters to be settled with the United States, but they can best be considered separately instead of in convention.

American investors have billions of capital at stake in Latin-America, about equally divided between investments in industrial enterprises and government securities. Both at present are very largely unproductive and before they again become remunerative doubtless will, in many cases, undergo revision and scaling down in a manner that will entail heavy capital loss. It is encouraging that a government agency is lending its good will to a gathering of experts to consider the entire question of these and other foreign holdings of American investors.

It is inevitable that, once the present economic troubles are over, intimate relations will be broadened between the United States and the republics to the South. Reciprocal needs will force closer intercourse. This country needs raw materials and Latin-America needs manufactures and capital for development of resources. More and more Americans and their Southern neighbors are realizing the futility of attempts to consolidate ideals which are distinct and separate, and which should be cherished as individual and distinct. Intercourse must be based on more material interests. In commerce and finance many fields of mutual advantage can, and undoubtedly will, be developed by the American nations, each of which will proudly retain its characteristics and its absolute independence.

FIGHT FOR TREATY NAVY

By OLIVER M'KEE, Jr., in the Boston Transcript.

A "Down Easter" from Maine, Frederick Hale, will lead the fight in the Senate for a treaty Navy for the United States. The steering committee has already decided to give the Hale bill a preferred status on the Senate calendar. This means that sooner or later the legislation will be considered by the Senate. Those hostile to the Navy will do their best, as they have done in the past, to prevent a favorable vote on the pending bill authorizing the building up of the United States fleet to the strength permitted by the Washington and London treaties. As so often in the past, pacifist organizations will do what they can to block action designed to strengthen our naval establishment and correct its weaknesses in ships and equipment.

As chairman of the naval affairs committee, Hale is the man principally responsible for leading the fight for a treaty Navy. A close student of naval policies and an authority on questions of international sea power, thoroughly American in his point of view, the Maine senator is well fitted for the job of explaining to the Senate why the United States needs to authorize the building program that will serve upon the world notice of our intention to maintain the ratios laid down by the Washington and London treaties. Hale comes from a part of the country that understands fairly well the relationship between sea power and national prosperity. He has little need of making converts in New England to his cause; his main difficulty lies farther afield.

Just now, the economy argument is one of unusual potency. While the Hale bill does not carry any appropriations, it does pave the way for later expenditures. As long as authorizing legislation is not on the statute books Congress will be in no disposition to vote funds for new construction on naval vessels. Hence, the pacifists are making the most of the fiscal condition of the Government to build up the opposition to authorizing a treaty Navy at this session of Congress.

Much has been made of the high military and naval expenditures of the United States. Examination will show, however, that the expenditures of the Federal Government have increased far less than threefold for military purposes, while its expenditures for nonmilitary purposes have increased eight-fold during the last twenty years. As the Navy League recently reminded us, the expenditures of the Department of Agriculture have increased in the last two decades by 1,370 per cent; those of the Department of Labor have increased 750 per cent, and those of the Department of State 380 per cent, while the expenditures of the Navy Department have only increased 270 per cent. It is interesting also to know that our total military expenditures have decreased from 34.2 per cent of our Federal expenditures in 1913 to 13.1 per cent of our Federal appropriations for 1932. The corresponding cost of the Navy has dropped from 17.8 per cent to 6.3 per cent.

The purpose of the Hale bill is to give blanket legislative authorization to build the Navy up to the strength permitted by the existing naval treaties. It thus differs from the Vinson bill in the House which authorizes a ten-year building program.

POST HASTE.

The Federal Reserve will endeavor to put a crimp in the depression with a permanent wave of credit.

One would expect that experienced old troupers like Al Smith and Harry Byrd would know better than to propose seriously new and fantastic schemes for national and international reforms.

Three things interfere with the launching of a Progressive third party movement this year—lack of candidates, issues and funds.

Al Smith thinks European importers would flock to buy American products if we offered them a 25 per cent discount to be applied on their national debt to us. He takes the Jefferson Day prize for unfounded optimism.

In order to be consistent the reopening of public lands to oil exploration should also carry the order that they be planted to wheat and cotton.

Harry Byrd sees the difficulty of securing a prohibition amendment, so, with the enthusiasm of a new convert, he proposes two amendments just to facilitate a referendum.

Federal employes can now make their summer plans, as it will not make much difference whether they get a pay cut or are permitted to take a month's vacation at their own expense.

WHEN WASHINGTON SWORE.

George Washington possessed so large a vocabulary that he usually found little difficulty in making his meaning clear without the use of oaths. However, it is recorded that on occasion he could swear and did swear according to the most fashionable standards of his time and place. Gen. Charles Scott recalled that, at the battle of Monmouth, "on a day that would have made any man swear," Washington swore "till the leaves shook on the trees." "Never have I enjoyed such swearing before or since," said Scott, "for on that memorable day he swore like an angel from heaven."

The Sheep Dog You Can Trust Is One That Doesn't Like Mutton.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

No political or economic system seems good to people who have no money and no jobs.

Millions of Americans, hard hit by the depression, blame the "capitalistic system" for the suffering they endure. They are bitter and desperate and will support any measure that gives assurance of better times. They are ready to scrap the "capitalistic system" for a better one.

This much-maligned system is simply the theory that every man has the right, under the law, to get and keep as much as he can.

The charge against it is not that it makes people poor, for in ordinary times it does not, but that it enables a few people to become too rich.

Why too rich? Because there is a point beyond which the growth of a great fortune is almost automatic. Its normal increase, too great to be expended for personal pleasure, reaches out to absorb more and more properties and industries, until in the course of time it controls the business of a nation.

But where is a better system to be found?

Somebody must save. If nobody saves enough wheat for seed, there will be no planting next year. Somebody must accumulate enough money to build machinery and factories and ships and thus provide jobs for the others. Somebody with unusual ability and special training must organize and direct the vast machinery of commerce, else there will be no prosperity for anybody.

Let the people run things, you say. But you don't mean that literally. The people might choose new managers, but under any system the ordinary man must continue at his job, as the ordinary man does in Russia, while a few men who know how do the planning and directing.

Communism means public ownership—and that, as you know, means Government control and management.

Are you willing to entrust America's industry and commerce to politicians? That is the only alternative to "capitalism."

It works in Russia, where the leaders are content in poverty and the people are filled with a religious zeal to serve. But Russians think it immoral to make money, and Americans have a different idea.

Politicians now loot the public till. Their graft is limited only by their opportunities. How many of them would be content with $150 a month if you trusted them with everything?

Made to Be Vetoed.
Chicago News.

It is assumed that President Hoover will veto the tariff bill just passed by the Federal Senate and previously by the House of Representatives. Beyond question it is purely a political measure. Only a few Republican radicals joined the Democrats in putting it through Congress The only practical provision of the bill is objectionable from every point of view. It seeks to transfer from the President to Congress the power to pass upon specific recommendations of the Tariff Commission concerning rates of duty on imports. Clearly, that arrangement would be productive of delay and uncertainty rather than of benefit to consumers. The other provisions of the measure are dubious, if not harmful. One provides for a consumers' counsel to represent the public in proceedings before the Tariff Board. Under the law the Tariff Board itself is charged with the duty of protecting consumers. That is the sole object of the flexible tariff, and a consumers' counsel would be a needless expense. Plainly the bill was intended to serve partisan purpose. It should be vetoed.

THE MAN HIMSELF.

George Washington looked the part, as the saying is. He stood three inches above six feet in his slippers, was rather slender than otherwise, straight as an arrow and well-proportioned and evenly developed in every way. He carried his height gracefully and looked strikingly well on horseback. "There never was a more active, sinewy figure than his when he was a young man; it was only in later life that his movements became slow." He had such fine carriage and excellent bearing that he was compared with princes to their disadvantage.

Mr. Ford, of Bedford, Philosophizes About Many Things Political.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Today the Congressional Record is suffering with a severe case of appendicitis and should have its appendix removed. Then it would be relieved of a lot of campaign and extraneous matter which would greatly improve that document and would be a great saving to the taxpayers.

I am heartily in favor of what Newton Baker said about Congress being in session continuously. I think all congressmen should be elected for six years, no consecutive terms. Then they could devote all of their time to legislating for the benefit of the people and not in building political fences.

I see that Dudley Field Malone suggests Young and Garner as presidential nominees, also a coalition cabinet. I would suggest Malone for United States Attorney General and Clarence Darrow for Solicitor General; then we could abolish all of the Federal penitentiaries, as no criminals ever would be convicted. I hope Darrow returns in time to defend the kidnapers of Col. Lindbergh's baby.

To help balance the budget why not put up the offices of President, Vice President, senators and the wet and dry planks at auction, all to go to the highest bidders; no salary to be attached to any of these offices? Emoluments: President, free rent; senators, the "immunity mantle" and franking privileges.

The criminal element need not feel too sure of their present immunity. They are going to find out that Americans who once upon a time had enough courage to form a posse and act swiftly as vigilantes when it became necessary to run down and hang rustlers who stole their cattle can and will do the same thing to rustlers who invade the sanctity of their very homes and make away with their children.

The alternative to vigilantes and lynch law is martial law. After the Chicago fire Gen. Phil Sheridan declared martial law and brought order out of chaos with the aid of the firing squad. Nothing less will solve our present reign or terror. Chicago is still on fire with a moral conflagration that sears worse than scars burned by the flames.

A people no longer capable of enforcing proper regard for life and property and proper respect for Old Glory should have that flag knocked from their hands. A people who no longer have backbone enough to defend their land and their homes from despoilers within as well as saber-rattlers abroad should remove the red stripe from their flag and insert a yellow stripe instead.

THE GENTLEMAN.

Men thought him over-gentle, but crisis found him strong,
He'd smile away life's various ills, but fight against a wrong.
The frets which anger many he minded not at all,
But honor found him ready to heed her battle call.

So fortified with patience his nature seemed to be,
He never made small blunders a cause for enmity.
The erring and the careless with tenderness he'd chide,
But arrogant injustice he fought until he died.

His smile was like a woman's, all radiant and sweet.
He had a word of friendship for all he chanced to meet.
The quarrels men rush into he shunned as things to hate
And he never lost his temper unless the cause were great.

Men thought him over-gentle, they oft misjudged his smile,
So quick was his perception of what was not worth while;
So true his sense of values, he spurned the trifling thrust
And only struck in anger at what he deemed unjust.

MIDDLEBURG HUNT EVENTS OUTLINED

4-Mile Race to Be Feature of 12th Annual Meet on Sands Estate.

Special to The Washington Post.

Middleburg, Va., April 14.—The entry list of the twelfth annual race meet of the Middleburg Hunt scheduled to be run on the estate of D. C. Sands at Middleburg Saturday afternoon, with the first event carded to start at 1:30 o'clock, establishes a record for races sponsored by this well-known hunt. The list shows a total of 58 entries for the five races, with post entries in the huntsman's race. The big race on the program, the Middleburg Hunt Cup, a 4-mile race over stiff timber, has twelve entries, with the probability that all would face the starter. This will be the second race.

The first race, the Sunnybank, amateur flat race for 3-year-olds and upward, about a mile and a half over turf course, has eight entries.

The third race, the William Skinner Memorial, a steeplechase over regulation brush jumps for qualified hunters, for 5-year-olds and upward, about 2½ miles, has listed twelve entries.

The Rose Hill, 3 miles across country, for half breds or clean breds that have never won a race, has eleven entries.

Brush Course Race.

The Loudoun Plate, open race, about two miles over a brush course, has fifteen entries and the last race on the program, the huntsman's race, for horses ridden regularly during the past season by the hunts and whips of neighboring packs and to be ridden by them in the race, gives promise of being well filled.

Racketeer II, owned by Mrs. T. H. Sommerville, looms as a great favorite in the Middleburg Hunt Cup race. He was the winner of the Deep Run Hunt Cup at Curle's Neck Farm, last Saturday. Pitted against Racketeer will be a number of noted rivals, among them being Soissons, of Flying Horse Farms, winner of an impressive number of important events over timber, among them being the Virginia Gold Cup, the Sergeant Murphy Cup and has to his credit triumphs in the Warrenton Hunt Cup, the Timber-toppers Chase and the Turner Hill.

The course has been rebuilt this year and is in excellent condition. It is considered by those in a position to know as one of the best in America.

Hospital to Benefit.

It has been decided this year to donate all funds to the Loudoun County Hospital. Complimentary tickets have been given out to all farmers over whose lands the hunt rides.

Boxholders include prominent society and sporting folk from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and this section. Many entertainments will be given for the guests, and a large number of visitors are scheduled to be in Middleburg for the week-end.

Judges for the event have been named as follows: Basil Hall, Newbold Ely and Admiral Cary T. Grayson; stewards, Algerton S. Craven, W. Plunkett Stewart, Howard Bruce and William duPont, jr.; clerk of scales, Edward Brennan; paddock judge, Thomas Roderick; starter, William C. Skinker; patrol judges, Paul Adams, Duval Tyler, John West and Rogers Fred.

Owners and Riders.

The Sunnybrook—Aries, R. B. Young, owner and rider; Doctor Rankin, J. W. Y. Martin, J. T. Skinner; Common Good, Allison Stern, owner and rider; Palm Off, Mrs. T. H. Sommerville, Noel Laing; Chatter Anne, Mrs. T. H. Sommerville, Noel Laing; Shingle, Mrs. M. S. Baird, R. Duffey; Last Cast; King's Own, H. R. Dulaney.

The Middleburg Cup—Marlhill Boy, W. C. Langley, R. B. Young; Soissons, Flying Horse Farm, J. T. Skinner; Light Dragoon, Flying Horse Farm, Skinner; Bulsold, H. R. Bishop, R. Duffey; Barbwire, W. A. D. A. R. Will Plant 25 Trees Today

Exercises at Hains Point Will Honor Washington Bicentennial.

Twenty-five George Washington bicentennial trees will be planted by District D. A. R. members at Hains Point during exercises this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, which will be attended by a group of national officers and other members of the organization, whose annual Congress convenes here Monday.

Another tree—a sugar maple—will be planted in honor of Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R. The Bicentennial trees are of three varieties—red oaks, willow oaks and elms. The slips for the oaks were taken from the grounds at Mount Vernon, while those for the elms were taken from the Washington elm at Concord, Mass.

Bronze tablets indicating the purpose of the trees to be planted will be dedicated at the ceremony. Each tree will be marked by the bronze placards.

Buses will leave the Continental Hall at 2 p. m.

FRIENDLY RECEIVERSHIP FOR INSULL FIRM ASKED

several days that such friendly action was imminent and these reports had it that Insull himself would probably be appointed to administer the affairs of the concern. Insull's statement follows:

"The board of directors of the Middle West Utility Co. announced today their determination that the best interests of creditors and stockholders will be served by appointment of a receiver.

"This action seemed unavoidable as a first step in the reorganization of the company. Application was immediately made in the Federal court for the appointment of a receiver. This action in no way affects utility operating companies, which are subsidiaries of the Middle West Utility Co.

"These subsidiaries, whose business, generally, is imminently satisfactory in view of economic conditions, will function as usual, financing themselves as heretofore.

"The board emphasizes the fact that the Eastern properties of the company, which are included in the National Electric Power Co. group, are not involved in the receivership. The Middle West Utilities Co. does not owe money to any of its Eastern companies.

"Receivership is the result of the company's inability to finance its obligations. Economic conditions make it impossible to work out a plan for the payment of about $22,000,000 in well-secured bank loans, slightly over $7,000,000 in partially secured loans, and meeting of a maturity of $10,000,000 in notes on June 1.

"With the company's assets conserved through protection of the Federal court, the reorganization plans will be developed as rapidly as economic conditions permit."

Middlewest Utilities has under its control a group of utility properties operating in 30 Central, Southwestern and Eastern States and Canada. Its receivership would be the largest ever experienced in the United States.

More than 4,500 communities are served by the operating companies, whose properties include: 302 steam electric generating stations, 196 hydroelectric stations, 80 gas manufacturing plants, 328 ice plants, one sheeting plant, turbines of 1,480,000 horsepower capacity, water turbines of 507,000 horsepower capacity, 232 gas holders of 25,011,960 cubic feet capacity, gas mains totaling 4,897 miles and electric transmission lines totaling 89,969 miles.

Advance news of the impending action, which scotched rumors that funds of the big Insull operating companies such as Commonwealth Edison, Peoples' Gas, and Public Service of Northern Illinois might be used to bolster the financial status of Middlewest had a decidingly stimulating effect on the latter issues today.

Commonwealth closed 10½ points up, or 12 points above the day's low, on the Chicago exchange.

JUNGLE GIVES CLEW TO AMBROSE BIERCE

American Writer, Missing 18 Years, May Be Alive in Brazil.

Buenos Aires, April 14 (A.P.).—A possibility that Ambrose Bierce, American writer and adventurer who disappeared mysteriously in 1914, might be the white man seen by Stephan Rattin, Swiss trapper, in the Brazilian jungle, was discussed here today.

Rattin said he believed the man was Col. P. H. Fawcett, missing British explorer.

But a former soldier of fortune here, who asked that his name be withheld on account of his present position, told of hearing from an aged guide named Johnson in 1924 that on an expedition into the interior several years before he encountered a white man named Pierce, or Pearce, with the Murcielago Indians.

The man, he said, was fairly tall and thin, with a fair mustache and long hair reaching to his shoulders. He carried spectacles but seldom wore them, the guide said, and the Indians called him "the four-eyed man."

The man gave Johnson a bundle of manuscripts, he said, asking him to mail them to an address scribbled on them, but the manuscripts rotted from the hide in which he carried them and the address was undecipherable when he returned to civilization.

The narrator of the tale here said Johnson showed him some of the rotted manuscripts and that they appeared to have been written between 1913 and 1916.

Ambrose Bierce disappeared in Mexico in 1914. There have been stories that he died in battle at Torreon, Mexico, with Pancho Villa's rebel forces; that he was seen in South America after his disappearance in Mexico; that he was driven from Villa's camp and shot and that he deliberately walked to death by heading into the enemy lines at Chihuahua City.

Irishman Bests Scot In Skyscraper Fight

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—The dizziest fight on record took place today on a top floor of the world's tallest building (Empire State), between a Scotchman and an Irishman.

Charles Campbell and Patrick Dougherty, cleaners, engaged in words over who should first use a ladder balanced above the eighty-seventh floor. The quarrel developed into a heated evaluation of their respective nationalities. Dougherty hit Campbell just once.

The Scotchman was taken to a hospital with a broken jaw. The Irishman was held in $100 bail for hearing on a charge of felonious assault.

Suspect Resembles Taxi Robber, Police Report

A description furnished by a colored taxicab driver who was robbed of $9 early Monday morning was the basis for the arrest yesterday of Willis Floyd, colored, 30 years old, of no fixed address. Floyd was arrested at Seventh and L streets northwest by Privates H. A. Turner and W. E. Handley, of the Second Precinct. He was held for investigation.

They said his description tallied with that furnished by Alfred Audrey, colored, 37 years old, of 1012 R street northwest.

HYATTSVILLE ENDS YEAR WITH SURPLUS

$8,800 Balance Is Reported; Rebate on Road Taxes Totaled $9,000.

The town of Hyattsville, Md., finished its last fiscal year with a surplus of about $8,800 on a budget of $35,504, according to the treasurer's annual report recently submitted to the council for approval.

Tax collections on real property amounted to $23,896, the report showed, the remainder of the budget being made up from other sources. Included in the receipts was more than $9,000 received from the county as a rebate on road taxes collected by the county. Street maintenance cost about $11,000, the fire department about $2,800, while $3,798 was paid out for fire equipment.

Other major expenses were street lights, $5,222; police salaries, $2,179; interest on road notes, $2,147; garbage collections, $2,993, and parks, $1,369.

Bonds to the amount of $120,000 were issued for the refunding of the street paving work and to provide for further improvement. In addition, $26,000 was borrowed for street work. In connection with refunding the old road debt, $85,000 was paid to banks, and $52,000 was spent on new work. Unpaid assessments for street improvement amount to $27,000, and there was $12,000 worth of work for which owners of abutting property have not been assessed. The town bought in a tax sale property which was assessed for about $29,000 and there was $11,000 in the sinking fund for the road bonds.

B. J. Kelly Rites To Be Held Today

Blood Poisoning Fatal to Catholic U. Alumnus; Born in Vermont.

Basil J. Kelly, advertising man, of Washington and former secretary of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, died yesterday in Georgetown University Hospital of blood poisoning.

Mr. Kelly had been connected with the Daily News here for several years and was well known in advertising circles. He was a member of Phi Kappa Fraternity of Catholic University and the Knights of Columbus. He was born in Bellows Falls, Vt., 30 years ago and was a graduate of the Catholic University of Washington. Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Kelly, of Silver Spring, Md.; two sisters, Mrs. James E. Shifflette, of this city, and Mrs. Paul Taggert, of Silver Spring, and a brother, Paul A. Kelly, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at the Sacred Heart Church, with interment Sunday at Rutland, Vt.

SOCIETY

President and First Lady Entertain Group at Dinner; Mr. and Mrs. Stimson Will Reach Le Havre Today.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER entertained a company at dinner last evening. After dinner Mrs. Hoover, with a number of the dinner guests, attended the concert of Latin-American music in the Pan-American Union Building when Mme. Aida Doninnelli, of the Metropolitan Opera, was the principal artist. Dr. Leo S. Rowe received the guests, whose host was the Pan-American Union, of which he is director general.

Mrs. Hoover took with her to the concert Mrs. James W. Good, widow of the Secretary of War in the early part of the Hoover administration; Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, of New York, widow of the former President; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lippmann, Capt. and Mrs. Russell Train, Mrs. Stark McMullin and Col. Hodges.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Hoover received the delegates to the Founders and Patriots Society now meeting here.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson will arrive at Le Havre today, where they will be met by Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Mr. Robert T. Pell, attache of the American Embassy. They will proceed to Paris, where the Secretary will be entertained at luncheon by Premier Andre Tardieu at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The other guests will include Mr. Edge, the Counselor of the United States Embassy, Mr. Norman Armour, and the French finance minister, M. Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

M. Tardieu, who has been in Geneva, went to Paris Wednesday to be there to greet Mr. Stimson.

The Secretary and Mrs. Stimson will leave Paris tonight for Geneva.

The Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, returned to Washington yesterday after a brief visit to New York.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay were guests in whose honor Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten entertained at dinner last evening. The other guests were the Swiss Minister and Mme. Peter, the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, the Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Douglas MacArthur; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walker, the Secretary to the President, Mr. Lawrence Richey, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Langhorne, and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Little, of Atlanta, Ga.

Lady Lindsay has sent out cards for a tea at the embassy on Wednesday, May 11, from 4:30 to 6:30.

Belgian Ambassador Will Be Best Man.

The Belgian Ambassador, M. Paul May, will be best man at the marriage of Miss Katherine Kelso Stewart, daughter of Mr. W. Plunket Stewart, of Brooklawn, Unionville, Pa., and Viscount Eric de Spoelberch, of Belgium, the noted polo enthusiast and aviation expert, which will take place on Thursday, April 28.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Stewart, who is well known in Philadelphia, was made on December 1; her mother was the former Miss Elsie F. Cassatt, daughter of the late Mr. Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The prospective bridegroom, who is the son of Comte and Comtesse Guillaume Spoelberch, makes his home in Philadelphia, and he belongs to several hunt and flying clubs both in Philadelphia and Santa Barbara, Calif. He also holds a lieutenant's commission in the Belgian Air Force.

Spaniards Celebrate Founding of Republic.

The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Cardenas yesterday celebrated the first anniversary of the Spanish republic under the tricolor which replaced the banner of the Bourbon kings on April 14, 1931. There was a luncheon at the embassy which included all members of the staff, not only of the diplomatic order but of the clerical force, and in the afternoon there was reception for all members of the Spanish colony in Washington.

Last night while the Ambassador and Senora de Cardenas dined at the Belgian Embassy, the servants of the embassy and their friends had a banquet in the embassy which the ambassador gave for them that they might celebrate as the people of Spain were celebrating. Later, after his formal dinner and broadcasting, the ambassador returned to the embassy to look in on the festivities.

Though in the past year the regime has changed so entirely, the spirit of those who serve Spain remains the same—whether they serve king or president, all serve Spain. In Madrid the rejoicing, though no more wholehearted than the rejoicing here, was more exuberant. Elaborate ceremonies marked the day throughout the city. Allegorical floats, folk dances and flower battles marked the jubilee, while in Paris the former King Alfonso XIII and Queen Victoria passed the first anniversary of their exile with Spanish royalties, both with the same sporting attitude they have maintained.

The Jugoslavia Minister, Dr. Leonide Pitamic, has issued invitations for a dinner on Saturday, April 16, in honor of Mme. Grouitch, wife of the former Minister from the Slavs, Croats and Slovenes, who is visiting Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman.

150 MEETING PLACES OF NAZIS ARE RAIDED

Resistance Met in Only Two Instances; Hitler Sees Stronger 'Army.'

Berlin, April 14 (A.P.).—Police raided 150 gathering places of the National Socialist "storm troops" today, carrying out President von Hindenburg's order for dissolution of the organization.

They met resistance at only two places, where they found some of the troopers trying to remove records. The offenders were arrested. At Hamburg there were a number of other arrests, but some of the prisoners were members of the Reichstag and these were released.

Adolf Hitler declared that the government's order would not put an end to the existence of the storm troops.

"We'll be back 600,000 strong," he said. "Our storm troops were suppressed once before when we had only 20,000. When the ban was lifted we had 60,000.

"I tell you that we'll get eight to nine million votes in the Prussian elections on the 24th. Together with Hugenberg's Nationalists we'll take over the power and the ban on the troopers will be lifted."

This evening the ban on the storm troops was extended also to the Hitler Jugend, a Nazi organization for youths under 21, and it was reported from Brunswick that the great Nazi training center at Kreiensen would be dissolved.

Mrs. Hoover Listed For College Honor

Will Attend Wooster's 125th Anniversary of Progress.

Wooster, Ohio, April 14 (A.P.).—The Nation's First Lady will become a doctor of letters and humanities when she comes here next month to witness a pageant depicting 125 years of progress of the town where her great-grandfather was a pioneer.

Officials of Wooster College today announced the degree of litterarum Humaniorum will be conferred upon Mrs. Herber Hoover in connection with the ceremonies. Besides receiving the degree, Mrs. Hoover will be guest of honor at the historical pageant celebrating the 125th anniversary of the founder of Wooster and will review the annual color day pageant of Wooster College.

The historical pageant will depict the coming to Wooster of William Henry, Mrs. Hoover's great-grandfather, whose name was given to one of the four original streets. Mrs. Hoover herself never lived here, her father having moved to Waterloo, Iowa, in 1872, and later to California. She has been here twice in recent years, however, tracing her family's history.

Stokes' Name Stricken From Registration List

Philadelphia, April 14 (A.P.).—The name of Representative Edward L. Stokes, of the Second Pennsylvania District in Philadelphia, today was ordered stricken from the voters' registration list on the ground that he is not a resident at the place given in the list.

The name was stricken off by the registration commission after a hearing, on a petition presented by an elector who contended that Stokes is a resident of Haverford, Montgomery County. Stokes is a candidate for reelection to Congress from the new Fourth District in Philadelphia. There is no law against a nonresident of a district being a candidate.

Boy, 17, Gets 60 Days For Stealing Papers

William Bader, 17 years old, of Atlanta, Ga., yesterday was sent to jail for 60 days following conviction before Judge R. E. Mattingly on a charge of stealing 35 newspapers from a rack.

Bader went to jail almost with a sigh of relief, inasmuch as there was a clerical error at court and he was inadvertently charged with attempted criminal assault. He protested against this charge and when the clerks looked up the matter they found that the more serious charge was against another man. Bader took the papers from a stand at 12 & street northeast.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Having Chosen Your Perfume, Here Is How to Apply It.

LET us suppose that you have been very successful in choosing a perfume that suits you perfectly. The next thing to consider is how to apply it to achieve a most flattering effect. Here are many important hints to remember when using perfume.

Elsie Pierce.

That a little is enough; that a good perfume is the only kind to use and that a good odor usually has lasting qualities. That a drop behind the ears, a touch on the lids or brows, a bit on your wrist or palm of the hand will give you that paradoxically elusive yet clingy effect that is so alluring. That the atomizer is a very economical way of spraying perfume, satisfactorily and evenly. That instead of spraying it on your clothes or furs, a little on your body, right on your skin after the bath will linger long. You may also spray a little on your underwear or your stockings.

The Sachet Bag.

The sachet bag is an old standby and many women use it in linen closets, in lingerie drawers, in handkerchief cases, tied to hangers in the clothes closets so that dresses and coats take just a hint of the perfume from these little bags. The important thing to remember, however, is that the sachet bags must not hold a scent that conflicts with the predominating perfume you will use for your person. A very thin silk sachet bag may be stitched to the lining of your favorite hat to carry the subtle scent to your hair. This should be changed very frequently, of course.

Still more tricks: A thick layer of absorbent paper, like blotting paper, may be stitched around the crown of your hat to serve the same purpose as the sachet.

A similar sheet of paper may be placed in your stationery, under your desk blotter, in your bureau drawer, and your belongings will breathe your favorite perfume.

Do not put perfume directly on your furs because furs hold perfume for such a long time that you may find when you wish to use a new perfume the old scent lingers and does not blend with the new. Likewise with handkerchiefs, even after laundering, a drop of perfume applied directly to the linen will linger. Better to put sachet bags around your handkerchiefs.

And let me remind you again that a delicate, subtle odor is most pleasant and appeals to the majority of people. Smart women avoid too strong, exotic odors except for special occasions. What a mistake, for instance, when one is taking a brisk morning walk, to wear a heavy Oriental scent that calls to mind burning incense and Turkish dancers.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF April 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Astrological influences on April 15 will bring about a comfortable state of mind, which will enable you to forget for the moment the thousand or more "ifs" which stand between you and happiness and contentment. Mental efficiency should be expected, and problems solved during these moments of lucid understanding and vision.

The child born on this April 15 will have outwardly a quiet and placid nature, but nevertheless it will sweetly and unconcernedly push ahead along the paths it wants to go in spite of conflicting wills or opposition. It can be reached through its affections where it can not be driven by other forces.

Born on April 15, you have a nature which could be completely spoiled by a too upholstered life, but which, on the other hand, could be nobly heroic when a tough and hard row is given you to hoe. You quail before trivial assaults of fate, but under bombs and shells you never show the white feather, but reveal to the world inexhaustible reserves of courage. Your whimsical humor is able to make a joke of the worst.

You are inclined to drift and to let your spirit become demoralized. You are "all there" when some adventure with a purpose is at hand, but you are not enough of a pioneer or enough of a leader to find these adventures yourself. You are inclined to take the good things of life for granted, and to be rather unfeeling about the rest of the world. You need to suffer before you will know what life really is, or before you will become an understanding person. You are often held back by false pride from doing those things which would bring a more bountiful harvest to your door, if you dared turn a deaf ear to friendly criticisms. You are conservative in most of your ideas, and could never become a real radical. You are inclined to pursue a middle course rather than take to either extreme.

Successful people born April 15:

Joseph E. Brown, governor of Georgia.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SPRING VEGETABLES.

NOW is the time for all good people to eat early spring vegetables. Nearly every one comes out of the winter with some minor evidence of scurvy. It is not much. There is no danger to life. No serious disorder threatens, but there is a train of small disturbances that is in evidence.

Gums are not quite as firm as they should be. If they are examined closely in a good light, here and there is a somewhat boggy area. The membranes do not hug the teeth closely everywhere. In a certain place the gum is a little too red. There may be a little blood on the toothbrush. Perhaps the tongue can locate a part of the gums that is a little sore.

At times the tongue is a little too large and the edge shows the print of the teeth. The ridges across the roof of the mouth are a little too large and they, too, may be a little sore and red. When a farmer finds a horse with this condition he says he has the lampas, and he lances the gums and gives some doses of "condition" powder. Of course, what the horse really needs is some fresh young spring grass.

Coming back to the human animal, the minor discomfort may not be felt in his mouth. It often takes the form of pain in the joints. If the complainer is a child, this may be called growing pains. Very frequently the discomfort takes the form of a neuralgia. Headaches may be one way in which the system tries to tell us that things are not quite as they should be. Constipation is another of these disorders which develop out of the early spring condition. And still another is some form of disorder of the skin. As a rule, there is nothing more than a roughening, or some unimportant blemish.

The old time remedy was to take a spring tonic, or a herb tea. The modern method is to lay in a new supply of vitamin by eating some fresh stuff, such as early radishes and onions, English peas, early salads, and greens. Many of these are best eaten raw. They are of value even though cooked in soups, or boiled, provided the juice is used.

In a short while the early spring fruits will come on the market. They should be eaten, for while they do not have the fine flavor of their successors they are timely in their arrival.

It is true that refrigeration has helped to prevent these minor spring troubles by supplying us with fruits and vegetables out of season. But at best they do not entirely fill the bill. The best vegetables are those that are eaten soon after being pulled, just as the best fish are those that jump from the water into the pan.

FLEAS AND DYE.

Mrs. M. F. M. writes: About a week ago my husband was working around a nook in which our large bird dog sleeps, and he was badly bitten by fleas above the top of his high shoes. Later he noticed the itching sensation, and spent the remainder of the evening scratching. His black socks were new, and whether the dye poisoned the skin or what caused the irritation which followed, we do no know. At any rate, he has a slightly swollen band of inflamed surface from an inch to three inches wide all around each leg just above the top of the shoe line. It is a solid welt, no bites being visible singly on either leg, and no sores.

I have tried many remedies, but the swelling persists. I never knew fleas were so poisonous. Is the swelling dangerous?

REPLY.

You are probably right. This condition is due to fleas plus dye. All he need do is to avoid these two causes, both separately and in combination. Fleas are not very poisonous. The swelling is not dangerous.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Graceful lines of a satin evening gown from Bernard et Cie., Paris. And an odd shoulder puff effect from Lelong, achieved with sash ends only.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Some wit just remarked that the only place left for milady to wear her hat is on her elbow! And it is true that hats have been tipped at every conceivable angle in the past 10 years, from the adoption during the late war of the American felt helmet hat with chin strap and the cap shaped like a helmet to the Second Empire hats of last year that hid the one eye completely.

Starting with the above mentioned war hat, which "made some petticoated humbugs look like heroines, while the real workers were at the front and in the hospitals," we progressed to the hat which wobbled on the head like a clown's. Then the small felt hat which fitted so closely over the eyebrows that the wearer was obliged to keep her head up, under penalty of headaches. After this, fashion went to the opposite extreme and insisted on things like choir boys' caps, stuck on the back of the head.

And then Second Empire, balanced on the forehead over one eye. And now, what?

Maybe, maybe—sh-h-h-h-h, this wave of romanticism will end in a return of the picture hat, which was the delight of women in a long period of sentimental dreaming. If so, we moderns will have to learn how to wear a hat all over again, because the successful handling of a picture hat requires as much practice as the wearing of a shawl, or the graceful waving of a fan!

And this, then, ends our "Hat Chat" series, which I hope you have enjoyed. Needn't be stingy with your appreciation, either, or your requests, dahr-lings!

Spoke of perfumes earlier this week—know that if you don't want either powdered orris root, dried rose leaves or lavender in your sofa pillows, you can put cotton dipped in perfumes in them? And I like that ordinary, inexpensive Chinese incense, the kind that comes in sticks and they burn plentifully in temples—it has an indescribable fragrance which is intriguing and delightful, and not at all too "Chinesey." I break this up and put it in some pillows and often in a handkerchief box just whole—with a tight lid. This permeates the handkerchiefs after a while, and the fragrance seems to blend with any other perfume I happen to be using in the rest of the ensemble.

Yes, you have guessed it. This is one of the "secrets every lovely lady should know," and there are many others like this which cost as little to indulge in—30 cents' worth of the incense sticks lasts me a year. A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring you this leaflet, and I promise you that you will greatly profit thereby, and not only at no expense, but at an actual saving of pennies.

French Fashion.

Ruffled and classical at the same time, that's what this model from Bernard et Cie. is. The bustle-like ruffles in the back are simple, yet lend a charm to the severity of the front lines. And that shoulder fischu is more whimsical in the back, too, than in the front.

And as to the shoulder effect in the little sketch. Well, Lelong has achieved something here—with a ribbon, my dear, which matches the dress in color and material. This ribbon is simply sewn at the back and then threaded through a slit at each side-front of the shoulder, but allowed to puff over them before the end falls straight down in a most graceful line. Charming!

Au revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

His Dear Vanity.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD:

Having read your column for such a long time, I deem it necessary that I, too, should submit a question for you to reason out.

At the present I am very much infatuated in a young man in his late twenties. I have had one "date" with him, and through unforeseen circumstances had to break another "date" which he made. I believe breaking the second date has hurt his vanity, and since that time, he has not made another call.

I would like to know how to make advances toward him, but at the same time not have him suspect how I feel in regard to him. Any suggestions you may make, will be gladly followed. I thank you.

MARYLAND SUSIE.

Well, these sweet and tender blossoms that are so easily bruised lack something that husbands need. And our advice is to forget this drooping flower in favor of something more substantial.

Of course, if you feel that you failed in courtesy in your mannner of breaking the date or in the conditions or circumstances surrounding the matter, that is different. There are some engagements that can be more easily set aside than others. Some where any change of plans demands more notice than others. If you failed in courtesy the man's displeasure is justified, and we doubt if he would even be interested in continuing the friendship. But if you complied with all the rules of civilized life and are justified in your belief that he is so self-loving that he could not bear this slight wound to his vanity, then we pray you to thank a gracious fate, bear up, and try again.

Some women are born for martyrdom, of course, and love the chains that drag them to the lions. But we simply can not comprehend the woman who deliberately elects to spend her days binding up the wounds of one of these sensitive souls who are constantly being lacerated by the rude thrusts of life. We know a woman who has been thus occupied for 10 years, until now she too suffered all his fancied hurts. These people really enjoy their imaginary agonies. They love to dramatize themselves in some out-of-the-way corner at a party. Somebody has hurt Sylvester's feelings. And the evening is a success for Sylvester. The more attention directed to his plight the more complete the success. If by any chance he spoils the party for his wife all the better. If some stranger to his psychosis is moved to concern or discomfort his soul knows real reward. Such people should be labeled "fragile" and left to their fate.

You do what you think best in the circumstances. A bridge party will always bring back the strays painlessly. But why bring back so much trouble? But then why do any of the things we do to complicate existence? Go ahead. Call him up for bridge, and begin all over again. What a world!

New Facts Found In Roanoke History

Hollins College Man Will Reveal Findings at Science Session.

Charlottesville, April 14 (A.P.).—Joseph H. Turner, business manager of Hollins College, is to describe the results of several years of delving into the history of Roanoke County and Roanoke City in an address before the luncheon meeting of the Virginia Social Science Association to be held on Friday, May 6, as a part of the program of the Sixth annual meeting of the association which will be held in Roanoke May 6 and 7.

An assortment of facts which have hitherto escaped the surveillance of historians of this area have been discovered by Mr. Turner during the course of persistent study of the history of this area during the past few years. These are to be presented, and, in addition, will be illustrated by a number of particularly significant old maps of this section which Mr. Turner has collected.

The Virginia Social Science Association will hold its meeting in Roanoke under the joint auspices of Hollins College and Roanoke College. Members of the association, including leading business men, public officials, religious leaders, and members of the faculties of each of Virginia's colleges and universities will trek toward Roanoke for this two-day meeting.

Southern Baptists Plan To Ask Dry Candidates

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 14 (A.P.). Dry candidates running on a dry platform will be demanded of Republican and Democratic national conventions by delegates to the Southern Baptist convention, meeting here May 13 to 17, Dr. David M. Gardner, chairman of the committee in charge, said today.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

HERE'S AN INTERNATIONAL SUPPER.

FIRST of all today comes our plan for Saturday's supper, and then, as usual, a Sunday dinner menu. This Saturday's supper is to be simple, indeed, merely a Spanish omelet, since eggs are so much cheaper now, with potatoes O'Brien (we indulge ourselves and skip from one country to another very easily); a vegetable, red rather than "green," since this is a beet dish; a salad for those who just must have one, and apple sauce, simplest of all desserts imaginable. But of this supper let me say that it need not of necessity have all these items. We try to plan for the average family and thus stick pretty close to a "meat, potato, vegetable and dessert" routine. In fact, this menu would be amply substantial with just the omelet (which boasts a vegetable content because of its Spanish sauce), a salad, hot bread and the dessert. But we leave the alteration to your choosing. As for Sunday, since last week we had a chicken, we shall be more modest and suggest short ribs of beef and Yorkshire pudding. Here, then, are two menus.

SUNDAY'S DINNER.

Grapefruit Halves
Pickled Onions Radishes
Short Ribs of Beef
Yorkshire Pudding
Glazed Sweet Potatoes
Shredded String Beans
Cucumber and Onion Salad
Apricot Ice Small Cakes
Coffee

SATURDAY'S SUPPER.

Spanish Omelet
Potatoes O'Brien
Buttered Diced Beets
Shredded Lettuce With French Dressing
Apple Sauce
Inexpensive Chocolate Cake
Coffee

Spanish Omelet With Sauce.

4 eggs
4 tablespoons milk
Dash of pepper
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter

Separate the yolks from the whites of the eggs. Add the salt, pepper and milk to the yolks and beat until thick and lemon-colored. Beat the whites until stiff and fold into yolk mixture. Melt one-half tablespoonful of butter in each side of hot omelet pan and pour equal quantities of mixture in each side. Cook about two minutes over low flame; turn one side of omelet over other, being careful not to spill mixture. Cook two minutes more, then test by opening pan slightly. If is sticks to finger, cook a minute longer. Turn onto platter and serve with the following sauce:

Chop one onion and one green pepper very fine (add mushrooms, if desired), and salt and pepper to taste. Place in hot pan with one tablespoonful of butter and fry to a golden brown. Add three tomatoes which have been peeled and sliced and simmer until done.

Inexpensive Chocolate Cake.

1 cupful brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
½ cupful cocoa
1 cupful sour milk or buttermilk
2 cupfuls flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoonful vanilla
½ teaspoon baking soda mixed with ¼ cupful water

Mix brown sugar and cocoa. Add sour milk, vanilla and butter, melted. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to first mixture. Stir in the soda and water and pour into well-greased eight-inch layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees), for 25 minutes. Ice wih uncooked frosting.

Uncooked Frosting.

2 cupfuls confectioners' sugar
1-3 cupful butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla
¼ cupful milk

Mix sugar and butter thoroughly. Add the milk a little at a time until of spreading consistency. Flavor with vanilla.

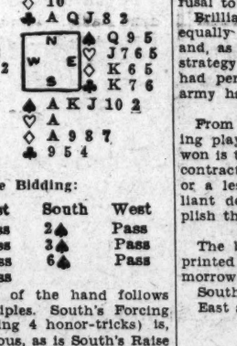
BRILLIANT DEFENSE VS. BRILLIANT ATTACK.

WHEN playing against a Slam contract, it is generally a good rule to take a trick when you find it, but in a recent national event, in which some of the strongest players in the world were pitting their wits against each other, one of the world's ranking players elected to refuse to win a trick and thereby set a trap for the opposing player, which almost brought about the defeat of the Slam. The hand was played a few months ago in the annual contest for the City of Asbury Park challenge trophy. One of the critical deals in the final round was the following:

North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The Bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♣	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♣	Pass	6♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding of the hand follows accepted principles. South's Forcing Takeout (holding 4 honor-tricks) is, of course, obvious, as is South's Raise to the Slam contract after his partner has shown that he can support a twice-bid trump suit.

West opened the Queen of diamonds, South won with the Ace and immediately took the club finesse. At most tables East won this trick immediately and then, after South had taken the necessary finesse in trumps, East and West were compelled to concede defeat. At two tables, however, East refused to win the first club trick with his King and at one this ruse resulted in the defeat of the contract, as the Declarer, wrongly placing the club King in the West hand, then took the spade finesse, which held, and after drawing the adverse trumps, finessed the club suit the second time and lost a diamond trick as well.

At the other table, where East elected to decline the club trick, the Declarer proceeded with more caution. While the play probably indicated that West held the club King, South could see no harm in making assurance doubly sure. After winning the second trick with the club Knave, he returned to his own hand with the Ace of hearts and led one of his diamonds to trump in the Dummy. A trump was then led and the Ten finessed, and when this held, South led the third round of diamonds, trumping with Dummy's last trump. The King of hearts was then led and the last diamond discarded. South now led a small heart, trumping with the Knave of spades and laid down the Ace and King of trumps, drawing the adverse trumps. South then led his last trump and it was only on the twelfth trick, when West, who had discarded his remaining club on the trump lead, failed to follow suit, that South realized the trap that East had set for him through his brilliant refusal to win the first club trick.

Brilliant defense had been met by equally brilliant attacking measures and, as is usually the case when the strategy is equally efficient, success had perched on the banners of the army having the heaviest battalions.

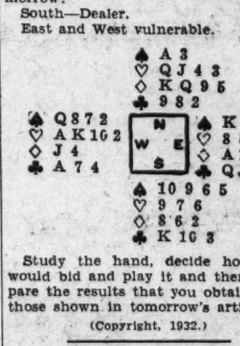
TODAY'S POINTER.

From the standpoint of the defending players, the essential trick to be won is the trick which will defeat the contract, whether it is for Slam, game or a lesser goal. Unusual and brilliant defense will sometimes accomplish the apparently impossible.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results that you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

COTONEASTERS ALWAYS DESIRABLE.

COTONEASTERS are always decorative, but in the fall and early winter we are particularly grateful for their scarlet fruit and evergreen foliage. In June the plants are covered with a mass of small, deep pink flowers, which we are apt to overlook, not because they are not attractive, but because in the first month of summer we have such a wealth of color all over the garden.

In the fall, when the crimson tints and tones begin to fade and the landscape takes on a more somber mein, we are attracted by the bright, scarlet, egg-shaped fruit, each about one-third of an inch long. These wee berries hang on the bare branches all winter, and not only add a bit of color to the garden, but provide food for our feathered friends as well.

All cotoneasters are not reliably hardy. So if you are one of the people who add to your garden family while motoring about the country, be sure to explain to the nurseryman with whom you place your order the kind of winter you are likely to have.

The spreading cotoneaster is absolutely hardy. This variety is very showy, of upright habit, sometimes attaining a height of 5 or 6 feet, with wide, spreading branches. It is well worthy of a place of prominence in any foundation planting scheme or even in single group arrangement.

There are many varieties of cotoneasters, but in most cases the dwarf kinds are always evergreen, or at least nearly so. These low-growing bushes are the varieties that are so popular for rock-garden use.

While as a class cotoneasters grow well in almost any soil, they usually abhor deep shade and refuse to grow in ground that is not well drained. During the first season every variety should be kept well watered. They must never be permitted to go into the winter with dry roots.

Of late people are finding out how desirable the cotoneasters are for hedge use. They make a most beautiful thick hedge.

Since the introduction of some of the newer Chinese varieties there is a renewed interest in this family which is very gratifying. If you do not know the cotoneaster, ask your nearest nurseryman to show it to you.

CONTEST RECORDS WILL GO ON RADIO

Selections Will Be Made at Random From Those Entered for Prize.

The character of recordings being made in the great Washington Post-RCA-Victor "home recording" contest will be partially revealed at 5:45 p. m., Monday, April 18, in a 15-minute broadcast over station WOL. Those who will participate in the broadcast will be selected at random from the list of hundreds of entrants in this interesting contest, and their choice for this purpose will have no bearing on the final selection of prize-winners.

So far as possible The Washington Post will select those who have had no previous experience before the microphone and thus give them an added thrill to that which they received when making their first record. Later, similar broadcasts may be arranged, so it is naturally to the advantage of all who plan to enter this contest to make their recordings as soon as possible.

No Red Tape.

There is no red tape involved and positively no cost or obligation. Simply go to any of the recording stations listed below and you will be given a blank record on which you may register your voice in speech or song, or the playing of any musical instrument.

The record will be yours to keep, after it has been rated by a committee of judges and in addition you will be qualified to share in the distribution of $700 in merchandise prizes. The decision of the judges will be final in every case and in event of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded. The Washington Post reserves the right, however, to retain records of unusual merit until after the close of the contest at 6 p. m. Saturday, April 23.

Competition is divided into an amateur and a professional classification and every person will compete within his own class. Children, when accompanied by an adult, are equally privileged to make one of these genuine RCA disc records.

Free audiences and records are given daily during regular store hours at the following "recording stations."

CHAMBER WILL VIEW PARKS FILM TONIGHT

Exhibit Also to Be Feature; Eliot Will Speak and Reports Heard.

Members of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will meet in the auditorium of the new National Museum tonight to witness the comprehensive Bicentennial exhibit on the planning of Washington and view the talking motion picture on the parks of Washington prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The meeting has been arranged through the courtesy of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission on invitation extended by Frederic A. Delano. The exhibit and film will be discussed in an address by Charles W. Eliot 2d, city planner of the Park and Planning Commission.

Harry King, president of the chamber, will preside and important reports will be presented by Vice President Thomas P. Littlepage, for the Bicentennial committee; Col. E. G. Bliss, for the District finance committee; Dr. George C. Havenner, law and legislation; George E. Keneipp, transportation, and T. S. Settle, public recreation.

Among the important subjects approved by the board of directors which will be presented to the members for final action are: The Mapes bills now pending in Congress, the proposal to create a port authority to develop the Port of Washington, investigation of coroners' juries, inspection and regulation of taxicabs, the chamber's Bicentennial activities and a number of miscellaneous legislative proposals approved by the law and legislation and other standing committees.

The meeting, called for 8 o'clock, will include the regular business session with action on committee reports.

War Veteran's Identity Proved by Fingerprints

Philadelphia, April 14 (A.P.).—Fingerprint records of the War Department today furnished proof to relatives of Tobias Burke, disabled war veteran, that they were correct in their identification of him after he was found recently living near Chicago under the name of "Joe Bond."

Burke, a victim of amnesia caused by injuries suffered in the World War, disappeared from his home here December 5, 1921. A friend of war days recognized him recently at Berwyn, suburb of Chicago, where he was operating a gasoline station under the name "Bond."

Threat on Bowman Is Laid to Crank

"I Will Meet Those Rats Anywhere," Declares Capitalist.

San Diego, Calif., April 14 (A.P.).—Wirt G. Bowman, capitalist and president of the Agua Caliente (Mexico) Corporation, said today he believed a threatening letter demanding $50,000 which he received recently was the work of a crank.

Bowman, in visiting Sheriff Ed Cooper yesterday, accompanied by two guards, revealed he was the target of a possible extortion plot. "I am not in seclusion. I am out in the open and I will meet those rats anywhere," Bowman said.

The letter, which was mailed in San Diego and delivered to Bowman at his office in Agua Caliente, Mexico, referred to the attempt two months ago to extort $7,500 from James N. Crofton, an associate with Bowman in the border resort and race track, saying "When Crofton die police will scratch his head."

Volcanic Eruption Kills Five.

Moscow, April 14 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the newspaper Izvestia from Baku today said five persons were killed and nearly a score injured in a volcanic eruption on the island of Svinoi. The Soviet steamer Yakov-Zevin sped to the scene, the dispatch said, and took aboard eighteen persons who were suffering from burns. Svinoi is one of a number of small islands in the Caspian south of Baku.

The B & O
NEW YORK
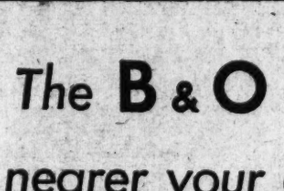
BROOKLYN

YOU may not be planning a trip to New York today or tomorrow. But sometime soon, undoubtedly, pleasure or business will take you there. When that day comes, remember that the B & O makes it unusually convenient for you.

After a train trip which we sincerely believe you will enjoy, you will be met directly at trainside in Jersey City by a fleet of Motor Coaches. They take you and your hand-baggage via ferry across the Hudson River. This is a very pleasant way to enter New York—refreshing, unhurried, and entertaining. The most sophisticated traveler is fascinated by the sky-scraper-skyline of Manhattan Island, the thrill of seeing huge trans-Atlantic liners idling at their piers. Your Motor Coach whisks you smoothly through the streets of New York—past shops and famous business buildings—and delivers you at any one of 13 points in the city (or in Brooklyn, if that's where you are bound). Regular stops are made at many of the most popular hotels. The Wall Street section, theatre district, mid-town, up-town—whatever your final destination—a B & O Motor Coach lands you nearer at your doorstep.



Ten B & O trains leave Union Station for Philadelphia and New York every day. At 7:15 A.M.; 8:00 A.M.; 9:00 A.M.; 11:00 A.M.; 1 P.M.; 2:35 P.M.; 4 P.M.; 5 P.M.; 12:35 A.M. and 3:30 A.M. (last two trains ready for occupancy 10 P.M.)

We urge you to try our railroad on your next trip. We are confident that you will enjoy a pleasant, restful journey, good meals at reasonable cost, the courteous attention of our train personnel. And that you will find our Motor Coach arrangement in New York extremely convenient. D. L. MOORMAN, Assistant General Passenger Agent. Tel. District 3300.

ONE KILLED, 30 HURT IN COAL STRIKE RIOT

Ohio Troops Are Called Out as Workers and Union Men Stage Fight.

Columbus, Ohio, April 14 (A.P.).—The Ohio National Guard tonight moved into the eastern Ohio bituminous coal mine strike area, where one man was killed today and more than a score of others injured in serious rioting.

Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson called out the guard after a conference at which John Cinque, of Bellaire, president of the eastern district of the Ohio United Mine Workers, said he could be responsible for his own men, but not for other striking workers.

Three Units Mobilized.

The third battalion of the 145th Infantry at Akron, the 166th Service Company at Columbus and the medical detachment at Cleveland were ordered mobilized at Cadiz, in Harrison County. The 145th, consisting of 270 men, had been standing by at Akron all day and entrained immediately.

The Somers Mine of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., near Adena, scene of today's rioting, was quiet tonight. National Guard observers and Harrison County deputies, however, feared the invaders might return to the district and continue their efforts to persuade working miners to answer the strike call issued April 1 by the United Mine Workers.

In the meantime Secretary of Labor William N. Doak called upon Ohio operators and union officials to meet with him in Washington next Wednesday, when efforts will be made to settle their differences. Secretary Doak, in his telegram to the interested parties, labeled the situation "serious and distressing." Union leaders said they would attend the session.

Bombarded With Stones.

The rioting at the Somers mine was the most serious since the coal diggers in a majority of the Ohio fields walked out on protest against wage reductions. More than 500 men sought to induce the workers to strike. The workers refused, and while en route to the mine with guard officers and deputy sheriffs, they were bombarded with stones and about 30 were injured. At the mine mouth, a general fight occurred, and Walter Kimbel, a striker, was shot and killed. Another man was wounded in the leg.

Sheriff Maurice Wooster and his deputies drove off the assailants with tear-gas bombs, order was restored, and the miners went to work.

Guard officers said Kimbel was killed by a bullet from the gun of an unidentified person, but the strikers claimed he was felled by a shot from a gun in the hands of a guard officer.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

A GROUP of Boston folk are gambling on the chance that the public, satiated with the offerings of Tin Pan Alley, has regained its ear for the lilting tunes of operetta, says Mr. Martin Kane.

Beginning the third week of their experiment a few days ago, they envisioned a return of the heyday of light opera which reached its full glory just before the era of the mooing saxophone, before the clarinet learned to cackle, when good singing was enjoyed by everyone and crooning was used only on helpless infants as a substitute for soothing syrup.

The group, organized recently for the production of operetta, called itself "The Bostonians." That was the name of the company whose manager, William McDonald, lured Victor Herbert from the composition of trifling pieces for violin, piano and 'cello to the work which gave him fame. McDonald induced Herbert to try his hand at operetta with "Naughty Marietta," "Babes in Toyland" and "The Fortune Teller" as results.

Herbert's rise as a composer started with that first operetta, "Prince Ananias," written in 1893 only because of McDonald's repeated urging. It gave spurs to the field of comic opera at a time when something called ragtime was enjoying a sort of popularity.

Comic opera, of course, could not kill ragtime any more than a butterfly can kill a scorpion and "The Bostonians" do not hope to kill jazz. They want merely to interest those who have retained their liking for a good round tune and a melodious accompaniment and to convert a few of the younger set whom jazz has not yet blighted.

The company started off gingerly enough with a revival of the "The New Moon," a musical comedy of a year or two back, which had good enough music to rate its being termed an approach to operetta. They presented it with fear and trembling and a good cast. It clicked in the face of professional opposition from no less than the Brothers Shubert, who sidled into town with a simultaneous revival of "Irene." "Irene" made money for three years when first produced. In revival it opened cold on Monday and closed frozen on Saturday. "The New Moon," however, with better music, was held over "by popular demand" for an extra week's run.

Encouraged, "The Bostonians" are tackling something with more of an operetta flavor in the shape of "Countess Maritza," a good enough operetta in its day.

If successful with "Countess Maritza" they plan to continue along the same lines with a possible step into the production of original operettas as a not too remote hope. They have overcome the obstacles of depression-induced box office resistance and the location of their theater, the Boston Opera House, which is at the wrong end of the city, far from the Rialto

For the first time since the existence of talking pictures, the public is introduced to background, atmospheric music which is found to be effective as it flows harmoniously to fill in moments ordinarily silent in dialogue.

This important innovation in the field of pictures is due to the keen dramatic insight of Fannie Hurst in her latest story, the epic of a city of 6,000,000 people, which in itself explains its magnitude with the title "Symphony of Six Million," the RKO-Radio Picture heralded hit which opens at RKO-Keith's, Saturday, April 23.

The impressive tonal crescendos of the magnificent symphony orchestra, under the direction of Max Steiner, who composed this sympathetic rhapsody of hopes, fears, gayety and tragedy, places the picture in the classical category—a picture which will never be forgotten.

"Symphony of Six Million" concerns the struggle of man with destiny. It cofeatures Ricardo Cortez with Irene Dunne.

Mr. Bailey Ross will have a distinguished attendant at his evening performance of "Ireland's Rough-Hewn Destiny" Sunday night at the National, Hon. Michael MacWhite, Minister of the Irish Free State, having reserved seats for the occasion.

I was reasonably sure that there was a trick in it.

The appeal of the chairman of the Board of District Commissioners, Dr. Luther C. Reichelderfer, for the citizens of the Capital to give gardening jobs to the unemployed hooks up naturally with the D. C. Bicentennial Commission, the Commission of Unemployment and the Fox Theater's sponsoring of the flower and gardening exhibit in its lobby this week.

This exhibit will continue for a full seven-day period unless the water supply runs low!

Mr. Ely Culbertson, the recent winner of the bridge battle of this or any other century, who is to speak at Constitution Hall on "Contract Bridge from A to Z," Saturday at 8:30 p. m., before his remarkable success as originator and chief exponent of the approach-forcing system of bidding, was for long a lecturer on social and political science.

He brings to the platform not only his matchless mastery of the technique of bridge, but also the warmth and lucidity of a brilliant speaker.

His audiences are invariably enthused by his colorful and fascinating presentation of his subject. After hearing Mr. Culbertson lecture on "Contract Bridge from A to Z," one carries away a stock of new and substantial knowledge which can immediately be applied to practice.

He originated in 1922 the famous approach system of auction, to which with the advent of contract he added the forcing principle. Years of research and careful practical tests have been devoted to perfecting this system, with the result that it has been reduced to the simplest terms consistent with accurate interchange of information. The marvelous interplay of logical influences indicated by this system makes bridge as thrilling as a subtle mystery story.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss not only the bidding but the play of the dummy, defensive play against dummy, including leads, echoes and signals, and the psychology and higher strategy of bridge.

One guess as to the real identity of "the dummy!"

And don't say I told you!

AMUSEMENTS.

7,000 SEE LONDOS THROW PINETZKI IN 29 MINUTES

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Boston, April 15.

THIS Washington ball club already may be beginning to prove this column as a fellow of keen perception and fine judgment of baseball values. Two games played and two games won in inspiring manner almost entitle me to take a bow on many of the fine things I related about them in the South.

But taking a bow at this stage of the season, with only two games played, and both against the despised Red Sox, might leave me in the proper posture for taking something not quite so complimentary, and from the rear. The risk is too great in the face of fourteen consecutive games with the Yankees and Athletics starting next Saturday and I do not wish, yet, to take myself and the Nats too seriously.

My fears, however, can not restrain me from noting that the Nats have displayed many pleasing qualities in their first two games of the season, and several items of very serious import appear to have been proved to the satisfaction of myself and Manager Johnson.

Down South, I took it on the word of Manager Johnson that Alvin Crowder was in rare good shape; that Freddy Marberry was in better form than in any spring of the last five years, and that Heinie Manush was a new man, with the dynamite restored to his bat.

Crowder's 1-0 ten-inning victory over the Red Sox in Washington was salient evidence of his improved condition. Johnson, viewing Marberry's work against the Red Sox yesterday, was pleased despite the fact that Fred lasted only six innings. Heinie Manush drove home several points for us with the power in his bat that beat the Red Sox on both occasions. No doubt there.

Against the Red Sox yesterday, Marberry was in possession of all his speed. Five strike outs in his six-inning term proved something. He was socked for seven hits, five of them doubles, it is true, but Johnson says he pitched carelessly in several spots. When he retired in the sixth after the Sox had bunched four hits for three runs, Marberry had fanned two in that inning and was as fresh as when he started, and that pleased Johnson.

That ability to come from behind, which the Nats displayed so potently in the exhibition games apparently has been carried over into the regular season. If they are to be serious contenders, the Nats must win many ball games of that order in the same manner that the Yankees won in 1926, 1927 and 1928, and that the Athletics have been winning in the past three years.

Manush, unquestionably is his old self once more. Heinie, in shape, is the type of batter that breaks up ball games. And the Nats have played thus far without benefit of Joe Cronin's slugging, though Johnny Kerr has done well enough. The signs of slugging power in the Washington line-up have been encouraging even in the face of pitching like that of Danny MacFayden and Jack Russell.

Johnson holds no fear of the Nats' ability to slug it out with either the Yankees or the Athletics. Myer, Manush, West, Reynolds and Judge will offer as sustained an attack as any first five of the rival clubs. And they will show more speed on the bases. Myer's sprint from first to home on Manush's double in the opening game in Washington is still fresh in this column's memory, as is his dash from first to home on a single by Manush in a game at Knoxville That kind of speed bodes ill for the Nats' opposition.

Little Johnny Kerr is holding forth at shortstop for the Nats in

Nats Idle Due to Inclement Weather

Prospect of Doubleheader Later Sways Boston Officials.

Weaver Due Season's First Test Against Red Sox Today.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

BOSTON, Mass., April 14.—Walter Johnson's Washington baseball athletes, leading the American League with their 1.000 percentage, are batting only .500 in the weather league thus far this season as a consequence of Boston's inclemency which forced the postponement of this afternoon's game.

The Nats have played two of their four scheduled games with the Red Sox thus far but the much-maligned weather man was not totally responsible for today's postponement. Mr. Bob Quinn, astute president of the Boston club, scented in today's cancellation a double-header at the time of Washington's next invasion of the Hub, and things being what they are in baseball in Boston, he was not averse to agreeing with Mr. Weather Man.

So, weather permitting, the Nats will play their last game in Boston on this trip tomorrow, before plunging into the protracted series with the Athletics and Yankees, which already are taking on that crucial aspect even though the pennant campaign is still in its first week.

Johnson Likes Weaver.

For tomorrow Mr. Johnson has readied the freshly groomed and newly curried Monte Weaver to fling for the Nats in his 1932 debut in the big league. Whether Prof. Weaver's appearance will be for the edification or the delectation of the Boston fans, the passing hours along will tell, but Mr. Johnson subscribes to the former theory or he would not entrust the eminent professor with the job tomorrow afternoon.

Weaver, be it known, takes rank even ahead of Carl Fischer as Manager Johnson's pet recruit. Johnson, in his praise of Weaver, has been about as inarticulate as a cannon, and is ready to stake his reputation for pitching acumen on the success of the young right-hander from Baltimore who won 21 games for the Orioles last season.

The nomination of Weaver marks a change in Johnson's pitching program, for he had previously delegated the game to the left-handed Carl Fischer, but the presence of the wealth of right-handed hitters in the Red Sox line-up constrained him to turn to the right-handed Weaver boy for tomorrow's game.

Scanning the Red Sox line-up, with exception of the pitcher, Mr. Johnson found that Earl Webb, the power boy of the batting order, was the only confirmed left-handed batter. Jack Rothrock is a switch hitter, and against Weaver, bats right-handed. But Hal Rhyne, Marty McManus, Urbane Pickering, Al Van Camp, Tommy Oliver and Hank Berry all slug—not bat—from the orthodox side of the plate.

Lisenbee or Durham For Boston.

Attempting to stop the rollicking Nats for Boston will be either our old friend Horace Lisenbee, or another right-hander, Ed Durham, who inevitably is now being called Bull Durham. Manager Shano Collins has a first-division pitching staff for his second division club, and his pitching worries are few. Lisenbee will be remembered, although not fondly, as a member of the Nats back in 1926 and 1927 before he was traded to Boston when Mr. Griffith packed off five

Dineen and Moriarty Protest Ted Husing's Broadcasting Here

PHILADELPHIA, April 14 (A. P.).—Ted Husing, whose choice of an adjective in a football broadcast last fall stirred Harvard University authorities, has aroused a couple of umpires through his reported radio description of the American League opener at Washington last Monday.

George Moriarty and William Dineen, after perusing their "fan mail" today, registered a protest against Husing with Tommy Connolly, umpire in chief.

Both umpires, who officiated at the Washington opener, illustrate "yer out!" with a sweeping gesture of the right arm. It starts down by the left knee, with the hand flat, and ends, after a wide arc, with the thumb jerked over the right shoulder.

Moriarty and Dineen said letters from listeners-in indicated that Husing pronounced base runners safe when he saw the start of the gesture and then told his audience the umpires changed their decisions when he saw the players waved out.

BUCS DEFEAT CARDS BY 5 TO 4

Stage Uphill Battle With 15 Hits to Gain Victory.

ST. LOUIS, April 14 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh handed the St. Louis Cardinals their first defeat this season today, the Pirates getting 15 hits in an uphill battle to win, 5 to 4. Young Bill Harris opened for the visitors, but after the champions took an early lead French replaced him and pulled his team from defeat.

Paul Derringer hurled the entire game for the Cards, but in the ninth, with the score tied, weakened enough to allow the Pirates to put across the winning run.

Gabby Street's men had a chance for one of their famed ninth-inning comebacks, but muffed their opportunity today.

Chicago, April 14 (A.P.).—Sam Gray allowed the Chicago White Sox only five hits, all singles, today, and the St. Louis Browns captured their first victory in three games, 3 to 0. Gray was seldom in danger and pitched to only 31 Sox batters.

Red Kress won the game for the Browns when he blasted Vic Frasier for a home run in the fifth inning, scoring Goslin, who had walked.

Cubs Victims Of Revamped Reds, 5-3

Triples by Herman and Heath Prominent in Win.

Lucas Stops Chicago After Teammates Gather Lead.

CINCINNATI, April 14 (A.P.).—A five-run first inning, aided by triples from the bats of Babe Herman and Myer Heath, was too much for Chicago's Cubs to overcome today and they lost to the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 3.

The Reds gathered four hits off Bob Smith's curves in that first inning, Heath's triple being his first blow of the season, but could not score thereafter.

Chicago kept swinging at Lucas, but could not connect.

The Reds played without the services of two aces. Ernest Lombards, catcher, cracked a bone of the right index finger stopping a foul tip yesterday and will be out ten days or more. Grantham twisted an ankle stopping a liner in the same game and will be out a week.

Favorites Win Tennis Matches at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., April 14 (A.P.).—Favorites won their matches in the quarter finals of the women's singles in the North and South tennis tournament here today. Rain caused postponement of play in the men's singles quarter final round.

One upset was registered in the men's doubles when Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., and Harley Shuford, Hickory, N. C., seeded the No. 4 team, were eliminated, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4, by Herbert D. Vail, Glen Cove, L. I., and J. Potter Stockton, New York.

In the women's singles, Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, defeated Eliza Coxe, Asheville, N. C., former Southern champion, 6—4, 6—2.

Virginia Van Rice, Boston, ousted Mrs. P. B. Hawk, New York, 6—2, 6—2.

Anne Page easily won an all-Philadelphia match by eliminating Eleanor Dixon, younger and lacking experience, 6—2, 6—1.

Another Philadelphia player, Virginia Hilleary, triumphed over Virginia Cross, Providence, R. I., 6—2, 6—3.

Tigers Beat Tribe, 3-1, As Wyatt Wins Duel

Detroit, April 14 (A.P.).—Detroit evened its opening series with Cleveland at one game all by winning today's game, 3 to 1. Whitlow Wyatt had the best of a pitching duel with Willis Hudlin, allowing only four hits, while his teammates got seven, including a home run by Charley Gehringer in the sixth with none on. Detroit had made two runs in the second out of a walk, a sacrifice and two singles. Hodapp scored Cleveland's run in the fourth after batting out a single.

Little Hope for U. S. to Lift Davis Cup Seen by Tilden

BIG BILL TILDEN, for nearly 15 years the greatest figure in tennis, both on the courts and off, does not believe that America will win back the Davis Cup this year. He made known his belief yesterday in an informal chat over long distance phone while discussing plans for the staging of the professional tennis tournament in which he will appear at Wardman Park Hotel beginning a week from today.

Moreover he does not believe that America will even get a chance to challenge France this year, but will succumb again to Great Britain in the zone finals. Tilden added that he would not be surprised to see Great Britain win the cup, a feat that it has not been able to accomplish since 1912, when it beat Australia 3 to 2.

Tilden bases his contention that America will fall once more in the face of the old bugabear known as acclimation.

"Understand," said Tilden, "I'm not attempting to take anything away from Ellsworth Vines. He's a most promising player, undoubtedly one of the best amateurs in the world. But I just can't believe he and the ones they select to play with him will be able to win the Davis Cup under the conditions they must face.

"Vines will be handicapped by the clay courts in France and the soft ball they use over there. He's the type of player like myself who depends upon a powerful drive to pull him out of the tight places. When he lays on one with our ball it passes his opponent in a cloud of dust, but he'll find it coming right back at him over there."

Several weeks ago Tilden advocated at least a two-month stay in France for America's young net team. He believed that that was a conservative period of time in which to become accustomed to the different courts, balls and general playing conditions.

Tilden's appearance at Wardman next Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be in the nature of a round robin tournament. The other players concerned are Hans Nusslein, his leading rival among the professionals; Emmett Pare, former "hilltop net captain; Albert Burke and Roman Najuch.

Russia's Anti-Olympics, With Competition Confined to Work, Seen as Smart Move

By WESTBROOK PEGLER,
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, April 14.—There is an implied criticism of the capitalistic idea of sport in the program of games which the Soviet government is producing in Moscow this year, calling the show the anti-Olympics to make the distinction emphatic. The Russian games will consist mainly of feats of useful toil, but political activities also will have a place on the program and the whole purpose seems to be to shame the frivolous character of the sports on which other nations expend much time, energy and white paper, while exalting work and government.

While the athletes of other nations are leaping, running and hurling heavy objects around the arena in Los Angeles, the Russian workman will be digging ditches, plowing furrows, laying brick, and otherwise devoting himself to demonstrations of a kind distasteful to the American superathlete. The character of the political events is a little vague, but presumably they will consist of speeches, committee meetings, and espionage.

How About Some Log Rolling?

In the United States a political section of the Olympic games would draw a large entry list, but it would be almost impossible to agree with other nations on a series of standard political events for international competition, owing to the difference of political customs. Some of our legislatures and city councils could produce world champions in the sport of selling the franchise and rolling the log, and it seems impossible that any other nation could produce representatives more adept at facing both ways than some members of the United States Congress.

As to repeating and other little election day events, which I would rate as minor sports under the political heading, there can be no challenge to some of our large city wards. But the only politics involved in the Olympic games is practiced by the Olympic officials, and that seems to be sufficient, at that.

There is something in the quaint Russian idea of competitive toil with an illusion of sport which deserves better than summary rejection. It has often occurred to me at world series, at football games, at heavyweight championship fights, and great golf tournaments, that there might be men at work for day wages within earshot of the crowd sounds whose simple efforts were more laudable on every sane and honest ground than those of the athletes in the contests.

Press Those Pants! Rah! Rah!

There is great skill, no doubt, though I would not call it art, in the play of a star ball player but a laborer laying a sewer in the street outside the ball yard performs the more important work. Ten thousand Babe Ruths catching fly balls backhanded would not prevent an epidemic. It would be foolish to imagine an American crowd leaving a football game to rally round a man engaged in hoeing mortar through a trough to build a hospital and cheer him on to the neglect of the athletes in the game, but in Soviet Russia the values are in process of reversal. At least the attempt is being made although I have yet to read any stories of teeming crowds rooting for two rival tailors furiously pressing the legs of a pair of pants under competitive conditions.

It is true that athletic competition develops the bodies of the star athletes, but athletics beyond a certain development tends to penalize the mental equipment of the subject. That is why so many great athletes are physically beautiful but mentally dumb. And comparatively few of them, having developed marvelous bodies, ever use their strength for practical purposes. Nowadays many of them have no idea in life but to become instructors and develop other great athletes who will also be mentally sluggish and in turn will only want to develop other great athletes still more dumb. The ideal toward which this development is tending seems to be a mentally defective superathlete who can score a grand slam in the pentathlon but can not tell the time.

The soviet idea of sport, if this is it, never will appeal to the American, because work is work and play is play and there is no disguising the one as to the other. Even professional ball players, who become weary of the monotony of 154 ball games a year not counting practice games in the spring, never quite forget that after all they do draw pay for playing a game and ought to be glad they do not have to work.

Still, I think the play mania will abate somewhat and a balance will

Cronin May Join Na's At Philly Tomorrow

Shortstop Joe Cronin, of the Nationals, who has been suffering from sinus trouble and inflamed tonsils, reported at Griffith Stadium yesterday but was not allowed to do any work. He expects to take a short workout today, however, and, if he suffers no ill effects from it, will board a train for Philadelphia tomorrow morning to be on hand for the game there between the Nationals and dethroned world's champions.

Flying Mares Prove Fatal To Giant

Greek, Outweighed by 80 Pounds, Is Punished by Pole.

Bulk Forces Champ to Discard Usual Airplane Spin.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DAVID threw Goliath without a slingshot last night at the Washington Auditorium while 7,000 Philistines peered through the Pittsburgh stogie smoke and seemed well enough pleased with the result. David, who proved to be none other than that famed commuter, Jim Londos, used a couple of flying mares instead of his pea shooter, and Goliath, his victim, was revealed as the venerable Polish monstrosity, Leon Pinetzki, when they dug him out of the mat.

It was the first meeting between these prime drawing cards, a fact which lent an element of mystery to the bout which proved generally intriguing throughout the barny confines of the Auditorium. The physical odds against Londos were terrific. He was outweighed 80 pounds; his rival towered seemingly 2 feet above him, and laid hands on him as big as the fan of a burlesque beauty.

Londos Climbs Pole.

Londos won in a whirlwind of what looked like fury after taking downright punishment for 29 minutes. After taking two or three preliminary flips himself, Londos leaped off the mat and clipped Pinetzki on the jaw right in stride. The Polish Corridor's mouth dropped open, showing teeth like the jagged end of a muddy steam shovel. He rocked on feet as large and flat as the Plains of Abraham.

Londos walked under his legs and tried to lift him, the first act of the patented airplane spin throw, but it was like trying to budge a California redwood with a hand full of hangnails. He leaped up once more and clamped a necklock on the unprotesting and vacant-eyed giant, bent his preposterous frame down to a point where his (Londos') own feet touched the ground and tripped him up. He duplicated this and Pinetzki was prone, one leg reaching across the ring and into the laps of the 83 customers, his head hanging in the orchestra pit and his gorilla arms extending about the place like a couple of hibernating boa constrictors.

Pinetzki made life miserable for the champ during most of the match. Every man that Londos has met here to date, including the very rough Master Dusek, has treated the royal chassis with excessive deference. But Pinetzki can't understand English or at least won't listen to it. He came out of his corner and made for Londos like a starving elephant let loose in a peanut store. Londos would have nothing to do with him and for five minutes the ponderous and clumsy Pole could not touch the Greek.

Frankenstein Gets To Work.

The boys were getting nowhere fast and the audience began to clap, clap, clap in deadly unison. This infuriated Frankenstein. He cornered the fleeing Londos and sent two stunning blows to the regal jaw, followed by a body roll that took Londos' 200 pounds over like a match over Niagara Falls.

Pinetzki couldn't hold the Greek in one spot, and they were up. Londos escaped disaster from Pinetzki's weaving hands pretty successfully, but

STEPENFETCHIT WINS CHARITY DAY FEATURE AT BOWIE

Victory Gives Robertson Honors

Leads Bowie Jockeys With 13 Winners to Gain Watch.

Happen Is Second in Feature; Knights Cap in Triumph.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

STEPENFETCHIT, son of The Portner with the name that is usually bungled at the ticket windows, was the vehicle for Albert Robertson's thirteenth winner of the Bowie meeting, outclassing a field of seven, seeking The Welfare, the Maryland Agricultural Association's Charity Day feature.

The victory gained Robertson the gold watch offered for the leading rider.

The colt glided home two and a half lengths in front of Happen, which in turn had an advantage of four lengths over My Fergus. The victory gave Mrs. John Hay Whitney a large percentage of victories for the meeting and gladdened the hearts of the favorite players who went to the colt in a big way, backing him down to 40 cents on the dollar to win. There were many cries of surprise when the board showed Stepenfetchit $2.80 to win and show and $3 for place.

Stepenfetchit is a Derby candidate, but was not nominated for the Preakness.

Both the crowd and the mutuel play exceeded that of the Charity Day last fall. Some 10,000 had their eyes glued on the various fields.

It was estimated that charity will receive $20,000 from the day's sport. Play at the rtack was in the neighborhood of $375,000, more than twice the figure of last year. Big betters were scarce last season due to the increase in "take" from the mutuels.

Robertson Hustles Mount.

Robertson did not waste any time with Stepenfetchit. He rushed the colt to the front and was pulling in toward the rail as the field rounded the club house turn. Happen was close up with the rest of the field strung out like a multicolored ribbon. There was no change in the positions of the first two for the remainder of the mile and 70 yards trip.

There also was little chance for Happen to menace the leader. Robertson had only to ride the Whitney colt in contrast to the punishment handed out by some of his fellow riders to outclassed horses.

The Audley Farm's Knights Cap, with Albert Robertson aboard, defeated the field of maiden 3-year-olds. Knights Cap won from Sultry by a length and half with Martins Croney, a field horse, in third place.

The race was strictly between Knights Cap and Sultry. Both Robertson and Neel got everything they could out of their mounts with Knights Cap, the favorite, being too good for Sultry. Martins Groney finished fast to take the show money from Zambia.

Sonny Workman and Precious Dollar, a Stimulus filly owned by Admiral Grayson, accounted for the 2-year-old sprint. Performance, Hanford up, was second with Danny Meade riding Bohemian Grove into third place. The result was a complete upset. Precious Dollar paid $22.60 in the well known green backs. All the mutuels were in double figures.

Hanford, on Performance, rushed his mount to the front at the break, but Workman moved up with Precious Dollar and the pair of juveniles ran as a team to the sixteenth pole, where the ultimate winner pulled away. Bohemian Grove, a leading contender at the start, came again to win third money from Peeved.

Era made it three victories for the Bowie meeting by defeating his field of platers at the mile and a furlong route. Essare drove into second place ahead of Nealon Kay. Hank Mills rushed Era to the front as the field passed the grand stand the first time and the veteran gelding withstood all efforts to displace him. Moonphase made Era step to hold the lead most of the way, but the gelding still had enough left at the finish to defeat Essare and Nealon Kay.

Sun Memory in Victory.

Sun Memory did the trick again in the fourth race, stepping home ahead of a field of eight claiming horses. Black Tyrone was second, with Calgary Kay third. Sun Memory, the favorite, took command at the start and stayed in front for the 6 furlongs under a hustling ride by Hank Mills.

Hank Mills earned a double and drew into a tie for second place in the race for jockey honors, reaching Jimmy Smith's mark of eleven winners by scoring astride Sun Memory.

O. B. Blank's Stone Martin, paying $7.10, was an easy winner of the sixth event of a mile and one-sixteenth. The Hourless gelding dominated the running throughout and finished two lengths in the van of Finnic. A head away Bubola was third in the compact field of six.

W. H. Harris' Blue Law, Greentree cast-off, just galloped to defeat nine other claiming platers in the seventh race. Keith was second and Mainsheet third.

Horse at 302-1 Wins In Upset at Tanforan

San Bruno, Calif., April 14 (A.P.).—Six courageous track followers went after a "long shot" today and were rewarded at the rate of $302.10 for $1 when Nanamay led the field in the third race at Tanforan.

The horse came from behind to win by a length and a half over the Spreckles Course, 170 yards less than 6 furlongs, in 1:12 2-5. Three-dollar preferred options were for $909.30, and $2 secondaries, $90.80. The price set a record for Tanforan.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KNIGHT'S CAP, $4.30, $3.50, $2.90; SULTRY, $4.70, $3.00; MARTIN'S CRONEY (field), $4.90.

KNIGHT'S CAP, hurried to the front, went into a good lead after the opening furlong and steadied along thereafter. Held SULTRY safe when the final drive came. SULTRY, a stout factor from the start, was held safe when put to a drive. MARTIN'S CRONEY was unable to reach the pacemakers after moving into contention. ZEMBLA, slow to settle in her stride, worked her way up steadily, but met with interference when MARTIN'S CRONEY swerved out inside the final furlong. BOARDWALKER faced well for five furlongs and weakened. SIR KENDAL was outrun. LOVELAN lacked speed.

SECOND RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:31. Off at 2:34½. Winner, C. T. Grayson's dk. b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRECIOUS DOLLAR, $22.60, $9.60, $9.50; PERFORMANCE, $22.80, $18.10; BOHEMIAN GROVE, $11.00.

PRECIOUS DOLLAR, away quickly, but outrun after the first sixteenth mile, responded with good speed when placed to punishment and, securing racing room on the inside of PERFORMANCE when straightened into the home stretch, drew out smartly nearing the finish. PERFORMANCE displayed good speed for three furlongs, but was not good enough to withstand the winner. BOHEMIAN GROVE, prominent and a stout factor early, held on well in the closing test. PEEVED, forced to circle his field, finished fast when straightened into the home stretch while losing much ground. STROLL ALONG raced to the leaders on the inside at the final furlong pole after overcoming early interference, but bumped thereafter. SINGING HEART took a wide course and was never dangerous. DAISIES BOY raced very greenly.

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:01. Off at 3:09½. Winner, H. G. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ERA, $8.40, $4.70, $3.00; ESSARE, $5.90, $3.70; NEALON KAY, $3.10.

ERA, assuming command going to the first turn, was rated in front, shook off contention from MOON PHASE and had someting in reserve to withstand ESSARE. Latter improved his position on the outside in the final half mile and closed with good energy. NEALON KAY, kept under early pressure, swung to the outside when entering the horse stretch, but could not seriously menace the first two. DADDY NELSON, allowed to drop far out of contention, slipped through on the inside at the stretch turn and made up a lot of ground. FAIR DAWN was in close quarters in the early racing. MOON PHASE was used up forcing the early pace. EASTER BOY quit. BLUE DARTER broke very slow.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, same. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:37½. Winner, Pauline Stable's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN MEMORY, $4.40, $3.40, $2.30; BLACK TYRONE, $14.50, $8.70; CALGARY KAY, $2.40.

SUN MEMORY, quickest to get going, raced under slight urging until approaching the home stretch and, kept under pressure thereafter, held BLACK TYRONE safe. Latter, eased back midway of the turn, secured racing room on the inside and finished gamely. CALGARY KAY, forwardly placed, finished stoutly in the final drive. GAY PARTY, shuffled back directly after the start, moved up on the outside after making a determined effort. DUNLIN'S LAD worked his way out of tight quarters in the first furlong, reached the pacemaker, but tired badly in the closing drive. BRIGHT BIRD finished strong.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STEPENFETCHIT, $2.80, $3.00, $2.80; HAPPEN, $23.50, $10.50; MY FERGUS, $3.80.

STEPENFETCHIT, hurried to the front going to the first turn, was slightly restrained while setting the pace, and was under slight urging through final furlong. HAPPEN forced a good pace and continued stoutly for the final drive. MY FERGUS was unable to threaten the leaders when put to a stout drive in the last half mile. BROADWAY LIGHTS saved ground for the entire trip and was vigorously ridden, but could not reach the pacemakers. BATTERING RAM made up some ground after being slow to get going. KLIP DRIFT was held safe.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:39. Off at 4:41. Winner, O. Blank's b. g. (4), by Hourless—Martin Bird. Trained by P. Clausen. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:40 4-5, 1:47 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STONE MARTIN, $7.10, $3.80, $2.50; FINNIC, $5.20, $3.10; BUBOLA, $3.50.

STONE MARTIN assumed an easy lead when settled on the back stretch, was given a breathing spell midway of the far turn, then drew out to hold FINNIC safe. Latter, taken back off the early pace, made a stout effort when approaching the home stretch, but was held safe in the closing test. BUBOLA finished with good courage when put to a drive the last half mile. DEEDIE was outrun for the entire trip. MERIDIAN QUEEN tired fast after six furlongs. BATTY met with no mishaps.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:18. Winner, W. H. Harris' br. c. (4), by St. Germans—Prudish. Trained by E. B. Carpenter. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:50, 1:15, 1:41 3-5, 1:56 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLUE LAW, $7.80, $5.10, $3.80; KEITH, $5.70, $4.20; MAINSHEET, $6.70.

BLUE LAW, racing in his best form, raced to KEITH when midway of the back stretch, wore the latter down when straightened into the home stretch, drew out steadily. KEITH, rated in front and saving ground, held on well after losing command. MAINSHEET, a trailer early, went to the outside and closed stoutly in the final drive. MONOCLE lost much ground at the first turn, came through on the inside during the stretch run and was going gamely at the end. JODHPUR met with early interference and could not reach contention when securing racing room. MAKE BELIEVE was outrun. JUDGE CAVERLY tired. SKIRT and BLANTON had early speed.

players to the Red Sox for one Buddy Myer.

Quite needless to note, it is Johnson's ambition to make a clean sweep of the three games with the Red Sox that the Nats may be better fortified for the long siege ahead with the Athletics and the Yankees. He would have preferred playing both games which were postponed here, but if the Nats emerge with another victory tomorrow, he will have been quite gratified at the club's start.

Johnson, however, is not oblivious to the fact that while he is battling the Yankees and Athletics in the next 20 games on the schedule, either one of his accepted rivals will be fattening on the Red Sox, thus his own eagerness to mop up in the Boston games and keep pace in this department.

Help from the other clubes in the circuit against the Yankees and the Athletics is Johnson's aching desire. Over the course of last season the Nats broke even with both the Macks and the Yanks, but the futility of the other clubs against the first and second place teams spelled defeat for the Nats' pennant chances.

Despite the presence of Jimmy McLeod, late of Chattanooga, the Nats have not given up their search for another utility infielder. A deal with a Western club is reported pending, although Johnson would be satisfied to draft Wes Kingdon from Chattanooga. But Kingdon is too great a favorite with the Lookouts.

Johnson is hewing to his pitching program for Saturday and Sunday against the Athletics. Crowder will hurl in Philadelphia on Saturday, with Marberry slated to take the mound on Sunday in Washington.

A welcome addition to the club for the first Philadelphia game will be Joe Cronin, who will replace Johnny Kerr at shortstop on Saturday.

Johnson partially revealed his hand when he chose Lloyd Brown to relieve Marberry yesterday in the sixth inning. Brown may see much duty in relief roles unless his presence as a starting pitcher is imperative.

Buddy Ensor Granted N. Y. Jockey License

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—Lavelle "Buddy" Ensor, veteran jockey who made a brilliant comeback on Southern tracks during the winter, was granted a riding license by the Jockey Club (New York) after 10 years under the ban.

Ensor was suspended a decade ago, bringing a great career to an apparent end. When he applied for a jockey's license this spring the application was tabled by the stewards until an investigation of his conduct was made.

He is expected to ride at the Jamaica meeting, which opens Saturday.

County Title Series Gets Under Way Today

Upper Marlboro, Md., April 14.—Competition in the Prince Georges County boys' high school baseball and girls' volley ball championship series gets under way tomorrow afternoon with sixteen teams in action. Eight schools are to be represented.

In the upper section of the county two double-headers are to be staged, with Hyattsville's baseball and volley ball combinations entertaining Maryland Park teams at Hyattsville and Mount Rainier playing host to Laurel in two games at Mount Rainier.

Upper Marlboro High will visit Brandywine for two games, while Oxon Hill and Baden Agriculture come to grips at Baden in the other twin bill in the southern section of the county.

Play within each of the two groups will continue until each school has met the other twice in home-and-home engagements. The section winners will then fight it out for county titular honors. The baseball champion will represent Prince Georges County in the State series.

Mesmer Named Coach Of Tennis on Hilltop

Fred M. (Freddie) Mesmer, basket ball coach, also has been put in charge of the tennis team at Georgetown University, of which Dooley Mitchell, Washington boy, is captain.

Mesmer played on the G. U. tennis team for three years and, with Emmett Pare, was runner-up in the doubles in the intercollegiates of 1928, at Merion, Pa.

The Hilltoppers open their season today on their new courts when they play host to the Washington and Lee Generals.

the absence of Joe Cronin in contrast with Johnson's theory to move Bluege to short and play Kerr at third base, his natural position.

Bluege, at short, would have few peers, but Johnson finally decided against the move which might break up two positions to fill one. With Kerr performing well during the last four exhibition games at Cronin's post, Johnson was not eager to transplant him, and he has been rewarded by some nice play on the part of the little infielder, who was included in the White Sox deal last winter as the thirteenth bun in a Baker's Dozen.

Leading Horses and Riders Transfer to Graw Meeting

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 14. Everything is hustle and bustle here today, for at 2:30 p. m. Saturday the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association will officially open the second lap of Maryland's spring "big time" racing with a thirteen-day meeting, which promises to make turf history for this State.

Edward Burke and his associates of the host organizations are offering four $10,000 stakes during the next thirteen days. As a result the owners of every good thoroughbred now in training have shipped here for a try at the lucrative purses.

Race Secretary Joseph McLennan has arranged for excellent seven-race programs daily. He has made up a book that should suit every horseman.

Best of Stables Send Horses To Graw.

Such prominent sportsmen and sportswomen as C. V. Whitney, George D. Widener, Walter J. Salmon, A. C. Schwartz, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Samuel D. Riddle, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Mrs. Charles Minot Amory, Mrs. Walter J. Salmon, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Mrs. John D. Hertz, Ral Parr, Howard Bruce, Leslie E. Keiffer, Slyvester W. Labrot and William Woodward will all show their silks during the session here, thus assuring the meeting of being a success from the outset.

With Hank Mills, Mack Garner, Laverne Fator, Sonny Workman, Jimmy Burke, Albert Robertson, Bill Kelsay, Linus McAtee, Johnny Bejshak, Bill Nertney, Charles Kurtsinger, Pete Walls and George Ellis among the riding colony, the theroughbreds should be amply cared for.

General Manager Burke reports a big clubhouse reservation, while practically every private box in the grandstand sector has been taken.

New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington will send daily race specials here via the Pennsylvania Railroad. In addition, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will operate daily race specials from Baltimore and Washington. However, the majority of race goers will journey here via automobile, as bus companies of the cities mentioned above will operate a fleet of buses daily.

Plenty of Auto Parking Space.

Race fans who care to motor here will find space for 8,500 automobiles on track property. Excellent roads lead to and from the parking lots, which are within sight of the track, so that no motorist should hesitate in driving here.

All fields at this meeting will be dispatched from the C. M. Waite stall starting gates. These are the same gates which proved so successful last fall and which were used the past two weeks' racing at Bowie.

It is possible to start as many as eighteen horses from the Waite gate that will see service here. This should make for truer starts in all races, especially in the series of $10,000 stakes which are expected to draw capacity fields.

Every train pulling into the siding today unloads horses from every section of the country. In addition, the motor vans are bringing many more and by nightfall it is expected that every one of the 1,300 available stalls here will have an occupant.

Rickard's Former Crew to Promote

Boyton Heads Group to Stage Fights at Yankee Stadium.

New York, April 14 (U.P.).—Five former employes of Madison Square Garden, all trained by the late Tex Rickard, have decided to enter the boxing industry in opposition to the Garden, and stage a series of important, popularly priced matches at Yankee Stadium this summer.

Joe Boyton, who was chief of the Garden's boxoffice for ten years, will head the new organization. Jess McMahon, Tex Rickard's matchmaker, will serve in that capacity. Other officials include Fred Halm, as vice president; Dan Lysat, treasurer, and Frank Ryan, secretary, all of whom were boxoffice men at the Garden.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of Yankee Stadium, said tonight he had not received the new organization's proposition as yet, but he was almost certain he would do business with them if they made a fair offer.

Boyton said the proposition had been handed to Ruppert's secretary, who will give it to the colonel tomorrow. Boyton explained he and his associates were stepping in when the time was "ripe," because of the recent split between the Garden and Col. Ruppert over Yankee Stadium rentals for fights.

The Garden is to build its own fight stadium on Long Island, leaving the Yankee Stadium open for enterprising promoters.

Billy Strickler Stops Linton in 4th Round

Special to The Washington Post.

Newmarket, Va., April 14.—Billy Strickler, of Washington, threw too many fists for Bill Linton, Virginia boy, here tonight and the Capital light heavyweight stopped his foe in the fourth round. Jesse Belt, another District boy, won all the way from Jim Shifflett. The bouts were staged at the Lakeside Arena near here.

BLUE COALS SEEK GAME.

Leech to Referee Davis Cup Matches

Stimson Named Honorary Official as U. S. and Canada Clash.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, himself an ardent net enthusiast, will act as honorary referee for the Davis Cup match between the United States and Canada at the Chevy Chase Club April 28, 29, and 30, it was announced yesterday by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Abner Y. Leech, jr., former treasurer of the U. S. L. T. A. and long a figure in local tennis, will serve as active referee of the matches, while Lawrence A. Baker, chairman of the tennis committee at the host club, secretary of the U. S. L. T. A. and a motivating spirit behind the rise of tennis interest in Washington, will be in charge of the match arrangements.

Dwight F. Davis, donor of the famous cup and recently retired Governor General of the Philippines, will be among the galleries.

The United States Team, tentatively picked as Ellsworth Vines, Frank Shields, Wilmer Allison, and John Van Ryn, will be captained by Vernon S. Prentice. The Canadian Team, which probably will be made up of Marcel Rainville, Gilbert Nunns, Dr. Jack Wright, and Willard Crocker, will be headed by Garnet H. Meldrum, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

COLONIALS MEET TONIGHT.

BULL MARTIN WARNED BY REFEREE

Rough Work Out of Ring Is Taboo Monday at Bolling.

THAT belligerent "Bool" Martin must confine his rough and tumble tactics to the squared arena against Clivio Massimo, Italian power boy, at Bolling Field Armory Monday night, was a declaration made yesterday by Referee Billy Jones.

Failing in this, the "Trenton Terror" will be disqualified.

"Martin can get as tough as he pleases on the mat proper," Jones ventured by way of explanation, "but he positively must refrain from scrambling out into the audience.

Must Confine Grappling To Mat.

"I certainly didn't intend cramping Martin's style. But I do insist that he observe certain rules and regulations."

Other scheduled 30-minute subjects, supporting the twin wind-up involving "Don" George and Marvin Westenberg and Karl Pojello and August Benkert, feature Doctor Fred Meyers and Charley Strack and Danny Winters and Joe Vargo.

Tickets may be had at Goldie Ahearn's. Half price for ladies.

Junior Ring Event Draws Nearly 100

Champs in Eight Classes to Be Decided at Boys Clubs April 23-26.

An entry list of nearly 100 boy boxers is expected to accrue in the first junior Golden Gloves boxing championships, to be staged at the Boys' Club April 23, 25 and 26, under the auspices of the District A. A. U.

Championships will be decided in the following weight classes: 60, 70, 80, 90, 100, 110, 120 and 130. The boys will weigh in on the afternoon of the first night's fights and will be allowed a 2-pound margin. No boy will be pitted against a rival who outweighs him by more than 3 pounds.

The meet is open only to boys who have never competed in an A. A. U. boxing championship. There is no entrance fee. Contestants will have to have an A. A. U. registration card, which are free to applicants under 16 years of age.

TECH PLAYS BUSINESS TODAY

Makes Debut Under New Coach

Maroon Nine Minus Russell and Nau, 1931 Stars.

Clash of Eastern and Western Delayed Indefinitely.

TECH HIGH'S ball team, playing for the first time under Coach Foxley, a former Idaho University athlete, sets sail on the heavy seas of the high school series this afternoon, meeting Business High at 3:30 o'clock at Eastern Field.

Tech has yet to play a game this season, having been held back by rained-out dates, the switch in coaches and inability to find suitable practice grounds. The team's chances of success in the first half of the series is virtually nil, since it must struggle along with the services of its two outstanding players, Everett Russell, pitcher and first baseman, and Fred Nau, gustily hitting outfielder.

Business is rated a dangerous team in the scholastic tournament and is highly favored to win this afternoon. The club is reasonably potent at bat and afield and often as not barges out into a hitting spree that most high school teams in this vicinity are unable to stop. The Stenogs have had an active early season, being blessed by fortunate bookings, and are in excellent shape.

Silverman or Garner To Hurl.

Business will play behind the pitching either of Lou Silverman or Jimmy Garner, and probably both. Neither of the boys are particularly strong, but together they make a presentable pitching staff. Tech's pitching selection lies between Turner and Chewning. The team is strongly fortified in catching, having Gormley, Thomas and Crenshaw. The rest of the team reads: Davis, first base; Robertson, second base; Carl Nau, short stop; Wheeler or Williams, third base; Guazza, Bernstein and Hubert, outfielders.

Business will be attempting a .500 average in today's game, since it was bumped off 10-to-5 in its first start, against Central.

Also on the day's card are Western's first game in its new stadium, against Washington-Lee High; Central's set-to with Alexandria High, at Alexandria and Georgetown Prep's game with Bethesda-Chevy Chase, at Garrett Park.

Gonzaga and St. John's will open the Prep School Tennis League at the Monument, at 3:30 o'clock.

The ball game scheduled last Tuesday between Eastern and Western has been indefinitely postponed, after the weatherman thrice made it too chilly to play.

English Setters Win At Bird Dog Trials

A large crowd witnessed the race in the eleventh annual bird dog trials of the National Capital Field Trial Club, which were completed yesterday at Halpin, Md. The dogs were quite evenly matched and many second series heats were necessary before the judges could reach a decision. The three winners in each stake were all English setters.

The novice stake was won by Stevens' Ben Mugym, owned and handled by L. L. Stevens, Quantico, Va. Second went to Betty's Pete, owned by Mrs. William Luke 3d, of Covington, Va., and handled by Ford E. Young, while third went to Jim Beau Dandy, owned by Ballou and Kelly, of Herndon, Va., and handled by F. L. Ballou.

In the puppy stakes, Ginger Sport, owned and handled by G. D. Richardson, Weedonville, Va., won, with Shenvallee Sport, owned and handled by L. L. Stevens, second, and Kid's Major Bell, owned and handled by Dr. Baer, Frederick, Md., third.

Class dogs not placed were the pointer, Col. Manitoba Bill, owned by Peter Q. Nyce, and the Irish setters, Don Ringgold, owned by Ringgold Hart, and Molly Kelly, owned by Elisha Hanson.

AUTHS WANT GAMES.

The Auths semipro nine will practice today at 5 o'clock on Hoover Playground. It has a diamond for tomorrow and would like to arrange a practice game. It also has a number of open dates. Teams booking are asked to call Manager Sparky O'Brien at Met. 3317. Sunday the Auths travel to Indianhead for a fracas.

CIRO'S VS. WOODMEN.

The Ciro's nine will meet the Woodmen of the World Sunday at 3 o'clock in a practice game on Diamond No. 4.

U. S. Scholastic Gun Title Is Won by Western Team

WESTERN HIGH'S rifle team, a frequent winner in mail contests sponsored by the National Rifle Association, earned its most outstanding title yesterday when it was announced that the Georgetown school had won the national interscholastic team championship. A trophy, holdable for one year, goes with the citation.

Central High's team took fourth place, behind Fresno High and the Waller R. O. T. C. Rifle Club, of Chicago. The match was fired prone, kneeling and standing, N. R. A. rules governing. Western won with a total of 2,916.

Individual scores turned in by the Western team were Wilkinson, 588; Grim, 585; Beckham, 581; Parkhill, 581, and Clagett, 581. It was Western's fourth N. R. A. trophy for the year. It was the school's first victory in the national team race. Central won laurels in 1929, but Fresno has garnered the title thrice, in 1928, 1930 and 1931.

Central High's girls team duplicated their last year victory in winning the girls' team championship, with a score of 1,440. It was their fifth consecutive national championship.

In the junior prone biweekly competition Western and Fresno tied for first place.

ALEXANDRIA TRUCK CO. HAS NINE

Firemen to Compete in Unlimited Section.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 14.—Truck Company No. 1, Alexandria Fire Department, will place a baseball team in the limited class this season, it was decided today at a meeting of members of the company interested in the national pastime.

Wilson Sinclair, local basket ball star, was appointed as business manager of the fire fighters and instructed to see about the use of a baseball diamond here for all games. The No. 1 nine will play ball over the week-ends. M. Evans will act as field captain and M. Sutton as coach.

Players signed are J. C. Snoots, G. Rudd, L. Wrenn, H. Swift, C. McCaffrey, G. Travis, W. Jeffries, R. Boran, H. Langley M. Evans T. McWhorter, B. Baber, L. Scott, H. Scott, W. Scott and G. Newton.

Teams in the unlimited class desiring games are requested to phone Alexandria 998 or 1155.

Fraters Play Two Games This Week-End.

Two games of baseball will be played by the Alexandria Fraters this week-end. Scrivener's club will meet the Nation-Wide Team on Saturday, while on Sunday they will trek to Washington for a contest with the Washington Terminal nine.

The Fraters will be measured for new uniforms at the drill to be held on Hunton Field Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Coach Cliff Wood asks all players to report.

The Columbia Fire Department nine will hold an important drill on Haydon's Field Friday at 5 o'clock.

Eddie Allen, former manager of the old Dreadnaught Athletic Club, has been signed to manage the fire fighters' ball team. Allen is now arranging several trips.

Central High School Baseball Team will be here Friday afternoon for a contest with the "Twins" at Baggett's Stadium. The game will begin at 3:15 o'clock. Yesterday the Central nine played Washington and Lee High to a tie, 8-all.

Girl's Family Serves Writ Against Carnera

London (Friday), April 15 (A.P.).—The London Daily Mail said today that the family of Miss Emelia Tersini, a British subject, had served a writ on Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight giant, charging him with breach of promise.

A report that Carnera would marry Miss Tersini on his return to Europe from the United States was published in the London Daily News on March 11, 1930, but it was denied by Carnera and his manager, who were in Minneapolis at that time.

A romance began, the Daily News said, when the heavyweight visited England for a bout with young Stribling, the American boxer.

On learning that Carnera had denied they were engaged, Miss Tersini was quoted as saying:

"Well, Mr. Carnera knows best. We are only friends, anyway."

She was described as of typical Italian appearance, but born in England, where she lived with her uncle, Nani, who kept a restaurant in the West End of London. Her sister, Inez Tersini, was a member of an opera company.

RUSSIA'S OLYMPIC IDEA HAS MERIT

be struck between work and recreation in the United States. The time was coming, when the boom collapsed, in which play would have been one of the principal occupations of the entire population. There were so many thousand golf courses in the country and more building; no town was so small or poor but that it had its expensive public playing fields and indoor arenas bought and maintained out of the taxes; play directors were as necessary as garbage collectors, and the boy who made the touchdown was a far greater figure than the one who built the best chicken coop or ran the best lathe in the factory.

In the Russian idea, extreme though it is and probably unworkable, the benefits of athletics and industry are neatly combined and the only trick is to convince any people that it is fun to dig the best row of post holes or shovel the quickest and neatest ton of coal in the country. The physical benefits that derive from strenuous sports and severe training also may be obtained from hard manual labor. Football players in their summer vacations have been known to lay pavements and shovel cinders to develop their muscles and strength for football, which seems to be the answer to the idea that only in sport can the rising generation be made physically fit.

CLIFTON BARBERS, NOTE.

The Clifton Barbers-Meridians will meet in front of the barber shop Sunday morning at 11 o'clock to journey to Lorton to meet the Reformatory Team there in the afternoon. Players should bring their uniforms, as the team will dress at Lorton.

PRACTICE SCHEDULED.

A practice will be staged by the Petworth Yorks Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, on the Soldiers Home diamond. All players and candidates are requested to be present. For games call Adams 5760-J.

EPISCOPAL IS WINNER ON TRACK

Takes Dual Meet, 74-53, From Eastern High Squad.

EASTERN HIGH SCHOOL'S track team, making its first outdoor appearance of the year, went down to defeat in a dual meet with Episcopal High yesterday at Episcopal. The score was 74 to 53.

Episcopal, by its victory, duplicated last season's stunt of beating the District of Columbia scholastic champions. The winners gained comfortable margins in both sections of the meet—field and track.

Train-Slye Tied for Honors.

Slye and Sprinkle, Eastern's clever all around stars, made most of the competition for the well-seasoned Episcopal crew. Slye garnered 15 points by winning the hurdles and finishing first in the broad jump with a creditable leap of 21 feet 4 inches.

Episcopal's heavy scorers were Bob Train, who tied Slye in pointage by winning the shotput, discus and javelin, and Dodson, who walked away with both sprints.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Slye (Eastern); second, Stouffer; third, Tufts. Time, 0:16 2-5.

100-YARD DASH—Won by Dodson; second, Copper; third, Garnett. Time, 0:10 3-5.

1-MILE RUN—Won by J. Moore (Eastern); second, Handland; third, W. Moore (Eastern). Time, 4:55 1-5.

440-YARD RUN—Won by Rickart (Eastern); second, Parrish; third, Adams. Time, 0:55 3-5.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Slye (Eastern); second, Tufts; third, Daniels. Time, 0:26 2-5.

220-YARD DASH—Won by Dodson; second, Copper (Eastern); third, D. Smith. Time, 0:23 3-5.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Nevius; second, H. Lewis (Eastern); third, Shuford. Time, 2:16 2-5.

1-MILE RELAY—Won by Episcopal (Dodson, Garnett, Parrish, Smith).

SHOT PUT—Won by Train; second, Stocker; third, Robinson. Distance, 46 feet 11 inches.

DISCUS—Won by Train; second, Stocker; third, Robinson. Distance, 111 feet 1½ inches.

JAVELIN—Won by Train; second, Calhoun; third, Drake (Eastern). Distance, 156 feet.

POLE VAULT—Won by Sprinkle (Eastern); second, Gooch; third, Bowers. Height, 10 feet 3 inches.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Sprinkle (Eastern); second, Ryan; third, place tie between Edmonds and Rankin. Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Slye (Eastern); second, Sprinkle (Eastern); third, Sherley. Distance, 21 feet 4 inches.

7,000 WATCH LONDOS DOWN POLISH GIANT took three overhand rabbit punches that probably flattened his arches. Pinetzki could gain no decisive hold on the slippery titleholder, except a few inconsequential full pelsons, an antiquated holt with which a man couldn't even throw a fit. Londos' speed was proving generally confounding to the heavywitted Pole, who frequently made astigmatic grabs at the air in spots where Londos had crouched a split second before.

Pinetzki secured his most potent hold of the match after about 15 minutes when he maneuvered Londos into a prone position and grabbed the Greek's ankles. Slowly it began to seep through his primordial mind that he could throw Londos about two miles by whirling him around and letting him go. Pinetzki slowly began to rise, still holding Londos' ankles, but Londos reached up with his free hands and tripped the ominous oaf with a terrific crash.

For sustained action the semifinal between Fred Grobmeier and Frank Speer, a couple of journeymen rasslers, put the high priced boys in the background. Grobmeier won in 24 minutes with his hook scissors when Spears gave up.

In the other matches George McLeod dumped Tony DeVito in 17 minutes with a flying scissors; Howard Cantonwine destroyed George Hagen in 22 minutes with a pickem up and setem down holt; George Manich won over Oscar Negri in eleven minutes, and so did Al Baksch over George Ki-yi-yi-atti.

"Tennis," Magazine, Out of Circulation

Tennis, official organ of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, issued its final copy yesterday with the announcement that the magazine will be discontinued.

Economic pressure, brought on by the shrinkage of the investments of the U. S. L. T. A., caused the discontinuation of the magazine. It was formed several years ago with a reading appeal directed at the dub players, rather than officials and topnotchers.

Mack Benches Miller In Favor of Cramer

Philadelphia, April 14 (A.P.).—Marking the second break in the championship cast that started winning pennants in 1929, Connie Mack announced today that Roger Cramer will take the veteran Bing Miller's post at right field in the regular line-up of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Cramer, now serving his second year with the Athletics, displaces a player who had his first trial in the big leagues in 1917 and has served regularly with major league teams since 1921. Bing Miller is now 37 years old, and has played with Washington, St. Louis and the Athletics. He probably will be in the Mack line-up when the team faces left-hand pitching.

FEDS VS. BLUE COALS.

The Federal Storage nine plays the Griffith Blue Coals tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock on the Mount Rainier diamond and journeys to Gaithersburg for another game on Sunday.

Central Defeats Md. Frosh, 14-9

Nau's Triple With Bases Full Clinches Weird Game in 7th.

Central High School's baseball team took advantage of weird play afield by the University of Maryland freshmen and vanquished the yearlings, 14 to 9, yesterday at College Park. Play was halted in the first half of the eighth by darkness.

Both teams pounded the ball, the freshmen outhitting the winners, 15 to 12. Emmett Buscher went the route on the mound for Central, though he was frequently in hot water. The Old Liners used three pitchers, none of whom was impressive.

While Maryland's five errors were only two more than were made by Central, the Frosh committed several errors of omission that hurt.

A triple by Buddy Nau in the seventh with the bases full, put the game on ice for Central. Nau came home on an error.

It was a see-saw game. Central took the lead in the second inning, 2 to 1, but Maryland shoved across four tallies in the fourth to get ahead, 7 to 4. Central pounded Archer and Farrell in the fifth when it counted six runs, to regain the lead, 10 to 7. Maryland scored twice in the sixth to make it 10 to 9.

St. Joe Beaten, 9-8, By Front Royal Stars

Riverton, Va., April 14.—The Front Royal All-Stars opened their season here today with a thrilling ten-inning victory over the St. Joseph team, of Washington, D. C., 9-8. Despite the chilling weather, a large crowd was present. Johnson and Riddick, who twirled for the locals, were touched for 13 hits, while the All-Stars gathered 11 off Taylor and Snyder. Casrotti, with three hits, and Downing, with a homer that drove in four tallies, were the batting stars of the game.

Montclair, N. J., April 14 (U.P.).—Jerome D. Travers, who was America's golf king twenty years ago, has been forced by the depression to return to his game as a professional, "Jerry" announced at his home here tonight that he would play in several exhibition matches and possibly make an exhibition tour.

EMERSON NINE CANCELS.

Eastern High's game with Emerson Institute listed for yesterday was canceled. Inability of Emerson to stage a practice session this spring led to the action.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

FOUR records were broken in the Ladies' Federal League matches rolled last night at the Arcadia. The Agriculture team's 1,520 set was third high for the season, while two Marine pinnettes set new individual set marks for second and third places. Irene Scott turned in a 371 total, the second best set of the year, with Pauline Ford's 368 taking third honors, and her 143 also displacing the old top mark for third high game.

The Marines took two from Interstate, and Agriculture, which had a 523 set, took two from Economics. Due largely to Lucille Young's 346 set, Treasury walloped Interstate twice, while Dorris Goodall's 347 played a big part in Commerce's two-out-of-three win over War. In other matches, the odd game was won by Veterans over War, by Labor over G. A. C., by Commerce Comets over Census, and by G. P. O. over Commerce Juniors.

The Daylight League ended yesterday with the Herald team winning the pot and The Washington Post Press Room second. In matches rolled at Convention Hall, The Post Press Room five had high set of 1,556 and the Star high game of 550. Morris, of the Herald, took high individual honors with his 141 game and 352 set.

Mount Pleasant took high honors in the Masonic League on the Convention Hall drives, having high game of 595 and high set of 1,702. Russell, of Pentelpha, topped individuals with his 143 game, with set honors going to Boss, of Mount Pleasant, 373.

By beating Secretary's Office three games last night at Columbia, Survey won second-half honors in the Interior League, its margin being a single game. Survey had high figures of 544 and 1,626, with Ganna, of the same team, taking individual set honors with a 378. Duke, of G. H. I., had the best game, 148.

MACKEY WITHDRAWS AS DUNCAN COUNSEL

Attorney for E. Wade Ball in Arlington Pleads Rush of Court Cases.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County, announced yesterday that he is no longer counsel for former County Clerk William H. Duncan, who on March 29 waived hearing on a charge of larceny of more than $50 of State funds. He is now out on $5,000 bond for his appearance in the Circuit Court at the opening of the April term on Monday.

In announcing his withdrawal from the case, Capt. Mackey gave as his reason pressing court business which would make it impossible for him to devote his time properly to the details of the case.

Capt. Mackey further says he is associated with former State Senator Frank L. Ball as counsel for Senator Ball's brother, former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball, who is held on a charge of grand larceny of public funds.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas declines to say whether or not the cases mentioned, including that of F. J. Hallock, clerk to the county school board, held on a similar charge, will be presented to the grand jury on Monday.

The Virginia State Corporation Commission has granted a charter to the Triangle Improvement Corporation, with offices located at Clarendon. The maximum capital stock, according to the charter, is $10,000, with the minimum placed at $500.

The officers are: H. L. Woodward, president; G. C. Bean, vice president, and H. B. Ellis, secretary-treasurer. The above-named officers constitute the board of directors.

The commission has also granted an amended charter to the Marcey Brothers, Incorporated, increasing the capital stock from $50,000 to $200,000.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department announce they are holding a benefit card party in the firemen's hall tomorrow evening.

Speaking at the mass meeting held at the Arlington County Courthouse last night under the auspices of the beautification and clean-up committee of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council, Ralph W. Emerson, executive secretary, National Clean-up Campaign Bureau, declared that with the spirit shown by the audience the campaign in this county is assured of success.

County Manager Roy S. Braden assured the committee of the support of the county board and that all the county's road equipment, including force of men, will be at their disposal the week of May 2, when the campaign gets under way.

Reports received from the various committee chairmen, numbering more than 24, showed that much work has already been started, which assures success.

Chairman Stanley H. Williamson announced that announcements will be made from time to time regarding many meetings which will be held in various sections of the county.

Kite Fliers to Vie For Silver Trophy

Contest Will Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon at Anacostia Park.

An added incentive for kite fliers, scheduled to compete tomorrow at Anacostia Park in the District Model Aircraft League's first tournament, is a silver trophy, donated to the league by the Municipal Playground Department, through Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor.

Forty-nine prizes in all will be awarded the winners in four age groups and four classes of kites tomorrow after three hours of competition, to begin at 2 p. m.

The contest has twice been postponed, but the extra time thus allowed fliers to prepare has brightened prospects for a record entry list and excellent performances. Any boy or man residing in the District and adjacent counties of Maryland and Virginia is eligible to compete. Subjuniors, boys of 12 or younger, on April 1, may be aided by their fathers in a special father-and-son division of the meet.

Land Worth $114,000 Purchased at Tax Sale

Montgomery County's annual tax sale, held Monday and Tuesday at the Rockville Courthouse, involved property valued at approximately $114,000, County Treasurer J. Forest Walker announced yesterday. Approximately 1,030 pieces of property were sold for delinquent taxes, most of which was bought in by the county. This was about one-third of the number advertised for sale in January.

According to Walker, this year's sale compares favorably with the sales of 1930 and 1931, when fewer pieces were sold, but about the same amount of property was involved. This was the first year in which the new law requiring advertisement and sale of each individual piece of property instead of entire blocks as heretofore was in effect. The property can be redeemed any time after 60 days and within two years by payment of the sale price and 10 per cent interest.

Home in Flames, 3 in Family Flee

House of J. A. Ballard in Alcova Heights Razed; Loss Is $3,500.

Fire of unknown origin early yesterday destroyed the home of J. A. Ballard, Alcova Heights, Arlington County, causing loss estimated at $3,500.

Discovering their home in flames with the roof about to fall in, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard and their young son, J. A., Jr., made their escape through a rear door.

Members of the Arlington Fire Department, who responded, reported that they were helpless as the call was not received until some time after the fire had started. They reported also that after more than 1,200 feet of hose had been laid out one of the new sections burst, causing much delay in making a replacement.

Maryland Park Commission Refuses Rezoning Petitions

Property in Western Suburban District Will Remain in Residential Classification as Result of Body's Action at Meeting Held Here.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Two petitions for rezoning of property from residential to commercial in the western suburban district were disapproved last night by the Maryland National Park & Planning Commission at its meeting in the Tower Building.

Following a hearing at which a delegation of citizens from the neighborhood appeared to protest against the proposed reclassification the commission voted to disapprove the petition of Frank H. Schultz for reclassification of the property now occupied by the Bradford Home School from residential "A" to commercial "D" in order that it might be utilized as a tea room. The school is located at Brookeville road and Taylor street, Martin's Addition to Chevy Chase, Md.

The citizens made it clear that they do not object so much to the tea room, but that they feel that classification as commercial will in the future open the door to any commercial purpose. The owner was represented by Brainard H. Warner, jr., his attorney.

The application for rezoning of lots 21 to 24, block 8, Glen Echo, of Preston C. Daley, likewise was disapproved by the commission.

Permit to establish and operate a cemetery on a tract of land about one-eighth of a mile from Rockville on the Rockville-Potomac road was asked of the Montgomery County commissioners yesterday at their meeting in Rockville, Md. The petition for the permit was filed by William F. Prettyman, attorney for Benjamin R. Parker.

The proposed cemetery would be established on two tracts of land, bounded on the north by the Glen Mill road, one known as the Francis Kilgore Farm, containing about 259 acres, and the other a tract of about 80 acres belonging to Chester Clagett. Both tracts are reached by a private road. Mr. Prettyman, accompanied by Mr. Parker, appeared before the board and asked that a public hearing on the petition be held within 20 days.

The application was referred to the law firm of Whiteford & Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, for study and an opinion.

Miss A. Madorah Donahue, of the Bureau of Child Care, Department of Public Welfare, Washington, will talk on "Social Consequences of the Depression," and Miss Lavinia Engle, Montgomery County member of the Maryland House of Delegates, will talk on "Proposed Legislative Program for 1933" at a meeting of the Montgomery County League of Women Voters tonight at the parish hall of Grace Episcopal Church, Woodside, Md. Mrs. Herman Wilson, county president, will preside and introduce the speakers. Other matters of interest to women voters will be discussed.

March was the peak month for the Montgomery County Social Service League, which spent a total of $2,912.38 in relief work and other types of cases under its supervision. This includes a total of $1,472 expended in the Emergency Work Bureau, which gave jobs to 325 men.

The new duties devolving upon the league because of the juvenile court recently established in the county, require considerable time from the case workers. The league also conducted a survey of the unemployment situation in the county in cooperation with the Maryland State Conference of Social Work.

GRANGE SEEKS VOTE ON BYRD ROAD LAW

Fairfax Action Asked, but Group Stresses Only an Opinion Is Desired.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The Fairfax County Pomona Grange has been asked by its subordinate, the Providence Grange, of Oakton, to sponsor the necessary petition for a referendum vote on the new "Byrd law" in the county. The resolution of the Providence Grange will be presented to the Pomona at its meeting Monday evening, April 25.

The resolution states specifically that such action is not to be considered as voicing approval or disapproval of the law, but is solely to give each voter in the county an opportunity to express his opinion on the question.

The Byrd law, under which the State highway department will take over the maintenance and construction of all roads in the State July 1, forbidding the local governing bodies to lay a levy for road purposes, provides that voters of any county can hold a special election on whether or not the county shall withdraw and retain its present road system. To hold such an election it is necessary to formulate a formal petition addressed to the Circuit Court of the county and to affix thereto the signatures of 25 per cent of the qualified voters in the county prior to July 1.

The resolution asks that the Pomona Grange furnish the leadership and inaugurate whatever activity may be necessary to insure the referendum on the new road law. It asks that the master of the Pomona appoint as an executive committee for this work one member from each of the five subordinate granges, and that each master of the subordinate grange appoint two members of the local grange to serve with the executive committee.

New Rescue Squad Ambulance Sought

Commissioners' Aid to Be Asked by Group in Prince Georges.

The Prince Georges County Commissioners will be asked to assist in the purchase of a new ambulance for the county rescue squad, it was decided at the regular meeting of the county volunteer fire association.

The Bladensburg unit's ambulance cost only $150, second-hand, while the one in use at Marlboro now was given to the county by Casualty Hospital. A committee consisting of Andrew Gasch, of Bladensburg; W. R. Beattie, of Bladensburg, and V. A. Simmel, of Cottage City, was appointed to confer with the commissioners about aid for the squad.

Training classes for firemen in the county will be held for two weeks beginning April 25 in the District fire-fighting school, it was decided. The classes will be given Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Only 22 members of the association can be accommodated. Inspections of county fire equipment, on the basis of which the $15,000 contributed by the county will be distributed, will begin Saturday, it was announced. T. Weston Scott was appointed to the standards committee to help in speeding this work.

Prince Georges Lawyer Suffers From Gas Burns

Arthur C. Keefer, prominent Prince Georges County attorney and law partner of J. Enos Ray, was slightly burned about the face yesterday when an accumulation of gas in an automatic water heater burned in his home in Mount Rainier. He was treated by his private physician, who said his sight would not be effected.

No damage was done to the house.

Woman Wins $1,000 Crash Damages.

A Prince Georges County jury yesterday awarded Grace Miles, of Laurel, $1,000 for personal injuries suffered in an accident involving two cars said to have been operated for Ward Bros. Garage, in Laurel. Miss Miles was represented by J. Wilson Ryon, and the amount of the award was the full sum asked.

TAKOMA PARK CLUB ENDS FLOWER SHOW

Narcissus Exhibit Winners Announced by Group of Horticulturists.

The seventeenth annual narcissus show of the Takoma Park Horticulture Club closed last night after a two-day exhibit at the Takoma Park Branch of the Public Library. Despite the unseasonable weather the show was a success and the blooms exhibited were in excellent condition.

The following awards were announced:

Class 1—Collection of 24 or more varieties, 3 stalks to a class, each representing five or more types: First, W. T. Shamons; second, Mrs. E. L. Crandall; third, Dr. Edwin C. Powell.

MARKET INQUIRY.

Q. MR. WITNESS, what Congress would like to know is who is selling stocks short?

A. What I would like to know is, who isn't?

Q. Is there any way we could get the names of those people who are unloading securities in this market?

A. Any telephone book and a copy of "Who's Who in America" would do it, I think.

Q. Do you regard present quotations as representing a fair value of the leading securities?

A. No, but it is the old law of supply and demand.

Q. How does that work out?

A. An investor supplies the stocks and then demands to know why he didn't get more for them.

* * * *

Q. Take United States Steel, for instance. * * *

A. No, thanks; I have all I can carry.

Q. Well, take telephone?

A. All right, just to make conversation.

Q. Do you consider the telephone business has a bright future?

A. Yes, if the public ever starts paying its phone bills again.

Q. What do you think of Consolidated Gas?

A. I don't know anything that can hold a candle to it.

Q. This is an inquiry into market values, not pyrotechnics. Can you tell this committee why General Electric should be selling so low?

A. A lot of people think that the company should have devoted less time to hurling artificial lightning bolts and more time to providing the stockholders with lightning rods.

Q. Have you any idea why the public utilities should have taken such a drop?

A. Only the theory that the song "Dancing in the Dark" was an adverse influence all last year.

Q. WE are informed that a $5,000,000 pool was formed to stage a bear raid last week. What about that rumor?

A. If any pool had that much money today it would turn bullish by instinct.

Q. What do you think of the advice, "Put 'em away and forget 'em?"

A. I think that in a few years it will be regarded as the forerunner of the greatest memory test in history.

Q. Do you think there will be a rush to get into the market again?

A. Yes, but not until stocks have gone up on an average of 50 points.

Q. Why will the public wait until that time?

A. It's an old public custom.

Q. One more question: we wish to identify the people who are responsible for the prolonged bear market. Can you aid us?

A. Only by suggesting that every congressman be given an individual mirror.

HOT CHA-CHART!

"Senator Brookhart again carried into the committee room his big chart of the market's rise and fall."—News item.

Brookhart had a little chart
With levels high and low,
And everywhere that Brookhart went
The chart was sure to go.

He took it to each hearing with
Its zigzag lines galore;
It puzzled Brookhart very much—
And puzzled others more!

"'In other words,' suggested Senator Gore, 'what made the wildcat wild?'"—From a report of the market inquiry.

Why not what made the Walcott wild?

President Whitney, of the New York Stock Exchange, confesses he purchased United Corporation at 50 and still has it at 5. Now we feel much better.

Senator Smoot says it is high time the American people showed some common sense. The same to you, senator, and many of 'em!

Herr Von Hindenburg has won his second election within a month. How many times does he have to get it to retain permanent possession?

Billy O'Dale, 73, Noted Circus Performer, Dies

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—William (Billy) O'Dale, a circus headliner of 35 years ago, died of pneumonia today at Bellevue Hospital. Seventy-three years ago O'Dale was of the age that knew such figures as Orrin Hollis, Homer Hobson, Charlie Fish and William Scholles. He was a bareback rider in the days when the horses jumped through huge paper-covered hoops and dived through rings of fire.

He spent his life with the circus, and was with the old Barnum show, the Sells-Floto and Forepaugh-Sells. At the height of his career he was outstanding for his act with four horses and a somersault from one to another.

ENTERPRISE SERIAL BUILDING REELECTS

Association Assets Increase $23,521 to Total of $1,344,825.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Reelection of all officers and directors of Enterprise Serial Building Association was announced yesterday following the fortieth annual meeting of the organization. They are: President, James E. Connelly; vice president, John T. Crowley; secretary, James F. Shea; treasurer, G. Percy McClue. Directors: George I. Borger, Dr. James A. Cahill, jr., Martin A. Cook, Bernard R. Edwards, Maurice Fitzgerald, P. F. Hannan, Ralph A. Judd, M. A. Keane, M. J. Keane, Edward T. Kehoe, Frederick Kraus and P. T. Niland.

The secretary's report showed the association now has assets of $1,344,825.10, representing an increase of $23,521.54 over last year.

The association was organized March 9, 1892, and held its first meeting on April 13, 1892, original officers being: David Murphy, president; James F. Kennan, vice president; James F. Shea, secretary; N. H. Shea, treasurer. Original directors were S. B. Beyer, J. J. Brosnan, William Fegan, Maurice Fitzgerald, William Holtman, J. Harrison Johnson, M. J. Keane, T. T. Keane and John Quinn. Of the foregoing, James F. Shea and M. J. Keane still officiate in their original positions.

Among present officers and directors, five have served more than 25 years and six have been connected with the association more than 15 years. The experience of these officials has aided the association's progress materially. The association has never been compelled to take in any property, has never sustained a loss and never paid less than a 5 per cent dividend. It is now accepting subscriptions to the sixty-eighth issue of stock and its constitution provides for systematic monthly payments on stock.

During the past 40 years the association has always been well managed by conservative men, who, while always striving to extend every reasonable courtesy to borrowing members, have been careful to require ample security for all moneys borrowed, thus properly safeguarding the interests of all the stockholders. With a record of 40 years of successful management, the association looks for a very good year during 1932.

At a recent meeting of directors of Credit & Finance, Inc., of Washington, D. C., the eighteenth consecutive quarterly dividend was declared, payable April 15, as per stock of record April 1.

WHEAT PRICE HIGHER ON CROP-LOSS DATA

Heavy Buying Is Resumed; Corn and Oats Gain as Provisions Lose.

Chicago, April 14 (A.P.).—Kansas and Nebraska reports that winter killing of wheat had outdone all records since 1917 swept prices upward nearly 3 cents a bushel late today.

Aggressive buying on the part of houses with connections Southwest became outstanding, and did much to carry the market to the topmost point reached in the last five months. Contributing to the advance were indications of persistent widespread drought, and there was also official notice that Italy would increase her wheat import quota beginning April 26, a factor tending to confirm reports that foreign wheat requirements were increasing.

Profit taking caused reactions at the finish and wheat closed unsettled 1¼ to 1¾ cents net higher for the day, with corn ¼ to ½ cent up, oats unchanged to ¼-cent advance, and provisions unchanged to 2 cents down.

COLUMBIA GAS LISTS DIVIDENDS IN STOCK

Company to Pay 25 Cents in Preferred on Common; Represents Drop.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—A dividend of 25 cents in convertible 5 per cent preferred stock on the common stock of the Columbia Gas & Electric Co. was declared today, payable May 15 to stock of record April 25.

Three months ago the company paid common-stock holders 37½ cents a share in the convertible preferred.

Columbia adopted a policy of paying common dividends in convertible 5 per cent preferred stock instead of cash early this year.

The company paid cash dividends on the common stock at the annual rate of $2 from the time of the 2½ to 1 split-up in April, 1929 to November, 1931 when the rate was reduced to $1.50.

In a statement the company reported that cash on hand exceeds $12,500,000 and that bank loans have been reduced by $6,500,000 since January 1 and now amount to $37,000,000.

Commenting on the company's financial situation, Philip G. Gossler, president, said: "Under ordinary market conditions the company's bank loans would have been liquidated through the sale of securities."

He added that as a result of the recently adopted policy of paying dividends on the common stock in convertible preference stock instead of cash, the company expects to have funds available from earnings during the remainder of this year to reduce bank loans further as well as to meet the single bond maturity of less than $1,800,000 and the construction requirements of the year of less than $6,000,000.

There are no other bond maturities, he said, except a serial issue of $525,000 a year for four years until $1,875,000 in 1935 and $1,469,000 in 1937, and then no more of importance until 1941.

"With two small exceptions aggregating $350,000," Mr. Gossler's statement continued, "none of the subsidiary companies has any bank debt.

"All fixed charges of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation and subsidiaries, including dividends on all their preferred stocks, were earned more than 1.8 times after depreciation in the year ended February 29, 1932. After deduction of all prior charges, earnings amounted to more than $20.50 per share on the preferred stocks of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation."

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Thur.	Wed.
Number of advances...	308	133
Number of declines....	196	283
Stocks unchanged.....	171	214
Total issues traded....	671	630

Stocks.

A sharp opening dip sent many issues to new lows, but positive news of the Federal Reserve's credit expansion policy inspired a sharp upturn which carried the entire list to better ground for the close.

Bonds.

U. S. Governments led the general advance in a strong market, which showed the first full range of higher closings since March 22.

Curb.

Insull reports from Chicago unsettled the utilities, but the general list finally followed the lead of the big board.

Grain.

Wheat, corn and oats marched upward on the better tone in stocks, plus continued low-yield reports from the West and the Southwest drought area. Wheat was up 3 cents at the best, but closed only 2 cents over Wednesday on late profit-taking.

Cotton.

The firm advance in stocks and continental inquiry, plus scattered trade buying, wiped out the early reaction and the close was 10 to 12 points higher.

Stock Market Rebounds To Substantial Advances

Prices Forsake Low Levels for Gains in More Cheerful Trading; Lively Short Covering Starts Rise on Leading Issues.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—After an early break through previous resistance points, the stock market took a more cheerful view of things today and swung into a rally that proved to be the best since March 2.

A reassuring statement from Samuel Insull, who said his three big operating companies would not be affected by anything that might befall Middle West Utilities, and some second thoughts on the more aggressive Federal Reserve credit expansion policy provided sparks that touched off lively short covering. The average net gain for 90 stocks was 2.1 points.

Recoveries from the first hour lows were even more impressive. In that period virtually every pivotal issue explored new low territory and in an atmosphere of almost complete despondency Wall Street could not but wonder from what direction relief was to come. However, Mr. Insull's announcement served to lift pressure against utilities, while the remark of Gov. Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board that he was "hopeful" the country could now "hold the line" contributed to better feeling.

Other Groups Stronger.

Also, word got around that other public utility groups were much stronger than the market had believed. A further entry on the asset side of the ledger appeared to be the fact that some of the objectionable features of the revised class banking bill had been removed in committee.

The decline, while it lasted, was sharp, ranging roughly from 1 to 5 points, although this helped guarantee a healthy rally once the tide turned.

American Telephone sold off 4 points to 103, lowest since 1921, only to close ⅜ higher at 107½.

U. S. Steel, down 1¾ to 33¼, finished at 34¼, up ⅜.

Norfolk & Western converted a 5-point loss into a gain of 3 points.

Union Pacific, lower at the worst, closed 3½ to the good.

Peoples Gas, after touching 50¼, rallied to 63¼. The final price was 60½, a net rise of 2¾.

Miscellaneous issues showing gains of 1 to more than 2 included American Can, Union Carbide, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Loew's, North American, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, General Electric, Allied Chemical and National Biscuit.

Sales increased to 1,869,410 shares.

Money Markets Easy.

Money markets were easy, even if the Federal Reserve Bank did not see fit to change the rediscount rate at this time.

A fair volume of bankers' acceptances came out of hiding and were promptly snapped up.

United States Government bonds, making the largest gains of the year, eloquently announced their reactions to the fresh drive against deflation which, bankers feel, may be decidedly effective if confidence can be spared further jolts while the program is being worked out.

The weekly Reserve Bank statement showed that the system has lost no time in embarking on the large, open-market operations of which Wall street got its first inkling yesterday. Holdings of Government securities rose $100,000,000, or four times the average rate of expansion in the last six weeks. Discounts of the twelve banks were reduced $7,000,000, to a total of $628,602,000, although it is expected that member bank borrowings can now be cut at a more rapid rate.

Money in circulation dropped $88,000,000, a comforting development in view of last week's unseasonal $19,000,000 advance.

Gold stocks were off $18,000,000 in the week ended April 13, which saw considerable uneasiness abroad over the dollar's position, with resultant losses of metal.

FEDERAL BONDS RISE TO NEW HIGH LEVEL

Carrier Issues Stage Gains of 1 to 3 Points; Sales Total $15,232,000.

By VICTOR RUBANK.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—United States Government bonds soared today and the badly battered low-priced railway lists rallied sufficiently to put a modest plus sign in front of the general averages for the first time since March 22.

All of the Federals climbed to new highs for 1932, gains ranging from 1 to more than 2 points. While the Liberties were stanchly supported, the Treasuries were in the greatest demand. Treasury 3½s, 1946-49, jumped more than 10 points on the first sale this year.

Belief that the Federal Reserve System will increase its purchases of Government securities to $75,000,000 a week or more as indicated at Washington yesterday, brought a rush of buying from traders and investors. The advances scored by national loans were the largest in many months.

A demand for speculative carrier liens came into the market near the close of the session and gains of from 1 to 3 or more points were registered by some bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette, Frisco, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Wabash.

The utilities and industrials were comparatively steady, although the averages for both showed minor declines. Armour & Co. loans snapped back for gains after early losses and International Telephones recovered. Postal Telegraphs rallied, but Western Unions sagged.

There was a slightly better tone in the foreign section. Advances were recorded by Brazilians, Australians, Japanese and Roumanians.

The Germans steadied, as did the British and Argentines.

Bonds of Poland slumped, but later recovered part of their declines.

Sales totaled $15,232,000, par value.

TRADE BOARD FACES REVOCATION MOVES

Farmers National Grain Is Asking Ruling to Punish Chicago Group.

Chicago, April 14 (A.P.).—A demand that the Government revoke the Chicago Board fo Trade's designation as an authorized contract market because of alleged "discrimination" against Government-sponsored cooperatives has been lodged with the Secretary of Agriculture by the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

It was voiced yesterday in the second complaint made to Secretary Hyde by Farmers National this week, and brought an immediate retort from President Carey of the board of trade that he questioned the grain corporation's claim "of being a cooperative."

The Farmers National charged the board of trade has denied its application for direct membership in the clearing corporation and by doing so violated the grain futures act and threatened "irreparable injury to agricultural producers who market their grain cooperatively."

Yesterday's complaint followed alleged efforts on part of the board of trade to disqualify the Updike Grain Co., a subsidiary wholly owned by the Farmers National, from further operations on the board.

A hearing on purchase of the Updike Co. by the Grain Corporation is to be held by the board of trade April 19.

Unable to gain membership itself because of a board of trade rule barring all corporations, the Farmers National last year bought Updike admittedly to gain trading privileges which Updike held because it was a member of the clearing house before the rule became operative in April, 1929. The board of trade thereupon undertook an investigation of the purchase.

Carey called the complaint of Farmers National an example of "beaurocratic insincerity" and declared the rule barred not only the Grain Corporation, but all corporations on the theory that in case of failure the liability of officers and stockholders was limited.

He said if the requested revocation were granted it would close the board of trade.

The wheat area of the west half of Kansas and Nebraska, all of northwest Oklahoma and part of the Texas Panhandle were reported as showing up badly, and the Southeast as a whole was described as promising but a small crop at best this season.

COTTON ADVANCES ON TRADE'S BUYING

May Contracts Rise at Close to 6.29; Europe Is Reported Selling.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions, but prices firmed up again later on a renewal of trade buying and covering inspired by the advance in grain and the strength of the late stock market.

May contracts after selling off from 6.25 to 6.16 early, advanced to 6.30 in the late trading and closed at 6.29, with the general market closing steady at advances of 10 to 12 points.

Houses with Liverpool connections were moderate buyers here and there was some demand from the trade.

October closed at 6.73, about $2.00 per bale above the low price touched on last week's decline.

The report of the Census Bureau showing domestic consumption of 488,655 bales for the month of March against 490,509 last year was without apparent effect on the market, and the weather map attracted very little comment, although there were complaints that rains are needed in Texas. Cables from Shanghai said some of the Japanese mills in that section had resumed, with 60 per cent of the plants now running.

Liverpool cables reported continental selling in the early market there and said sales of cotton cloths and yarns were below production

Exports today were 22,136 bales, making 7,184,268 bales so far this season.

Players in Montgomery To Present Shaw Work

The Montgomery Players, little theater workshop of Montgomery County, Md., will present George Bernard Shaw's play, "You Never Can Tell," tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School. Membership in the players is drawn entirely from residents of the county, and it is supported by a list of several hundred county subscribers.

Ralph Fowler, of Chevy Chase, is director of the organization and has designed and supervised the construction of all sets used by the players. The cast of the play includes Doris Dewey Day, Maj. Lee Tillotson, Ralph Fowler, Anna Moore Converse, Ralph W. Smith, Elizabeth Moore, Stanley True, Capt. Guy Kinman, Julia De-Lashmutt and Carey Quinn.

In re: Condemnation of land for the extension and widening of the public alley in Square 4074, in the District of Columbia, District Court No. 2123. Notice and order of publication to property owners assessed for benefits. Notice is hereby given that the jury in the above entitled cause returned its verdict therein on the 8th day of February, 1932, and by said verdict assessed benefits against the following lands or parcels of lands, in the following amounts: Square 4074, Lots 151, 154.45; 150, 344.50; 152, $68.90; 142, $43.61; 141, 143.69; 140, 143.28; 139, 143.75; 138, 145.08; 137, 45.43; 136, 146.32; 135, 143.56; 134, 143.69; 133, $43.19; 812, $16.49; 142, 144.32; 125, 144.35; 124, 144.35; 124, 144.38; 123, $13.50; 805, $9.16; 804, $9.16; 803, $9.16; 802, $9.16; 801, $9.16; 800, $9.16; 807, $20.00; 144, $11.83; 145, $11.81; 146, $11.81. Therefore, it is this court this 12th day of April, 1932, ordered that objections or exceptions to said verdict of property owners assessed for benefits (no part of whose land was condemned in this proceeding) be filed in said cause on or before the 30TH DAY OF APRIL, 1932; otherwise said verdict will be finally ratified and confirmed upon application therefor by the petitioners in said cause: Provided, however, that a copy of this notice and order be published once in each The Washington Post, the Washington Herald and the Washington Evening Star, newspapers published in the District of Columbia, at least ten days before the said 30th day of April, 1932. By the Court: JOSEPH W. COX, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK R. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By GEORGE A. WATTS, Assistant Clerk. 15

AT SACRIFICE—Two fine lots with direct frontage on salt water; 30 miles from Washington; fine trees; hard-surfaced roads; electricity; $100; satisfactory terms. National 4955.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT to all persons who are considering the purchase this season, or in any way interested in WATER FRONT LOTS ON THE BAY. Within a short time an entirely new development will be placed on sale, offering property which has never before been equaled. Beautiful wide lots fronting directly on broad, sandy beaches at Chesapeake Bay afford unexcelled bathing, boating and fishing, yet they are only a short distance from the heart of Washington over hard-surfaced roads. These lots will be offered to purchasers at prices way below the lowest price thought possible for this kind of property. For those who secure reservations prior to the opening date, an exceptional arrangement will be offered. You will be able to secure lots fronting on the bay for one-half, or even a third, of regular prices. It will pay you to communicate with us at once. Box 80, Washington Post.

Have You Solved Your SALT WATER SUMMER HOME PROBLEM?

HOWELL HOME RAID BILL VOTE IS SLATED TODAY BY SENATORS

Controversial Measure Has Been Pigeonholed for Several Weeks.

PLAN IS NOT BELIEVED FAVORED BY PRESIDENT

Defeat in District Committee Was Seen in Early Poll of Sentiment.

The Howell "home raid" bill, making private District residences liable to search and liquor seizure, and endowing Metropolitan policemen with the powers of revenue agents, will be brought to a vote at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Senate District committee.

The bill has been quietly sleeping in a committee pigeonhole since the storm of comment it aroused at committee hearings weeks ago. A poll of committee sentiment following the hearings presaged defeat for the measure by a single vote, provided every member cast a ballot.

Bill Was Shelved.

Sensing an unfavorable report on his bill, Senator Howell, when the committee was about to bring the bill to a vote, stopped action by requesting the bill be placed on the Senate calendar without report, either favorable or unfavorable.

The committee later went into executive session. Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the committee, announced decision of the group to lay the bill aside "pending disposal of more important matters."

Although President Hoover recently recommended more stringent District prohibition enforcement, it was pointed out following the Howell bill hearings that Mr. Hoover favored a modified enforcement law similar to a revised draft of the Howell bill prepared by the Attorney General.

Would Require Evidence.

That Cabinet official opposed search and seizure provisions that would permit issuance of a warrant on suspicion that liquor is sold in a suspected establishment. Purchase of evidence would be required under the Department of Justice recommendations.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, who baited Mr. Howell and dry witnesses at the recent hearings, is expected to lead the fight against the measure this afternoon.

The committee also plans to consider reporting favorably a measure requiring taxicab operators in the District to take out liability insurance or post bond showing their ability to pay damages.

CATHEDRAL COUNCIL OF 30 IS APPOINTED TO DIRECT PROJECT

Future Growth of Structure on Mt. Alban in Hands of New Group.

OTHER DENOMINATIONS REPRESENTED ON BODY

Present Period Held Critical by Bishop in Viewing Committee's Tasks.

Future growth of Washington Cathedral will be under the direction of a cathedral council of 30 prominent church and laymen, it was announced last night by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, following the first meeting and dinner of the council in the College of Preachers refectory.

The council is composed of fifteen members of the Cathedral Chapter, of which Bishop Freeman is president, by virtue of his office, and fifteen other men selected from various walks of life, "because of their Christian character, experience and judgment."

The council will constitute a consultative body for all matters of administration in the growing work of the Cathedral foundation on Mount St. Alban, and it will assist the bishop and chapter in directing all activities of the Washington Cathedral enterprise as authorized under charter from Congress in 1893.

Standing Committees.

Members of the council will serve on standing committees of the cathedral foundation with members of the chapter. These committees will deal with the following: The College of Preachers; the National Cathedral School for Girls, St. Alban's; the National Cathedral School for Boys, finance, building, public relations and publications, monuments and memorials, cathedral library and grounds or landscape development of Mount St. Alban, which comprises 67½ acres.

In announcing the council and its personnel, Bishop Freeman observed that its formulation "gives fresh emphasis to what we believe this Cathedral is to be in the life of both the church and the State. A work as large and as comprehensive as that we have in hand calls for and demands the highest intelligence, the best statesmanship and the finest Christian zeal," he said.

"The task that confronts us, especially at this critical period in the Nation's life, is a fascinating and compelling one," he added.

The fields of theology, education, architecture, journalism, business, public service and the Christian church at large are represented in the Cathedral appointments, eight of whom are from Washington. Four of the members are identified with church affiliations other than the Protestant Episcopal Church.

New Members Listed.

The new members, in addition to the Cathedral Chapter, are: The Rev. William Adams Brown, D. D., of New York City; the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, D. D., canon of Washington Cathedral; Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania; James R. Mott, LL. D., Methodist layman; Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Warren P. Laird, of Philadelphia; James Sheldon, of New York; Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism; Alexander B. Trowbridge, Washington architect; Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, of Washington; Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank; Newbold Noyes, of Washington; the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips, D. D., chaplain of the United States Senate; Coleman Jennings, president of Associated Charities and founder of Toc-H in this country, and C. F. R. Ogilby, Washington attorney.

Members of the chapter are: Bishop Freeman, the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, D. D., dean of Washington Cathedral; the Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, D. D., former Bishop of Pennsylvania and Warden of the College of Preachers in Washington Cathedral; the Rev. William L. DeVries, Ph. D., D. D., S. T. D., canon and preceptor of the Cathedral; the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, D. D., canon and chancellor of the Cathedral; the Rev. Robert Johnston, D. D., rector of St. John's Church; Charles C. Glover, Dr. William S. Rives, Corcoran Thom, president American Security & Trust Co.; Dr. William Holland Wilmer, of Baltimore; former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania; Gen. John J. Pershing, Undersecretary of State William R. Castle and Alanson B. Houghton, former United States Ambassador to England and Germany.

DETECTIVE IS FREED OF BEATING CHARGE; JURY OUT ONLY HOUR

ALIBI OF BEING ABSENT IS UPHELD BY JURYMEN

Tenth Precinct Official Was One of Men Indicted Last Fall.

Robert L. Jones, precinct detective of the Tenth Precinct, who was suspended last October when the District grand jury indicted him for alleged simple assault upon Robert Gibbs, colored, was exonerated yesterday by a verdict in the court of Justice F. D. Letts, returned after an hour of deliberation.

Today police authorities will formally take steps to reinstate Jones to active duty and to pay him in full for the time that he has been suspended.

Absence Is Alibi.

Through Attorneys James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett, Jones proved, through the medium of an alibi, that he was not in the Tenth Precinct Station House when Gibbs alleged he was beaten and kicked on August 14 and 15 of last year.

At the time Gibbs said he was receiving mistreatment from Jones the detective was out of the station house interviewing complainants interested in other cases.

Denied He Kicked Man.

In his own behalf Jones, whose left arm is virtually useless through an accident in which it was broken in three places in 1928, denied that he had struck and kicked Gibbs.

The indictment of Jones came in the general grand jury investigation of alleged police brutality here last fall. He was indicted in October. The not-guilty verdict will automatically restore him to active duty.

CORNET MAY LOSE ITS PLACE IN BAND

Replacement of Instrument Discussed by Leaders at Willard Meeting.

Problems of universal instrumentation, the replacement of the cornet as a standard band instrument and the importance of the school band movement were among the subjects which occupied the attention of the American Bandmasters Association at the Willard yesterday.

Such notables in the music world as Edwin F. Goldman, leader of the Goldman Band; Arthur Pryor, Lieut. Charles Benter, leader of the Navy Band, and Capt. Charles O'Neill, Canadian bandmaster, were among those at the third annual convention of the association.

The session today and tomorrow will be devoted to business sessions and technical discussions of band music. The association will adjourn Saturday and will sponsor a concert by the three service bands in Constitution Hall, honoring John Philip Sousa, late honorary president, on Sunday evening.

An outstanding achievement of the organization, as reported yesterday by Peter Buys, leader of the Hagerstown (Md.) Band, is that general band instrumentation had been accepted throughout the United States and that Europe was responding to the appeal for universal instrumentation which would put the concert band on the same basis as the symphony orchestra.

The bandmasters will be the guests of the National Press Club tonight at a dinner in the auditorium. The Navy Band will play, led by Lieut. Benter and by Pryor, Goldman and others, in interpretations of Sousa's famous marches.

Bands Are Suggested To Rid City of Crime

Maybe it will be sort of a Pied Piper arrangement with martial brass, the pipe, and Washington's criminals, the outward bound processional of rats.

In any event, Edwin F. Goldman, president of the American Bandmasters Association, volunteered a musical plan for ridding the city of its demi-monds to Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police.

Glassford had jokingly voiced the wish that the bandmasters use their influence to reform the "bandmasters of crime."

"Band music," replied Goldman, "has been proven to banish criminal tendencies. I will be glad to give the superintendent a plan whereby bands of music will help rid the Capital of lawless bands."

It happened at the luncheon of the Kiwanis Club at the Raleigh Hotel yesterday when Glassford welcomed the visiting bandmasters on behalf of the club.

DIPLOMAS ARE GIVEN TO 14 GREY LADIES

Group Completes Training Course in Red Cross Work at Walter Reed.

Diplomas were presented yesterday to fourteen young women who completed the hospital training course for the Gray Ladies of the Walter Reed Unit of the American Red Cross.

The ceremonies were held in the Red Cross Building at the Hospital and the diplomas were handed the graduates by Col. Albert E. Trudy, commandant of the Army Medical School.

The surgeon general of the United States Army, Maj. Gen. Robert U. Patterson, delivered the graduation address, after being introduced by Col. Philip W. Huntington, assistant commandant of the Medical School.

Pins were presented to the graduates by Mrs. Henry D. Rea, first field director of the American Red Cross. The Thirteenth Engineers Orchestra furnished music.

The graduates are: Shirley Randolph Barr, Jule Striben Daniels, Margaret Marie Ferry, Louise D. Finley, Virginia Langdon Forward, Barendina Gardener, Carry P. Hill, Caroline Lowman, Margaret Nott Remsen, Bida Estelle Sherburne, Beta Triester, Jannie De J. Troxel, Ethel Tilson Warren and Elizabeth Stevenson Hall.

2 APARTMENTS SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Harvard Hall and Valley Vista Acquired by Trust Holders.

Two apartment buildings, Harvard Hall at 1650 Harvard street northwest, and the Valley Vista, 2032 Belmont street northwest, were sold at auction yesterday to Miss Doris N. Wolf, representing second trustholders, for $800,000 and $810,000 respectively. The sale price included first trusts of $750,000, the actual bids being $50,000 and $60,000 respectively. Only one bid was offered in each instance. Vernon G. Owen was the auctioneer. The properties were advertised by John A. Eckert and Arthur G. Bishop.

Harvard Hall was erected in 1928 and the Valley Vista in 1927. William S. Phillips was the builder and original owner of both, and Louis Justement the architect. Both are six-story buildings. The former's original estimated cost was $1,100,000 and the latter's, $750,000. Current assessed valuation of the first is $832,574, of which $32,574 is for land and $800,000 for building, while that of the second is $823,887, of which $48,787 represents land and $775,100, building.

Harvard Hall contains 150 apartments and has a width of 223 feet, a depth of 200 feet and an area of 38,415 square feet. The Valley Vista contains 168 apartments, an area of 35,557 square feet. Its width extends from 292 to 395 feet and its depth from 90 to 165 feet. Both are of brick, stone and reinforced concrete construction. Subsequent owners are listed as Harvard Hall and Valley Vista Apartment House Co.'s, Inc., respectively.

Y. W. C. A. Opens Drive For 3,000 New Members

The Young Women's Christian Association opened its campaign for new members yesterday when 32 organized teams of 10 or more women each heard addresses by Mrs. William Adams Slade, president; Mrs. William Craig Peacock, chairman of the drive, and others.

With precampaign enrollments numbering 100, it is hoped that the goal of 3,000 will be attained. Girl Reserves also will carry on a drive. Special meetings of the team will be held on April 18, 19, 20 and 21 on the roof of Barker Hall.

Embassy Secretary to Speak.

Dr. Enrique Jaimenez, private secretary to the Mexican Ambassador, spoke last night in Spanish and English before Spanish-language students of George Washington University and teachers of Washington schools. The talk was given at El Club Espanol.

BOY BADLY BURNED IN TENDING FURNACE

Neighbor Also Injured in Extinguishing Flames After Blast.

A household chore, daily performed in every home, may cost the life of a 16-year-old boy.

Charles McDonald stopped suddenly in the midst of his play last night and hurried to his home at 3002 Twelfth street northeast, in answer to his mother's summons. As he arrived breathlessly at the doorstep, his mother said:

"Charles, the furnace is out. Please build a fire so the house will be warm when father comes home from work."

The boy hurried to obey. He disappeared down the cellar steps. His mother upstairs heard the sounds of breaking wood and the scrape of a shovel in the coal bin. All was quiet, then suddenly a loud explosion. Charles ran screaming from the basement door—his clothes a mass of flames.

Man Puts Out Flames.

Into a nearby alley the panic-stricken youth fled. His screams and cries of pain aroused the neighborhood. Residents of the community rushed from their homes. Charles ran through the alley, and almost a block away on Hamlin street, was found writhing on the ground.

Robert H. Clark, 46 years old, was leaving the front porch of his home, 1019 Hamlin street. He saw Charles, his clothes ablaze, and rushed to his aid. With his bare hands Clarks attempted to beat out the blaze. He rolled the boy over and over on the ground until the fire was extinguished.

Meanwhile, some one turned in a fire alarm. Engines screeched to the scene. The small blaze in the basement of the MacDonald home was quickly put out and Charles was taken to Garfield Hospital in a neighbor's machine. Fremen said a can of kerosene had exploded.

Physicians eased his pain in every way possible. Charles, tears streaming down his face, temporarily forgot his seared body and thought only of the possibility of being spanked for burning the basement.

Suffers Severe Burns.

Clark was taken to Sibley Hospital by the fire rescue squad. It was found he suffered severe burns to his right hand and left leg. He returned home after first-aid treatment.

Doctors at Garfield said Charles' condition was "only fair." He received first and second degree burns to his body, arms and hands.

Charles Ernest MacDonald, the boy's father, was called from his work at the Soldiers' Home. About seventeen years ago, he said, his baby daughter was burned to death when her dress ignited from a gas stove.

Charles, who is in the seventh grade at the Abbott School, is the third child in the family. His sister, Mrs. Dorothy Pumphrey, lives in Takoma Park, Md.

PARENTS HALT SUIT OVER EVANS CHILD

Mother to Have Possession for Nine Months in Year, Husband 3 Months.

A compromise agreement yesterday brought an end to the court troubles of Robert S. Evans and his former wife, now Mrs. Anne S. Hurst, wife of Carlton Hurst, American consul at Nogales, Mexico, just as Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court was preparing to resume hearings on Mrs. Hurst's suit to regain custody of her 9-year-old son, Hawley Evans.

The agreement, according to Attorneys T. M. Wampler, Joseph Turco and John S. Barbour, the latter representing Mr. Evans, provided that Hawley and his sister, Sylvia A. Evans, should be retained by Mrs. Hurst nine months of each year, with their father having possession of them the other three.

Mrs. Hurst, the daughter of Baroness de Sopron, of Paris, was automatically released from a writ that required her to remain here when her first husband dropped his suit which was filed Monday. That suit sought a dissolution of her second marriage and custody of the children, and it required Mrs. Hurst to post a bond to guarantee her presence within the local jurisdiction.

Under the requirement that she stay here, Mrs. Hurst was in technical custody for an entire day, until she was released on a writ of habeas corpus. Justice Jesse C. Adkins, who signed the habeas corpus, permitted her freedom on a $1,000 bond.

McKeever Heads Reciprocity Club

Other Officers Also Named. Reports Show Progress of Last Year.

The annual election of officers of the Washington Reciprocity Club was held last night at the Mayflower Hotel. The following were elected: J. A. McKeever, president; Ralph Bangs, vice president; J. Roger Yates, secretary; Dr. Samuel Hilton, treasurer.

Board of directors: George C. Cook, Louis Curry, Dr. H. F. Davies, Robert B. Doing, Dr. Joseph P. W. Elward, W. H. Hessick, jr., William Wright. Reports from committee chairmen showed much progress had been made during the year under leadership of Arthur Clarendon Smith, a charter member and the club's first president.

The guest speaker, Col. George W. Laird, talked on the advantages of reciprocity. Several selections were given by John H. Duffy, barytone former light opera star, and Joan Marr, well-known Chicago soprano.

Culbertson to Aid In Play of Hands

Press Club to Be Host at Luncheon for Bridge Lecturer.

Hands especially selected, from the recent Culbertson-Lenz match in New York will be one of the features of the lecture which the famous bridge expert, Ely Culbertson, will give at Constitution Hall tomorrow evening. A sealed envelope giving the actual bidding and playing of each hand as played by the experts will be distributed to the audience so that all may be participating players. The lecture proper will cover bidding valuation of the hand, partnership language in bidding, play of the dummy, defensive play against dummy, leads, echoes and signals.

Thomas W. Brahany will act as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Culbertson, who arrives in Washington this morning for his only public appearance on the lecture platform this season, will be received by the President at noon. Later he will be the guest at luncheon at the Press Club, followed by a demonstration and several rubbers of contract with a few of the club's crack players. In the evening Mr. Culbertson will be the guest of honor at a dinner at the Shoreham given by the Washington Bridge Teachers Association.

Taxi Bandits Steal Cab; Driver's Plea Saves Cash

Three youthful taxi holdup men last night took a taxicab, but refused to take the driver's money when he told them he had little more than a dollar and that he was married. They told the driver, R. B. Chandler, 810 Twelfth street northwest, they would leave his cab at Wheaton, Md., later in the night.

The youths engaged the cab on New Jersey avenue, in Washington, and told the driver to take them to Kensington. On the road between Wheaton and Kensington they halted him and told him to hand over his cash, only to be met with the hard luck story. Montgomery County police sent out a lookout for the cab and the men.

Doctor Is Bonded On Narcotic Count

Dr. G. W. Warren Accused; Two Other Men Held for Investigation.

Pending a hearing before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, Dr. George Walter Warren, 68, was released on $2,000 bond yesterday after his arrest on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Detective Sergts. R. A. Sanders and D. H. Jones, working with the Federal narcotic agents, have been investigating the physician's activities for the last three months.

Two other men were booked for investigation in connection with the charges against the physician. While these men were still being held last night, it was indicated no charges would be placed against them. Dr. Warren's address was given as 1212 H street northeast, where he maintains his offices.

6 Youths Arrested In Robbery Series

60 Thefts in Three Parts of City Are Believed to Be Involved.

Threescore recent housebreakings in the Northeast, Southeast and Southwest areas of the city were believed cleared up with the arrest early yesterday of six youths.

Taking into custody of the group climaxed an investigation of several weeks by Headquarters Detective Sergts. Howard P. Ogle and Thomas Nally and Fourth Precinct Police Detective W. S. Beck. No formal charges have yet been listed against those held, pending further investigation of their activities.

The youths arrested are William Edward Beall, 19, of 641 Fourteenth street northeast; Charles C. Sinclair, 17, of 317 Third street southeast; Robert Burgess, 17, of 612 O street northwest; Walter Turk, 18, of 2004 Perry street northeast; James W. Wilkinson, 19, of 318 B street southeast, and Raymond Johnson, 15, of 138 C street southeast.

Show for Soldiers Tonight.

The minstrel-operetta, "Songland's Romance," will be presented tonight in the Soldiers' Home Hospital by the War Veterans Apollo Club. The cast of more than 100, is headed by Judge Robert E. Mattingly.

Norwegian Viking Ship Due To Arrive Here Tomorrow

A Norwegian Viking ship, Roald Amundsen, named after the famous explorer, will arrive tomorrow afternoon in Washington and dock at the upstream pier at the Municipal Fish Market.

The ship is a single masted craft, replica of the vessel on which Leif Erikson conquered the Atlantic for the first time in history in the year 1000. It is captained by Gerhard Folgeroe, and left Norway in 1929, visiting different countries in Europe before crossing the Atlantic.

Following the route of Columbus the Roald Amundsen, after a journey of 59 days, arrived in Havana in April, 1930, and from there sailed to Miami, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Pensacola, Mobile, New Orleans and thence up the Mississippi River as far as Minneapolis. After its visit here, the ship is expected again to cross the Atlantic on its return voyage to Norway via Iceland. A total of 22,000 miles has been covered by the vessel so far.

Friction Ignites Floor, Causing Slight Damage

Spontaneous combustion was given as the cause of a fire which slightly damaged a residence at 1231 Shepherd street northwest, late yesterday afternoon. Julian Goode was polishing the floors of the house with gasoline. Friction from hard rubbing caused the gasoline to ignite and set the floor ablaze, according to firemen.

The fire was smothered with slight damage. Goode was uninjured.

Man, 68, Is Victim Of Hit-Run Driver

Northwest Resident Taken to Hospital; Condition Is Serious.

A hit-and-run driver last night left Lorenz Meinberg, 68 years old, of 1126 Morse street northeast, lying in the street at West Virginia avenue and Eight street northeast, severely injured.

The elderly man was crossing at that intersection when a speeding black sedan, being driven east on West Virginia avenue, by a colored man struck him and hurled him to the pavement. Mr. Meinberg was struck a glancing blow, according to the lone witness of the accident, and the sedan's right front headlight was smashed.

Mr. Meinberg was taken to Casualty Hospital. He had a severe brain concussion and a fracture of the right arm and left leg. His condition was described as serious.

Maj. Spingarn Is Guest At Howard Club Dinner

He was received as a literary critic and as donor of the Spingarn medal award of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, and spoke on "What Literature Is."

Dr. Benjamin Brawley, of Howard University, was toastmaster. Others who spoke were Alain Leroy Locke, Dean Kelly Miller, Lafayette M. Hershaw, Dean Lucy D. Slowe and Mrs. Carrie W. Clifford.

Tricks Fly Fast as Society Of Magicians Meets Here

The hand is still quicker than the eye. So much so that when magicians get together in a group fool each other. The local branch of the Society of American Magicians gathered last night at the Occidental Hotel and spent a happy hour pulling playing cards from one another's pockets and making coins disappear.

The chief magician of the Washington branch is a lawyer. He is Judge William J. Hughes, special assistant to the Attorney General, and as president of the society supervised the feats of legerdemain last night.

The magicians gathered first in a session at which only the initiate are admitted. Here they explained those feats they desired to share with their brothers. However, some of the best tricks they kept to themselves, and when they were exhibited in open meeting a few moments later only their originators could see through them. Isaac B. Twamley, of Baltimore, at 84, is the oldest active magician. He proved last night that he has lost none of his cunning.

The Society of American Magicians has assemblages in 24 cities and the local one, organized about a year ago, is composed of 26 members, both amateur and professional.
